POLICE HOLD CARPENTER AS BAKER SUSPECT

William St. Clair Will Be Seen by Witnesses of Mall Attack.

ARREST LAID TO TALK OF MURDER AT PARTY

Prisoner Is Said to Have Declared He Knew Slayer's Name.

PALM PRINTS UNLIKE ONE ON GIRL'S AUTO

Release Predicted Should Identity as Woman's Assailant Fail.

William Gordon St. Clair, nattily dressed carpenter, was arrested late yesterday afternoon by Detective Sergts. John Flaherty and Carlton Talley as a suspect in the Mary Baker murder case.

St. Clair's arrest became known last night when he was taken to the Bertillon room at police headquarters to have a palm print taken so that a comparison between his palm and the one found on Mary Baker's car might be made. Detectives later announced that there was no similarity between the two prints.

Further Inquiry Ordered.

The holding of St. Clair for further investigation was ordered by Detective Flaherty, chief of the homicide squad, and the man was taken to the Sixth Precinct station house, where a technical charge of investigation was placed opposite his name. Several persons who witnessed the attack on Mary Baker in her small sedan, in the Mall will be called to police headquarters today to look at St. Clair. Should they fail to identify him, he will be released, police said.

Detectives do not place much faith in the culpability of the carpenter. They declare he was arrested as a result of his own loquaciousness at a party Saturday night. To other members of the party he is alleged to have confided that he knew Mary Baker and that he knew who killed her. Further, a note he is said to have written contained the information that he knew Miss baker's slayer.

Denies Making Statements.

All these statements St. Clair denies making, and the detectives who questioned him at length are inclined to the belief that while he might have uttered them, he did so in a spirit of geniality that seems to mark present day parties.

St. Clair is 34 years old, and is employed as a carpenter on the government buildings in the Department of Agriculture grounds. He is about 5 feet, 10 inches tall, weighs about 150 pounds, and has a well kept moustache. e wore a light gray cap, dark overcoat and eyeglasses when he appeared at eadquarters last night. His home, he said, is on Grant place northwest, near Tenth street.

In recounting his actions on the day of Mary Baker's murder, St. Clair said he was in Ann Arbor, Mich., and could prove by reliable people that he was in that city. He said that when he came to this city he got a job as a carpenter, and that his only knowledge of the case was gained through the newspapers.

Said to Have Told Alibi.

According to roomers at the Grant place address, St. Clair said he knew he was being considered a Baker suspect and discussed his alibi with others. St. Clair lived in Grant place for some time prior to October, 1929, when he left, it is said. He returned October of this year. He told other occupants of the house he had been working in Ann Arbor, Mich., during the year. He is said to have exhibited

CHILD HEALTH EXPERTS IN CLASH

Miss Grace Abbott, head of the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor, and Dr. Haven Emerson, of New York (Harris & Ewing), who clashed yesterday during the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection over Dr. Emerson's proposal to transfer Federal child health activities from the Labor Department to the Public Health Service.

NAVAL LIMITATION DRAFT COMPLETED

Commission at Geneva Puts Principle of Budgetary Control in Plan.

U. S. OPPOSITION FUTILE

Geneva, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—The preparatory disarmament commission, in a surprising burst of speed, completed today its naval limitation draft, incorporating the principle of budgetary control.

This proposal, submitted by Lord Cecil, of Great Britain, was adopted over the objection of the United States, which favors direct limitation, and over that of Japan and France, who are opposed to superimposing budgetary control on direct limitation already indorsed by the great naval powers.

Lord Cecil, in recalling his earlier declaration that his country could not agree to naval budgetary limitation unless it also was accepted by other great sea powers, expressed hope that some compromise formula might be found before the convening of the general conference, which would enable the United States and Japan to enter this scheme.

The proposal was adopted by the votes of Great Britain, Canada, Russia, Ireland, Norway, Persia, Finland, Italy, Roumania and Holland. Opposed were the United States, France and Japan.

In concluding its naval draft today, the commission took over in the main the details of the Washington and London pacts, as well as the fundamental provision of the Washington agreement for limiting aircraft carriers.

Figures contained in these two treaties were left in the commission's general draft, as indicative of what already had been done by the big sea powers.

Maxim Litvinoff, chief Russian delegate, hammered tirelessly at a number of these provisions in an effort to introduce lower figures, but in all cases he was unsuccessful.

He also tried, unsuccessfully, to remove from the draft permission for merchant ships to strengthen their decks for the mounting of 6-inch guns. In a determined effort to disarm merchant ships he gained the support of Turkey, Norway, Persia and Finland, but was downed by the votes of the United States, Great Britain, Japan, Italy and five others. France abstained from voting.

"The essential argument for arming merchant ships," he said, "is that they require guns to fight submarines.

"Section 2 of the Treaty of Washington, however, provides that submarines are not excused from the general rule and if unable to cap-

NEW ELECTRIC RATE MAY BE RECORD LOW

Prospective 4 Cents Per Kilowatt Hour Would Set National Mark.

DISPUTE DELAYS ACTION

Washington probably will pay not more than 4 cents a kilowatt hour for its electricity next year, the lowest rate of any city in the country, it appeared at the conclusion of a session yesterday between officials of the Potomac Electric Power Co. and the Public Utolities Commission.

The exact rate to be charged will not be determined until after the company and the commission are able to come to some agreement on four disputed points which still appear a long way from settlement. However, another conference has been called for today, when it is hoped some compromise may be effected.

The basis of the entire contention is the figure to be accepted as fair valuation of the company. Under a consent decree found by the District Supreme Court in 1924, the company is permitted to retain half of all profits in excess of 7½ per cent of its fair valuation and must return the other half to its customers in the form of rate reductions for the following year.

The company insists upon being permitted to figure into its fair valuation the entire cost of its new plant in the Benning section, but the commission opposes this, since the plant is not yet in operation. The company also wants to deduct as operating expenses the items of interest during construction and Federal income taxes, which the commission also opposes.

Fourth of the bones of contention is the amount at which the old building and plant of the company at Fourteenth and B streets is to be retired, the property having been bought by the Federal Government in its building program.

The company contends that the value of the property has depreciated and that it should be marked off at the lower figures. The commission, on the other hand, holds that the value has appreciated, but is understood to be willing to compromise by permitting the company to retire the property at cost.

Every dollar the company is able to add to its fair value means a proportionate increase in the allowed profits and a corresponding slice in the excess which must be returned to the public. Each year the company has been cutting its rates more and more, as required by the consent decree, but as rates have declined business has increased and profits have grown.

The rate in 1929 was 5.2 cents. This was cut half a cent last year

DAVIS GIVES EULOGY OF BUREAU'S WORK

Secretary of Labor Advises Delegates to Translate Studies Into Action.

The White House Conference on Child Welfare, through its committee on procedure, rallied quickly to prevent recurrences of internal squabbles such as that which had marred yesterday morning's meeting of the committee on public health organization. Last night the procedure group issued a statement to the effect that points on which agreement can not be reached by the conference will be taken up by the President's continuation committee, for settlement after the conference has adjourned.

That internal dissentions are not impossible in the deliberations of so large a body was expressed by Mr. Hoover in his address to the conference Wednesday night, and later emphasized by Secretary of the Interior Wilbur. The committee on procedure likewise was prepared for such a contingency, in view of its prompt meeting yesterday and the issuance of its placating statement.

Harmonizing Important.

The procedure group, to which has been added Mrs. Ada de Acosta Breckinridge, stated that "Child Health and Protection" is regarded by the leaders of the conference as important enough to justify any amount of time and effort to harmonize any varying points of view.

Yesterday's brisk skirmish came during a meeting of the committee on public health organization. A subcommittee headed by Dr. Haven Emerson, of New York, brought in a report recommending that Federal supervision of child health be transferred from the Children's Bureau, in the Department of Labor, to the Public Health Service. Immediately Miss Grace Abbott, head of the bureau, rose and presented a minority report.

Women in all parts of the small basement room in the Red Cross Building joined in Miss Abbott's protest. Telegrams from twelve women's organizations and from physicians in many parts of the country were read.

Accused of Unfairness.

Dr. Emerson was accused of unfairness in bringing up his subcommittee's report after the findings of the whole committee had been published. He countered that the prior report was premature and that certain items were to be changed or omitted. At one point in the discussion Dr. Emerson alluded to remarks by Miss Abbott as "malicious, mischievous misstatement of fact."

Eventually the committee adopted three resolutions backing Miss Abbott's stand. It was pointed out that delegates not members of the committee had participated in the voting.

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, in his address to the delegates during the morning, expressed appreciation of the Children's Bureau's work.

"The Children's Bureau," he said, "has on its staff specialists in all these fields and we have been espe-

INDIA WARNED NOT TO EXPECT SELF-RULE NOW

Dominion Status Is Only Ultimate Goal, Says Lord Reading.

MACDONALD'S POLICY ADDRESS WITHHELD

Native Woman's Fervid Appeal Wins Plaudits of Listeners.

FORMER PRO-ENGLISH AID JOINS OPPOSITION

Sastri for Federation Plan; Speaker for 43,000,000 Pariahs Backs Move.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, Nov. 20 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The all-India conference was submerged today under a flow oratory, nineteen speakers presenting their views at the plenary session in St James' Palace. As a result, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's pronouncement of policy, or lack of policy, prepared after two cabinet meetings, has been postponed until tomorrow.

The most colorful incident today was an address by the first woman delegate to speak, the Begum Shah Nawaz, a striking and handsome young woman with a pale-blue hari edged with silver embroidery wound around her slender figure and a great four-leafed ornament of diamonds glistening in the address about her raven hair. After she had pleaded "on behalf of the womanhood of India" for federal status for her native land, Mr. MacDonald, the Maharajah of Patiala, Chancellor of the chamber of Indian Princes; Wedgwood Benn, secretary of state for India, and others sent her notes of congratulation.

The most important event today was a warning from the Marquis of Reading, former viceroy and a Liberal leader, that India must regard dominion status only as an ultimate goal, not as something to be attained at once. This warning greatly annoyed most of the Indian delegates, although expressed with greater suavity and tacth than the irritating negative to their aspirations addressed to the Indians Tuesday by Lord Peel, former secretary of state for India, a diehard Tory.

Defines Dominion Status.

Lord Reading declared history is being made here; that no one before this conference opened could dream of its importance, and went on to define "that vague term, dominion status," as meaning "a status equal to that of other dominions withinn the empire." Then, after accepting that status as "the goal we seek to reach," he threw down his challenge.

"It is idle," said Lord Reading, "to say that at this moment there could be anything like equality of status—that is constitutional status—between India and the dominions." Parliament, not this conference, he warned the delegates, must in the last resort decide India's future.

"This conference has done one great thing," he said. "It has established the principle of federalism." But in closing he warned the conference, "we are dealing only with the principle."

At the close of the long day of speechmaking the conference decided that a federal relations committee shall be appointed, but this was agreed to only after Premier MacDonald, chairman of the conference, had stated that discussions could

CORONER SAYS NURMI WAS MURDERED AND SUICIDE IMPROBABLE

Lack of Powder Burns Shows Bullet Fired From Distance.

TWO CHUMS GRILLED, PROTEST INNOCENCE

Victim, Cousin of Famous Runner, Often Pondered on Death, Friend Says.

U. S. CLERK SKETCHES LIFE OF COWORKER

Admiral Schopenhauer and Often Debated Gun Choice for Self-Destruction.

Aarvi Nurmi, 26-year-old Census Bureau clerk and second cousin of the famous Finnish runner, Paavo Nurmi, found dead after a liquor party with two companions Wednesday night at his home at 102 Grant avenue in Takoma Park, was murdered, in the belief of authorities.

An autopsy conducted yesterday afternoon in Rockville, Md., by Dr. William T. Pratt, Montgomery County corner, reported that the bullet which killed Nurmi could not have been self inflicted. In the face of this opinion, fellow Census Bureau employes recalled that Nurmi, an ardent admirer of Schopenhauer, often had discussed his consideration of suicide.

"In examining the body there were no powder burns and the wound in the head was clean," Dr Pratt announced. "This would indicate that the bullet had been fired from a distance. Had the bullet been fired by Nurmi or in close proximity to his head the wound would have been more jagged and the flesh lacerated."

Grilling Is Abandoned.

Simultaneous with the autopsy report, State's Attorney Robert B. Peter, jr., at the Rockville courthouse began the questioning of Nurmi's two companions, Henry W McGuire, 29 years old, a fellow clerk in the Census Bureau, of Columbia road near Fourteenth street northwest, and John J. O'Brien, 26 years old, of Chapin stregt near Fifteenth street northwest, who said he was unemployed. Both were taken in custody for investigation shortly after the slaying, and have stoutly maintained their innocence.

The questioning was abandoned when the men declared that their attorneys, Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, former State's attorney, and Kenneth Lyddane, both of Rockville, had advised against further answers to police.

Capt. Cissel and Attorney Lyddane last night were not certain they would represent the men. Capt. Cissel declared that he would not undertake the defense unless he was certain of the innocence of the men. He had been in conference with McGuire before the State's attorney was released from service in circuit court, where he was trying cases.

Pistol Is Identified.

"The bullet entered the right side of the head 1 inch above and 1 inch behind the ear," the autopsy report stated. "It fractured the skull and imbedded itself on the left side of the skull. Death was caused by a 25-caliber pistol which was found close to the man's head."

The pistol yesterday was tentatively identified as owned by Nurmi. Sergt. Earl H. Burdine, of the Takoma Park Substation of Montgomery County Police, advised Police Chief Albie A. Moxley that he had located a shop in Washington where Nurmi had bought the pistol. The shop's proprietor, Sergt. Burdine added, said that it had been bought by a man 6 feet tall. Nurmi was 6 feet 4 inches tall. A scrutiny of the weapon by Washington police experts failed to reveal any fingerprints.

Summoned to the Nurmi home on a telephone call from McGuire and O'Brien, County Policeman Theodore Maybe Growers Called in Capone Just to Help Wine-to-Be Sales.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Behind the guarded statements, with which official Washington has sought the last few days to deal with this business of Al Capone's threatening the California "wine growers," is the definite conviction that it is the greatest publicity hoax that has been put over in this country in a long time. And it is beginning to get on the official nerves.

It is, in fact, just about the climax of the harassment the officials have suffered at the hands of that creature of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, the California fermentable grape industry.

First, the Farm Board was coaxed into financing it.

Then, on the strength of this and an understanding of the Government's future policy, the wine growers launched upon a bold, Nation-wide advertising campaign claiming they were under Government protection.

On the question of just what assurance they were given that their

$50,000,000 ASKED FOR DROUGHT RELIEF

Speeded Road Work Along With Seed and Feed Loans Seen as Needed Aid.

STATES ADVANCE PLAN

(Associated Press.)

Resolutions urging the next Congress to appropriate $50,000,000 for highway construction in drought States, and to authorize loans for seed, fertilizer and live stock feed, were adopted last night by representatives of more than a score of State drought relief committees and the national drought committee.

The highway resolution called upon Congress to appropriate the $50,000,000 without requiring the States to match the fund dollar for dollar at the time the distribution is made.

The portion to be borne by the State would be repaid to the Government by an annual deduction from the normal Federal road appropriation, over a period of ten years.

Earlier in the day the delegates to the drought conference received word from Dr. C. W. Warburton, secretary of the national committee, that Congress would be asked to make the $125,000,000 allotted for Federal aid in road construction in 1932 available immediately on enactment on the Agriculture Department's supply bill.

Favorable action would make the money available probably before March 4, when the short session ends, rather than on July 1, the beginning of the next fiscal year. This would aid those drought States that have speeded highway construction to provide employment for farmers affected by the 1930 drought. Funds were allocated to the States early this year to permit them to make contracts in anticipation of the amounts they would receive.

The conference also urged liberal contributions to the American Red Cross to enable that organization to

DRY FORCES UNITE FOR NEW CRUSADE

RABBIS ENTER PROTEST

(Associated Press.)

The plans of the organized dry forces to act for an immediate tightening of their machinery and for the holding of a series of joint meetings here in the coming weeks became known yesterday while Federal prohibition chiefs again were considering a phase of the enforcement question—wine.

Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of industrial alcohol, listened for some time to a group of New York rabbis, who laid before him a plan for securing sacramental wine on a quota basis to remedy complaints they brought against the present system.

Meanwhile, in an office only a few feet away, Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock made clear that he had taken no action so far against the much-discussed sale of grape concentrates capable of being made into wine. He told newspaper men that he contemplated none either, except as his agents of their own volition lay before him cases in which intent to violate the law is shown.

In discussing the plans of the temperance organizations for strengthening their cause, dry leaders here made known that "lengthy private conferences" already have been held in various cities between business men and representatives of the dry organizations.

On December 10, shortly after the coming session of Congress gets under way, a general conference of organizatoins supporting the eighteenth amendment will be held near the Capitol. Also it is planned to convene a national temperance council, composed of individuals favoring prohibition, December 9 and 10. In addition, the Methodist Board of Tem-

$550 Rings Lost To Sidewalk Thief

Man Brushes Past Woman, Rushes to Car and Speeds Off With Purse.

A purse snatcher who made good his escape with a confederate who was waiting nearby in an automobile yesterday afternoon robbed Mrs. Edna Crowder, 1446 N street northwest, of two rings valued at $550, a vanity case, and $3 in cash as she was walking on Connecticut avenue near Dupont Circle.

Mrs. Crowder reported that as she walked north on the avenue a man brushed past her, walked rapidly ahead, and got into an automobile, which sped away. Suddenly she missed her purse, which she believes was snatched from her arm by this man.

She reported the incident to police of the Third Precinct, giving them a description of the man, who wore a dark overcoat and derby hat. She was unable to furnish license tag numbers of the car.

Royalists at Budapest Hail Exiled Otto, 18, as 'King'

Count Apponyi Counsels Brilliant Old Regime Assemblage Against Restoration Effort Now; Legitimists Greet Prince on Birthday at Belgian Castle.

Budapest, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—One thousand adherents of the old Austro-Hungarian dual monarchy met at a brilliant banquet table here tonight and agreed the young Prince Otto of the House of Hapsburg, who reached his eighteenth birthday in Belgium today, should occupy the Hungarian throne.

The principal speaker was Count Albert Apponyi, veteran statesman, who declared Otto was the one person entitled to the throne and to restore peace, liberty and equality in the country.

At the same time he warned this was not the moment to attempt restoration, as trouble both abroad and at home might result if such a move were attempted now. He added, however, that the legitimists would do everything possible to smooth the path of the monarchy's return in the future.

The dinner, held at the Saint Gellert Hotel, was attended by a gay assemblage. Many of the men wore the Old Austro-Hungarian uniforms, imperial orders and decorations sparkling on their breasts.

But another meeting today, celebrating the young prince's coming of age, was nearly wrecked by a group of antilegitimists. This gathering was called by the League of the Holy Crown, with Baron Sterenyi as the speaker.

The antilegitimists planted themselves in the audience and at a signal

Calvin Coolidge Says:

The report that a group of 50 prominent persons are to be called together to consider what remedy can be provided to relieve trade and industry in some of our large cities of the burden of what is called racketeering is welcome news. The last annual convention of the American Federation of Labor denounced this evil and most commendably resolved to take action against any of it that came in contact with their organization. Otherwise there has been little of a concerted movement for suppression.

In effect a supergovernment is undertaking to grant privileges and immunities, usually for a payment of money, under threat of penalties to be suffered if the demands are refused. While this form of corruption is peculiarly abhorrent to a free people, the ordinary individual is practically helpless against it. To refuse submission means to jeopardize his business if not his bodily safety. Only an aroused, insistent, and united public, with the help of the police power, will be able to cope with the situation. A public ventilation of the menace and energetic action by all agencies charged with suppressing crime are clearly needed. Failure to provide security means weakness in our government.

Italy Plans Sunday Drill For All Boys of 18 Years

Preconscription Training to Give Fascists Military Advantage Over Other Armies in That Youths Entering Regular Ranks Will Know Maneuvers.

Rome, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Italian youths who have attained the age of 18 will soon have to devote every Sunday morning for eighteen months to learning the rudiments of soldiering. The council of ministers, with Premier Mussolini presiding and approving, today endowed a bill to this effect presented by Gen. Pietro Gazzera, minister of war.

This preliminary training will serve as a preliminary to the regular eighteen months' conscript service each youth is called upon to give on reaching the age of 20.

Conversion of the bill into law by the all-Fascist Chamber of Deputies which reconvenes Monday, and the Senate, in which the Fascists have a comfortable majority, necessary December 9, is taken as a foregone conclusion.

The effect of the bill will be to give Italy's conscript army a class of recruits each year that will not have to be taught the elementary details of military training. It will give the Italian army 30 full drill days' advantage over all other conscript armies in the world.

Hitherto premilitary training in Italy has been confined to the Fascist Avanguardia and Balilla organizations, membership in which is voluntary.

Man Reports $56 Hold-Up.

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States
Appears on Pages 2, 4 and 20 Today

Raines and Takoma Park Town Officer Leo B. Moffett arrived to find the body sprawled on the narrow grassway between the two cement lanes of the automobile driveway, below the side window of the front second-story room occupied by Nurmi. Physicians at the Washington Sanitarium and Hospital pronounced the man dead on arrival and gave the policemen the first information that the skull bore a bullet hole. Returning to the house, they found the pistol close to the spot where the body had lain and immediately took the two companions in custody.

Discrepancy in Stories.

Two empty .25-caliber shells were found lying on the floor of the kitchen in the house and the lead shot of another .25-caliber bullet was found at the bottom of the back steps of the cellar. They also declared they found in the living room an inch of corn liquor in a half-gallon jar, a full pint bottle of corn liquor and a broken pint liquor bottle, with a part of its contents on the floor.

Talks made with the two companions by Chief Moxley and Sergt. Burdine disclosed a sharp discrepancy in the stories told by the pair. They said McGuire admitted that soon after entering the house together Nurmi fired three shots playfully in the kitchen. O'Brien told them, they said, that he heard no shots fired.

McGuire, questioned more closely before interrogation by State's Attorney Peter, said that the three went to the house late Wednesday afternoon shortly after he and Nurmi left work in Temporary Building C, Maine avenue and Sixth street southwest, where they are employed in the construction section of the Census Bureau.

Body Was Diseased.

McGuire, they said, admitted that the three had been drinking heavily, and that finally O'Brien "passed out" and Nurmi disappeared. Around 10 o'clock, when O'Brien awoke, the two made a search for Nurmi which ended when they discovered the body in the driveway, police quoted McGuire as declaring. The police said both men told them they thought Nurmi had fallen from his room window. No bones were broken and no marks to indicate a fall were discovered in the autopsy.

The coroner said that the autopsy showed that the vital organs of Nurmi were in "bad shape," with an ulcerated kidney, kidney stones, and inflamed intestines. He said that the man had an abnormally large heart, but declined to comment on the possible causes.

Police said neighbors told them that Nurmi had held several parties at the home since the departure of his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew G. Nurmi, recently for Rochester, N. Y., where the former had a carpentry job.

Pondered on Suicide.

Nurmi was born in New York City not long after his parents migrated here from Finland. He was reared in Washington, and last December began work in the Census Bureau, where his fellow employes learned that he was a cousin of his nameasake whose fame as a runner is international.

O. R. Witmer, a fellow employe, is the author of a sketch of Aarvo Nurmi which is to appear this morning in daily typewritten bulletin prepared and distributed by the workers in the construction section of the bureau.

He spoke of Nurmi's constant daydreaming, and his philosophy of life, drawn from Schopenhauer, regarding the futility of existence, and faith in nothing. He quoted Nurmi as frequently remarking, "Sweet misery of life," "We are economic slaves," and the like during his work. Witmer wrote that Nurmi often discussed the possibility of suicide and that at times the man questioned the advisability of using either a .25 caliber or a .38 caliber pistol to end his life.

Florida Flier Begins Flight Around World

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Barclay H. Warburton, jr., son of a former mayor of Palm Beach, Fla., took off today on the first leg of what he plans to be a flight around the world by easy stages.

His first objective is Palm Beach. From there he will fly across the country to San Diego, Calif. About January 10 he plans to sail from San Diego with his biplane, "The Little Up and Down," for Shanghai. Then he will fly across Asia and Europe, ending more than 20,000 miles of flying at London.

New York, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Reginald Murray, a building contractor of Rye, N. Y., fell to his death today from the 58-story skyscraper under construction at 500 Fifth avenue. The body landed on a three-story extension of the building.

Mr. Murray, formerly vice president of the Fred F. French Co., prominent New York real estate firm, at the time of his death headed two other realty concerns, one of which bore his name. He was reputed a millionaire.

cially grateful for the great service which has been rendered by the distinguished pediatricians, obstetricians, lawyers and social scientists who have served on its advisory committee."

Davis Counsels Action.

Secretary Davis urged that the delegates translate into action the results of their studies. Their findings, conclusions and recommendations, he said, will fill many volumes, all of which will be useful only to historians unless the lot of today's children can be greatly improved.

"If we could put into practice what is now known about safeguarding the health of children, preventing dependency and delinquency, providing opportunities for wholesome group activities," Mr. Davis continued, "we could in a single generation profoundly improve the whole character of our national life."

Dr. Robert Erwin, of New Jersey, representing the American Federation for the Blind, urged that the ban be lifted upon revealing personal information about those enumerated. Dr. Erwin, himself blind, was speaking before that section of the conference devoted to the handicapped child.

Taken, But Unavailable.

This information was taken in the 1930 census, he said, but workers for the blind have found themselves unable to make use of it in advancing their efforts. He also urged that a commission be appointed to study methods of helping the blind.

Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were in attendance, seeking the counsel of experts on the problem of bringing up their already famous son. They were at the meetings of the sections on preschool education and physical education. It is understood they expect to give special attention to these subjects during their attendance at the conference.

RARE LIQUOR SHOWN JURY IN SHORE CASE

TRUNK'S COURSE TRACED

Liquor was prominently displayed in Justice Jesse C. Adkins' division of District Supreme Court yesterday during the opening session of the trial of Frank Shore, who formerly operated a tire shop at 1223 New York avenue northwest, and who is on trial on a charge of violating the customs act in connection with the alleged importation of the liquor. The contraband is Exhibit "A," and the jury is receiving an eyeful of some rare old brands.

The case is one of the strangest in the history of local courts since the prohibition law went into effect, for the Government is confronted with the necessity of proving the contraband is good liquor, the supposition of the prosecution being that no one would attempt to import bootleg liquor.

Three witnesses were heard during the opening day of the trial. They were Warren A. Heddens and Vernon Smith, special agents of the prohibition department, and Richard Taylor, an American Express Co. employe.

Heddens and Smith testified as to the seizure of a trunk of liquor at Shore's establishment, while the other witness identified express company receipts for the trunk. The trunk, according to testimony, was consigned to "F. H. Willoughby, care of Frank Shore, 1223 New York avenue northwest." Testimony of Government chemists is expected to consume most of today's session.

Assistant United States Attorneys James R. Kirkland and John J. Sirica are prosecuting, while Attorneys Van Doran and James A. Riley appear for Shore. Shore was convicted on contempt of a padlock injunction several months ago and is under sentence of a year, from which he has appealed to the Court of Apeals.

Suspect in Lingle Case to Face Grill

Chicago Prosecutors Leave for New York to Quiz Julian Kaufman.

Chicago, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—The Herald and Examiner tonight said Charles F. Rathbun, special assistant State's attorney, and Pat Roche, chief investigator for the State's attorney, are in New York to question Julian (Potatoes) Kaufman in connection with the slaying of Alfred (Jake) Lingle, Tribune reporter. Kaufman, reputed ally of "Bugs" Moran, North Side gangster, was underatood to have left Chicago shortly after Lingle's death five months ago.

The Examiner said that Kaufman was linked with the case through his part ownership in the Sheridan Wave Club, a gambling resort, which was due to open the day after Lingle was shot to death.

Lingle was said to have demanded a cut in the profits, under a threat to have police raid the resort as soon as it opened.

Noted Huntress Dies of Illness.

Minneapolis, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—An illness contracted while traveling in Switzerland several years ago has caused the death of Dr. Cora Johnstone Best, noted lecturer, mountain climber and huntress.

Kidnapers Sentenced As Boy, 5, Picks Them

Norristown, Pa., Nov. 20 (A.P.). Five-year-old Ignatius Arena sat on the desk of Judge J. Ambler Williams in the Montgomery County court today. Before the bar stood three men, who had pleaded guilty to kidnaping the lad to obtain $10,000 ransom from his father, Samuel Arena. Pointing at Frank Gillipone, 24, of Norristown, Ignatius said:

"He gave me candy and took me away."

"I sentence you to 25 to 50 years," Judge Williams said.

"That man," Ignatius continued, pointing at Tony Craharola, 27, of Brooklyn, "drove the car."

"Twenty to 50 years," said the judge.

Charles Termeni, 35, Norristown, was sentenced to 10 to 25 years for permitting the use of his automobile.

GEOGRAPHIC SOCIETY SUPORTS ASIA TREK

USE CATERPILLAR CARS

Active cooperation of the National Geographic Society was pledged yesterday to the trans-Asiatic expedition, a French-sponsored group which plans to depart from Beirut, Syria, in March upon a 13,500-trek considered unique in science.

Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the society, assured its cooperation to Georges-Marie Haardt, of Paris, leader of the group, who achieved prominence in heading a motor expedition over Africa. The society announced that it would be represented on the party by Dr. Maynard Owen Williams.

The expedition, comprising 35 men and traveling in eight caterpillar cars, and with scientists in many fields taking part to gather scientific data in geography, archeology, ornithology, botany, geology and anthropology, will journey through Iraq, Persia, Russian Turkestan, Sin-kiang to Peiping, China. There it will swing southward through French Indo-China and return through Siam, India, Baluchistan, Persia and Arbia, traversing many areas rarely visited by white men.

Technical studies will be made in meteorology to collect data to increase the world's weather knowledge, and various other investigations will be made.

The party will keep in touch with civilization by radio, and frequent reports are to be made through the National Geographic Society here.

Rio de Janeiro, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Former President Washington Luis, the first chief executive to be deposed in the history of the republic, left Rio de Janeiro today aboard the steamship Alcantara for Lisbon in exile.

The former president was accompanied by his wife. With him were several other officials of his government also in exile.

COMMISSION FINISHES WORK ON NAVAL LIMITATIONS PLAN

ture a merchant ship while respecting said rules, they must renounce attack and seizure and allow the merchantman to continue without molestation. The Treaty of London makes similar provisions.

Adds to Detructiveness.

"It follows that if the contracting parties believe these articles are capable of execution, it is unnecessary to provide for arming of merchant vessels with 6-inch guns. By so doing, you create a class of auxiliary cruisers and strengthen the destructive power of navies."

As the session neared its close, Lord Cecil submitted a proposal to make the system of budgetary limitation universal for all branches of fighting services. This is in direct opposition to the stand of the United States. The proposal will come up for debate at tomorrow's session.

The commission, by general consensus, postponed framing of the air section of the convention until third reading. This section is expected to develop a contest over definition of military aircraft.

Some European nations are understood to favor inclusion of all aircraft in the limitation agreement, on the theory that all flying machines are potentially warcraft. This is opposed by the United States, in the belief it would cripple the development of civil aviation.

Pope Reported Drafting Encyclical About Peace

Vatican City, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Pope Pius was understood today to be preparing a new encyclical, dealing generally with the question of universal peace and indirectly with disarmament.

Although official Vatican circles professed to be entirely ignorant of the contents of the expected encyclical, it was believed it will be in the nature of a Christmastide message to the Christian world, deploring competition in armaments and containing exhortations of peace and good will.

It has been known for a long time, to the few intimates of the Pope, that he has been much concerned with the present Italian-French naval difficulties and that the nuncio in Switzerland had been instructed to report to him fully on the chances of calling a general disarmament conference, under the auspices of the League of Nations at Geneva next spring.

The same diplomat has been regularly reporting the progress of the preparatory disarmament commission, now in session at Geneva.

EIGHT BANKS CLOSE IN NORTH CAROLINA

Suspension of Five Laid to Collapse of Land Boom by Officer.

TWO SHUT IN LOUISVILLE

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 20 (A.P.).—With the realty boom of a few years ago held responsible by the State banking department, the Central Bank & Trust Co. here failed today, causing four other banks in western North Carolina to close their doors and tying up total deposits of more than $22,000,000.

Closing o ftwo other small banks in this vicinity was announced later in the day, but it was said there was no connection between their situation and the Central Bank & Trust Co.'s failure. They were the Clay County Bank of Hayesville with $10,000 capital and $110,000 deposits, and the Bank of Leicester, Buncombe County, $20,000 capital and $165,000 deposits.

The Bank of Lowell, Gaston County, also closed today, but its closing was said to have no connection with the western North Carolina situaton. Whether any of the banks would reopen was in doubt tonight.

Had $18,000,000 Deposits.

The Central Bank & Trust Co. alone had deposits of more than $18,000,000 at the time of its last statement of condition on September 24. It was capitalized at $1,000,000 and on September 24 its resources were given as $21,753,000.

The other banks closing were the Biltmore-Oteen Bank in Biltmore, Asheville suburb, with a capital of $50,000 and deposits of $615,051; the First Bank & Trust Co., Hendersonville, capital $150,000 and deposits $1,207,628; the Citizens National Bank, Hendersonville, capital $100,000, deposits $1,077,397, and the American Bank & Trust Co., Hendersonville, capital $50,000, deposits $111,638.

Blames Realty Boom.

John Mitchell, chief State bank examiner, in a statement at Raleigh attributed the Central Bank & Trust Co.'s closing to "collapse of a highly inflated plane of real estate values." He said:

"Immediately preceding the collapse of the Florida real estate boom, a large numer of high-powered real estate operators transferred their activities from Florida, concentrating largely in Asheville and Hendersonville. The result of their activities was to produce a highly inflated plane of real estate values. The resulting collapse in real estate, as well as other values, made it impossible for the failed banks to liquidate their receivables in sufficient volume to meet demands of depositors.

"This situation is purely a local one and does not in any way reflect conditions in the State generally."

Two in Louisville Close.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Two Louisville banks were closed today and two just across the Ohio River at New Albany, Ind., shut down as a result of financial difficulties following Monday's closing of the $54,000,000 National Bank of Kentucky.

As the total of Kentucky banks closed was brought to thirteen, plus the two New Albany banks, nine building and loan associations in Louisville took advantage of the law permitting them to require 30 days' notice for withdrawals. This was announced as purely a precaution. The institutions were described as in good condition.

The banks closing today were the Liberty State Bank, deposits $286,000, and the American Bank and Trust Co., deposits $2,430,000 both of New Albany, and two in Louisville, the Bankers Trust Co., deposits $965,000 and Union Central, deposits $500,000. The two New Albany banks had no connection with any Louisville bank.

E. S. Elsby, president of the American Bank and Trust Co., of New Albany, said his bank was entirely solvent but had to close to protect depositors because of a run.

M. E. Gable, president of the Liberty State Bank, said his concern was solvent but had to turn its affairs over to the Indiana State Banking commissioner because "wild rumors" caused a run.

Bankers Trust Co. directors announced its affairs had been turned over to the Kentucky Banking Commission for liquidation to conserve its assets. George R. Ewald, president of the Union Central, said his bank was entirely solvent, but had closed to protect depositors. This bank has no connection with a national bank here of somewhat similar name.

Four More in Arkansas Close.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Suspension of four more banks in Arkansas was reported to the State banking department today, bringing the total this week to 62.

The Arkansas National Bank at Heber Springs, which suspended Tuesday, reopened today.

Those suspending today were the Bank of Ozam, at Ozam, and the Bank of Strawberry, at Strawberry, both for five days, and two banks at Bald Knob, the Bald Knob State Bank and the Citizens Bank.

Conferences were continued today by directors of many of the suspended institutions over plans to reopen.

KENTUCKY TO RUN WET FOR SENATOR

Republican Chiefs Grooming Edwin P. Morrow for Race in 1932.

SEE DRY CAUSE WANING

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Kentucky, that paradoxical State which boasts of its bourbon whisky yet votes dry, will trot out a wet Republican candidate for the Senate in 1932, according to word brought to Washington by G. O. P. leaders from the Blue Grass State.

The Republican senatorial candidate, according to the plans of these leaders, will be the popular Edwin P. Morrow, a former governor. Heretofore, Morrow has been a dry but he is represented now as being ready to jump to the wet side, where his New Jersey namesake, Dwight Morrow, stands out so boldly.

Mr. Morrow, if all goes well, will seek to win the seat now held by Senator Alben W. Barkley, dry Democrat, whose term expires two years hence.

Not Ordinary Times.

In ordinary times, Republican leaders would not be likely to get excited about a senatorial race still two years off. But these are not ordinary times. More and more it appears that prohibition is going to be a big issue in the presidential race of 1932; more and more it seems there is going to be a wet and dry fight in the Republican national convention which will precede that race.

Hence the importance attached to this news from Kentucky. If the Republican leaders there think the time has come to run a wet for the Senate, is it not likely that the Kentucky delegation to the next Republican national convention will be a wet one?

Considered Safely Dry.

For all the distilleries that are located there, Kentucky has been regarded by politicians as safely dry since the advent of prohibition. As a matter of fact, the State had a local option law before the eighteenth amendment came along.

The Kentucky delegation to Congress which was elected recently, is dry, but not much importance is attached to that. Prohibition was hardly an issue in the campaign and several members of the delegation are reported ready to leap to the wet side whenever the time seems opportune.

Believes Change Coming.

As for Mr. Morrow, he is convinced, after a tour of the State, that Kentucky is about ready to go wet politically.

Evidently he never has been thoroughly sold on prohibition, for in a speech two years ago he had this to say:

"If we must have liquor, then for Heaven's sake let us have our own liquor, made in our own hills by our own people."

Action to Enforce Cuban Order Seen

Public Guarantees Expected to Be Suspended by Machado's Request.

Havana, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Immediate suspension of constitutional guarantees throughout Cuba as a measure to enforce public order probably will go into effect within twelve hours as a result of President Machado's request for congressional authority to extend suspension of the constitution throughout the republic.

This request is his answer to an ultimatum by university students that they are unwilling to compromise their differences with the government unless the administration resigns. The Senate was to meet this afternoon and the House was to act on the president's request tonight.

President Machado today proposed a reorganization of the National University which would involve closing the institution for three years. The directors of the university are considering this suggestion.

Washington Nun Hears Pope Praise Her Work

Vatican City, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Pope Pius today granted a private audience to the American Sisters of Charity Regina Campbell, of Boston; Mary Glynn, of New Orleans, and Ignatia Maguire, of Washington. The Pontiff praised the work of their order in the United States, and imparted his benediction upon the sisterhood.

Sister Ignatia Maguire is Sister Superior of the order at the U. S. Soldiers Home Hospital. She left Washington last month, and in company with the two other sisters, is making an extensive tour of Europe. She will return here in December.

Indiana Bank Closes; "Wild Rumors" Blamed

New Albany, Ind., Nov. 20 (A.P.).—The New Albany Liberty State Bank closed here this afternoon after a run of more than an hour. Affairs of the institution were turned over to Luther Simons, State bank commissioner.

M. E. Gable, president, said the run was the result of "wild rumors" and that the bank is solvent.

The bank has no connection with other institutions either in New Albany or in Louisville.

SIX HELD IN KILLING AT COUNTRY PARTY

Language Dispute Blamed for Tragedy in Abandoned House.

PITTSBURGHER IS SLAIN

Special to The Washington Post.

Keyser, W. Va., Nov. 20.—Six young people, four being residents of Keyser, were arrested here early today and taken to Avella, Washington County, Pa., to answer charges growing out of the fatal shooting of Thomas Peters, Pittsburgh employment agency employe, in an abandoned house early yesterday morning.

They are John H. Conrad, 28; Lester R. Gray, 29; his sister, Mary Gray, 23, and Katherine Mumaw, 19, all of Keyser, and Louis D. Martnelli, 21, and Lucy Polinsky, 18, both of Cedar Grove, Pa. They were taken into custody here as they were leaving a battered roadster.

According to Corpl. C. W. Hessen, of the West Virginia State police, who assisted in making the arrest, the shooting occurred in an old, unused house, where a group of twelve was having a party. The shooting is said to have followed a dispute over how many variations there are in the Polish language. It is thought Peters was in a kneeling attitude when the front of his body was struck by the charge of a 12 gauge shotgun.

INDIANS AGAIN TOLD TO AWAIT SELF-RULE

take the widest form and that the unitary government isn't to be excluded.

Addresses By Indians.

After Lord Reading's address the most important speeches were those delivered by Ma Jinnah, one of the three chief Moslem leaders in India; Srinivasa Sastri, member of the privy council and a former member of the council of state, India's leading orator and hitherto pro-British, and by the Maharajah of Nawanagar, better known as "Ranji," one of the greatest cricketers who ever lived.

But particular interest attached to the speech for the Pariahs or "untouchables" delivered—from a separate table, not the council table where the Hindus sit—by Dr. Bhimroa Ambedkhar, who said he spoke for 43,000,000 people, one-fifth of the population of India.

Beauracracy, said this spokesman for the downtrodden, should be replaced by a government of the people by the people and for the people, and he noted the surprise this statement caused to the other delegates as coming from a class which hitherto has looked to the British for their sole protection. The depressed classes, he said, welcomed the British as their deliveries from age-long tyranny and oppression by the Hindus and Moslems, but said that now the "untouchables" and the British "quite incompetent to tackle our problems."

"Our wrongs have remained as open sores and they have not been righted in 150 years of British rule," declared Dr. Ambedkhar. "The Pariahs," he said, although home rule seems to threaten a continuation of the tyrannies and oppressions practised on them in the past, are "prepared to take the inevitable risks." This was loudly cheered by the high caste Indians and astonished the British delegates.

Sastri Causes Sensation.

Sprinivasa Sastri, because of his great position as spokesman of the British and a member of the king's privy council, caused a sensation when he said:

"The idea of a federation is new to me. I struggled hard against it until the other day. Now I confess I am a convert. The princes have brought me around to their views." Little now divides the agitators in India from other Indians, said Mr. Sastri. "There is almost nothing between those who champion law and order and those who, impelled by the purest patriotism, find themselves on the other side."

Ma Jinnah, leading Moslem, declared the Simon report dead, the government of India dispatch a back number and concluded, "There has arisen a new star in our midst—the Indian princes. Their position has made the demands of British India for dominion status the demand of all India."

The Maharajah of Nawangar ("Ranji") declared that the national movement is universal and stressed the "vital necessity of satisfying the aspirations of India as a whole." Speaking for his brother princes he said, "We regard a federation with British India as being both possible and desirable at the earliest date."

80,000 Are Affected By Influenza in Poland

London, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Warsaw says that an unprecedented epidemic of influenza is raging in Poland, especially in the Lodz textile district.

In that area it is estimated that more than 80,000 persons, representing 20 per cent of the population, are affected, with schools, factories and offices crippled.

they threw a stench bomb from the gallery and then set out to create pandemonium. They finally were ejected after considerable scuffling but not before they had littered the hall with thousands of leaflets which mocked and jeered the young pretender.

The legitimists were warned to remember October 6, 1848, the date of the peasant revolution.

Legitimists Greet King At Belgian Feudal Castle

Steenockerzeel, Belgium, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—In a feudal castle here where Archduke Otto and his mother, the former Empress Zita, are spending their exile from their native land, the archduke today celebrated his eighteenth birthday. According to report, he was hailed by a group of Hungarian legitimists as their rightful king.

Exactly what happened within the castle was largely a matter of surmise, but is was known the young archduke, on having attained his majority, was formally designated as head of the House of Hapsburg, which long ruled the old Austro-Hungarian Empire.

The former Empress Zita in a brief speech at ceremonies in the castle chapel, declared her son the sole head of Hungarian Royalists, and Bishop Seydel expressed hope that the te deum soon would be sung in Budapest instead of a country of exile.

After the mass the assembled throng sang Haydn's "Hymn to the Emperor."

The announcement of the former empress that her son now was sole head of the royal house of Hungary was reported received with enthusiastic acclaim.

While a document investing Otto with the "rights of majesty" is understood to have been duly executed and read at the mass, its publication by the family was said to have been deferred for political reasons, chief of which is the opposition of the entente powers to restoration of the House of Hapsburg in Hungary.

THREE-YEAR SEARCH FOR WOMAN REVIVED

Man Held on Forgery Count Claims He Wed Missing Eugenia Cedarholm.

SAYS SHE IS IN FLORIDA

New York, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—A 71-year-old former boarder in Brooklyn's house of mystery, the Cedarholm residence on Schermerhorn street, was held by police today on a minor charge, and with the possibility he may hold the key to the disappearance three years ago of Eugenia Cedarholm.

Arrested last night on a charge of forgery, Albert Haw, alias Edward Lawrence Hall, said he was married to Miss Cedarholm and that she was in Florida, alive and well.

He declined to tell the date and place of the wedding, or where Miss Cedarholm may be found.

The young woman disappeared in October, 1927, and until today none had been found who admitted even seeing her, after she left her Brooklyn home to visit a friend on Long Island.

Haw was questioned at the time but denied knowledge of her. The cellar of the house was turned up, on the strength of the possibility that she had been killed, and the body buried there, and the house and grounds on the Long Island place were carefully searched, but to no avail. The house was recently torn down to make way for a city subway. The wreckage was carefully searched but no clue was found.

Haw was held today on complaint of Manuel Sidkoff, a lawyer of Philadelphia, who alleged Haw paid him for some legal work with two checks signed "Eugenia Cedarholm," which were returned for lack of funds. The checks were given some four months after Miss Cedarholm's disappearance.

Jacksonville Wins U. D. C. Conclave

Nine General Officers of Organization Returned To Their Posts.

Asheville, N. C., Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Selection of Jacksonville, Fla., as the 1931 meeting place, and the election of officers featured today's sessions of the United Daughters of the Confederacy's annual convention here. The Florida city was chosen by a large majority over Los Angeles, the only other bidder.

The convention automatically re-elected nine general officers and elected three new general officers. The new officers are: Mrs. Charles B. Faris, Missouri, second vice president general; Mrs. George Dismukes, Chickasha, Okla., treasurer general, and Miss Alice Baxter, Atlanta, honorary president general.

Other general officers, who will serve another year of their two-year terms are: Mrs. L. M. Bashinsky, Troy, Ala., president general; Mrs. A. C. Ford, Clifton Forge, Va., first vice president general; Mrs. John M. Wilcox, Houston, Tex., third vice president general; Mrs. W. E. Massey, Hot Springs, Ark., recording secretary general; Mrs. F. L. Exell, Leesburg, Fla., corresponding secretary general; Miss Marion Salley, Orangeburg, S. C., historian general; Mrs. A. S. Porter, Lakewood, Ohio, registrar general; Mrs. John W. Goodwin, Philadelphia, custodian of crosses, and Mrs. Charles Granger, New Orleans, custodian of flags.

Legion Leaders Urge Steps to Aid Jobless

Indianapolis, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—American Legion department commanders and adjutants at the close of their anual three day session recommended that the legion organize an employment system in every State. It was proposed that each State department establish an organization not only to register applicants for jobs but also to find and create employment.

An offer from the Department of Pennsylvania to donate a trophy to the legion department that accomplished the most in solving unemployment was accepted. The trophy will be awarded at the 1931 convention in Detroit.

CRASH FOILED ROYAL GEMS' SALE, CLAIM

Letter Bared at Trial of Hapsburg Heirs Involves Napoleonic Necklace.

$500,000 SUM WAS ASKED

New York, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Letters purporting to show that a plan to sell a Napoleon necklace for half a million dollars to one of several "rich American boobs" was halted by the Wall street crash were introduced today at the trial of Archduke Leopold of Hapsburg.

The archduke was indicted with Col. Charles L. Townsend and Townsend's wife, the Baroness Baronti, on charges of grand larceny in the alleged unauthorized sale of the necklace for only $60,000. The heirloom was owned by Leopold's aunt, Archduchess Marie Therese.

The Townsends have not been apprehended. Letters said to have passed between them and a Viennese jeweler who acted as agent of the archduchess were identified today by Baroness Eisenmenger, the archduchess' personal representative.

One of the letters, dated January 18, 1930, and bearing Townsend's signature, said: "Had we received the necklace before the crash, one of five boobs would have paid for it, but they * * * have been wiped out in the crash."

In one of Baroness Baroni's alleged letters a "Gen. Du Pont" was mentioned as a prospective buyer.

Baroness Eisenmenger, under questioning by the prosecutor, said Leopold was both a Hapsburg and an archduke, but not a nephew of Marie Therese. She declared his reputation for honesty in Austria was "bad."

McBride Calls Wet Gain Spur to Drys

Election Result, League Leader Says, Should Aid War on Rum.

New York, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Members of the Antisaloon League heard Dr. F. Scott McBride, the organization's superintendent, declare today that wet gains in the recent election should serve only to awaken them to the need for aggressive warfare against the liquor traffic.

"But no wet wabbler or dry denier was successful," Dr. McBride told league gatherings here. "You can page Ruth McCormick to find out what it means to run dry in a primary campaign and then wabble in the general election."

Belief that President Hoover never will desert prohibition was expressed by Stanley High, editor of the Christian Herald.

The meetings here were 2 of 1,000 throughout the country at which the need for funds is being discussed.

Another resolution requested the Secretary of Agriculture to ask Congress to relieve the counties of their share in the cost of maintaining county agents to June 30, 1932.

The conference expressed its appreciation to the railroads for their contribution to the drought-relief work by reducing freight rates on hay and feed into drought areas and live stock out of these sections.

AID EXTENDED TOWN STRUCK BY TORNADO

Bethany, Okla., Death List Rises to 20; Builders Offer Services.

RELIEF FUNDS POUR IN

Bethany, Okla., Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Helped generously by a sympathetic public, this little Nazarene Church colony was recovering rapidly tonight from the effects of yesterday's tornado.

The death list continued to mount through the day, however. The deaths of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hiet, an aged couple, brought the total of fatalities to twenty.

Two brothers, named Griffin, were reported to Red Cross headquarters as missing. Several injured victims still were in a critical condition.

Over $30,000 Pledged.

A call by the American Red Cross and Gov. W. J. Halloway for $30,000, broadcast by newspapers and radio, had met with pledges and cash totaling more than $25,000 early tonight.

Contractors, insurance companies and building and loan organizations volunteered their assistance in rebuilding the wind-torn area, a section occupied chiefly by homes of workingmen. A spokesman for the State Contractors' Association said rebuilding would be undertaken without thought of profit as soon as the bare cost of material was provided.

Insurance companies said claims would be paid off within 48 hours. Building and loan company officers said leniency would be shown in the collection of outstanding loans and in the granting of new ones. National Guardsmen who have patroled the district were to be withdrawn tonight.

Boy Loses All But Dog.

Among the sober-faced survivors of the wind's wrath was Junior Wright, 13, whose "family" now consists of a police dog and her six puppies. Today Junior fed the mother dog, who crouched over her litter in what was the basement of the Wright home. Junior's mother, Mrs. Fleta Wright, and his 17-year-old sister, Roxie, were killed by the tornado that wrecked the residence. The boy's father, J. H. Wright, was killed last summer by an interurban car.

REASSURANCE GIVEN WHEAT PURCHASERS

Stabilization Corporation Says Consumers May Buy With Safety.

GRAIN PRICES ADVANCE

Chicago, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—The Grain Stabilization Corporation served notice today that consumers of wheat products may now make purchases with reasonable safety for their seasonable requirements and protect themselves against advances that may come through "many underlying constructive factors."

The assurance was given by George S. Milnor, president of the stabilization agency, after a market session in which Government support in and out of the pit had lent stability to prices. Corn surpassed wheat in the upswing, gaining 2½ to 3¼ cents a bushel, while wheat advanced ⅛ to 3¼ cents.

Published reports, not yet confirmed by official statements, indicate the Farm Board allies have purchased a total of 104,000,000 bushels of wheat in their stabilization efforts. No announcement has been made as to what has been done with all the wheat bought.

The Stabilizaton Corporation itself is reported to be "long" by 20,000,000 bushels, future contracts, on all markets. This included 10,000,000 bushels on which delivery was to be taken on December contracts, representing futures bought to replace sales of cash wheat made some time ago.

Most of the buying has been done on the Chicago Board of Trade but purchases have also been made in Minneapolis, Kansas City and Omaha. There has been no effort, according to Chairman Legge, to push up prices, but merely to prevent panicky depression in quotations. Exportation has virtually been precluded by lower prices abroad, Liverpool sales being at much lower figures of late than those in America.

Winnipeg, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Reorganization of the Canadian Cooperative Wheat Producers, Ltd., central selling agency for the prairie wheat pools, was reported under way today, but there was no visible evidence of such step.

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Premier J. E. Brownlee today over long distance telephone from Montreal told inquirers there was no foundation for the report that he would resign the premiership or become general manager of the central selling agency of the Canadian wheat pool.

U. S. Lines Plans 30,000-Ton Ship

North Atlantic Vessel Will Be Largest Ever Built in This Country.

New York, Nov. 20 (N.Y.W.N.S.)—The most ambitious American attempt at merchant shipbuilding will begin December 4, according to the announcement made today by the United States Lines, when the keel will be laid for a 30,000-ton liner, the largest ever built in the United States.

This new ship will be built at Camden, N. J., and is the first liner to be constructed by the United States Lines for its north Atlantic passenger trade. Her construction has been made possible largely through the Jones-White bill, designed to aid the American merchant marine by awarding favorable and profitable mail contracts.

The contract for this first American attempt at a large, express superliner was signed last May by Paul W. Chapman, president of the United States Lines. The keel for a sister ship will be laid within three months on an adjoining way. Both ships will be delivered in 1932, the first in July and the second in November. In some respects, these ships will resemble the two North German Lloyd speed queens, Bremen and Europa.

Blind Major Is Freed After Suicide Attempt

New York, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—As if he had not had enough trouble, Maj. John Leacreft, late of his majesty's royal garrison artillery, was arraigned today on a charge of carrying firearms—the firearm in question being the old service pistol with which he had attempted to kill himself.

The major, who signed up for the duration of the war on the very day it was declared, is blind. The bullet he fired in his suicide attempt did that. The three justices before whom he was brought today discharged him and he departed for Rhode Island to live with friends.

GRAPE JUICE "THREATS" SEEN AS SO MUCH PUBLICITY

that the sale of grape juices and the possession of the fermented product in the home would not be molested. The interpretation of the law was made at that time, incidentally, by Mrs. Willebrandt, then Assistant Attorney General.

But the great difference that has come over the wine growers since the announcement of that policy and the Farm Board's financial support is this:

Formerly they marketed their grape juices intended for wine covertly. Here in Washington you had to know your man before he would come to your house at the end of 21 days and bottle the stuff for you.

Marketed by Groceries.

Now the concentrates are being marketed through grocery stores, with the very plain intimation in the national advertising that one has only to add water to get wine.

Officials were made apprehensive at the boldness of the advertising at the outset, and now that the wets have begun to make sarcastic references to the hypocrisy of the business, these officials have been kept busy pondering the observations of Government commentators all the way from Plato and Machiavelli down to Calvin Coolidge in order to make just the right kind of public statements on the matter.

Into this delicate situation came the story the other day that Al Capone was out in California demanding that the vineyardists keep out of the Chicago area. He was afraid they would cut too deeply into his beer and "alky" trade.

Reaction of Drys.

Here was an announcement from the California housetops for all the country to hear that there must be something in that California grape juice if it could compete with Al Capone's beer and alky. And manifestly there must be.

At the same time the story carried a profound thought for the drys. If that grape juice could interfere so greatly with Mr. Capone's trade, well why not, in the end of temperance, let it flourish.

Officials here have no definite explanation of just how the story was planted, but they have their suspicions. And it was, they agree, a master piece of work, the work of a psychologist, one, in fact, who knows every convolution in the mass mind, just what it takes to make each and every one of these convolutions turn over and form what is affectionately termed a thought.

Conn's Reported Telegram.

Apparently, Donald O. Conn, the head of the vineyardists and whom Mrs. Willebrandt once fixed up to break bread with such dry leaders as Mrs. Ella Boole, head of the W. C. T. U., and Dr. F. Scott McBride, and the Rev. E. C. Dinwiddie,—apparently even he took the story seriously. Because a day or so ago he was quoted in press dispatches as having sent a telegram to the Department of Justice demanding protection from the Capone racketeers whom, according to the original story, the vineyardists were about to put out of business.

Attorney General Mitchell has solemnly told newspapermen in his wide-eyed honesty that he has looked all over the department, even in the private files of the Assistant Attorney General, John Lord O'Brien, who is away, and he can't find that Conn telegram.

All he can find is a complaint several months ago from a Chicago produce merchant who sells apples, cabbages, celery, grapes and green stuff in general, that the racketeers were bothering him. And before the department could do anything in this instance the complaint was withdrawn. There was no suggestion that the apples, cabbages and celery were interfering with Mr. Capone's beer and alky trade. It was presumably simply a case of the man being a victim of the trucking racket which exists in Chicago.

Al's Story "Bunk."

Undoubtedly, too, it is held, California grapes going into Chicago, or Texas onions, or Georgia potatoes have to pay those excessive trucking costs of the racket.

It is pointed out here that had the Department of Justice not issued just the right kind of statements on the reported Conn telegram, that had it rushed in to give this demanded "protection" then there would have been another peg on which the vineyardists could pin their advertising claim of "Government protection."

Bluntly, the Capone story, originating in a California newspaper and creating quite a furore the past several days is the—er er, the bunk.

FEDERAL UNIT WARS UPON CHICAGO GANGS

Forces Recently Fortified in Drive on Crime, Says Attorney General.

NUMBER SENT NOT TOLD

(Associated Press.)

A concerted drive by the Federal Government to break up the activities of Chicago gangsters was made known yesterday by Attorney General Mitchell.

Federal agents, dispatched from Washington, have been active in Chicago since early summer, the Attorney General said, and recently there has been a "fortifying" of these forces in an effort to apply Federal laws against the underworld characters there.

Drive to Continue.

"We intend to keep going indefinitely, or at least until our aid is no longer needed," Mr. Mitchell said.

Mr. Mitchell would not say exactly how large a concentration of Government agents is intended in that area, but he made clear that one high agent of the Department of Justice has been dispatched to act as an assistant to the United States attorney in Chicago, coordinating various Federal activities.

In addition, he said the Narcotics Bureau and the Bureau of Internal Revenue of the Treasury Department, together with the immigration authorities of the Labor Department were joining in the drive. He added that Assistant Attorney General Youngquist, in charge of prohibition, had "more than one" agent now operating in the Chicago district.

Good Results Claimed.

Officials of these departments, however, were reluctant to discuss how many men they had sent to fight the gangsters with Federal laws.

Speaking for the Department of Justice, Mr. Mitchell said the activity in Chicago was "only one of our numerous efforts," but added that "the gradual strengthening of forces there" already had brought some results.

He mentioned one case of a gangster convicted recently of violating the Federal revenue act after evidence had been uncovered by the joint efforts of the Justice Department and the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

CHILDREN HOSPITAL REDUCES ITS RATES

Fees to Start at $2 Per Day, Less Than Half of Actual Cost.

ANNIVERSARY DUE SOON

Rates at the Children's Hospital have been reduced to make the institution available to families of more moderate incomes than heretofore, it was announced yesterday. The new charges start at $2 a day, which is less than half of the actual cost of caring for a child patient.

The actual cost for each patient a day is $4.82, according to figures compiled by Miss Mattie M. Gibson, superintendent, who said that 85 per cent of the care given at the hospital is under cost. The difference between what the patients pay and the expenses is to be made up by the Community Chest contributions.

Four general classes of patients are now cared for at the institution. They are charity cases which get free service; part pay, which is now to be called private ward pay; semiprivate, and full pay private.

The hospital gave treatments to 5,147 children for the year ending October 31, as against 3,796 in 1929 and 3,499 in 1928.

The total number of visits to the dispensary also increased from 18,594 in 1928, to 23,803 in 1929, and 29,625 this year. There are 21,000 children registered at the dispensary. The cost is 56 cents a visit, but a large proportion of the children are treated for nothing.

Plans are being made for the sixtieth anniversary of the hospital on December 2. The board of trustees will meet and reports will be made.

Son Halts Probation Of M. A. McRae's Will

Detroit, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Probation of the will of Milton A. McRae, publisher, who died in San Diego, Calif., October 11, was stopped in probate court here today by an objection made on behalf of Lindsay E. McRae, of New Orleans, a son.

Attorney representing the son said that objection was made on the ground that undue influence was exerted on the father and that the document offered was not the last will and testament of Mr. McRae. The will left the son $350 a month and an additional $150 a month for a daughter, to be paid "at such times and places as designated by the executor," the Detroit Security & Trust Co. The bulk of Mr. McRae's estate went to two sisters.

EASTBOUND STORM HOLDS WEST IN GRIP

Wide Damage Is Inflicted by Blizzard That Follows Fatal Tornadoes.

RAIL TRAFFIC SUFFERS

Kansas City, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—A winter storm riding East from the Rocky Mountains tied knots in wire communication and hampered rail and highway traffic through the West today in the wake of tornadoes that took 21 lives and injured about 100 persons in Oklahoma, Kansas and Arkansas yesterday.

Snow, sleet, rain and sharp drops in temperature were the accompaniments of the storm's sally into the Midwest.

Wire service to the Pacific Coast was badly hit as lines snapped through the prairie country from accumulations of ice, sudden temperature changes and high winds.

Passenger trains from the West were running several hours behind schedules and highways were blocked in many sections.

Two Frozen to Death.

Another fatality was added to the list of several lives claimed since the blizzard broke over the Rocky Mountain section. Guy D. Miner, 47, druggist, of Des Moines, N. Mex., was found frozen to death near Mount Dora, N. Mex. He succumbed to exposure while going for aid after his automobile became stuck in snow drifts.

Passenger Train Snowbound.

An eastbound Union Pacific passenger train was reported snowbound west of Sharon Springs, Kans.

Rural and mining communities in southern Colorado were isolated by a 26-inch fall which was converted into mountainous drifts by a high wind, which also resulted in considerable property damage in Trinidad, Pueblo and other towns in that region.

Scores of automobiles were buried under tons of splintered timber and snow when the roof of a garage collapsed in Trinidad.

Tons of brick fell through three floors of the Carlisle School in Pueblo after a wing of the building collapsed.

Near Colorado Springs 85 marooned motorists spent a night of hunger and discomfort in a small filling station. Motorists crowded into the station in such numbers that many women fainted.

Storm Isolates Cheyenne.

Cheyenne, Wyo., was isolated by the storm. Every main road leading into the city was closed and the only bus which sought to break through the drifts was stalled 8 miles south of town.

A 40-mile-an-hour wind in Raton, N. Mex., whipped an 19-inch snowfall into 7-foot drifts in the downtown section and broke many windows in business establishments.

Bismarck, N. Dak., Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Sleet, snow and rain battered North Dakota today. Williston reported the lowest temperature with 8 degrees above. Other points reported: Bismarck-Mandan, 18; Devils Lake, 22; Valley City, 31.

Valley City was out of touch with the outer world as a result of the damage to telephone and telegraph wires.

Cleveland May Record Confessions on Talkies

Cleveland, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Cleveland police are going to try the "talkies" to record confessions of criminal suspects for direct reproduction to juries. The police believe this will eliminate charges that prisoners sometimes make, that confessions were made under duress.

Specialists in criminal prosecution believe the movies also may include reenactments of crimes, with the confessing man demonstrating how the crimes were accomplished.

Injunction Forbids Bob To Sell Any Securities

New York, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Charles V. Bob, indicted promoter and financier, who surrendered yesterday after being missing for six weeks, was restrained today from disposing of any securities in a temporary injunction granted by Supreme Court Justice Riegelman in Brooklyn.

The court announced the injunction would remain in force until Bob makes satisfactory explanation of his financial affairs, which have been under investigation since his disappearance.

CHICAGO'S ENVIRONS JOIN IN CRIME DRIVE

Surrounding Counties Will Aid War Upon City's Gang Activities.

CAPONE ARREST DENIED

Chicago, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Law enforcement agents of a dozen counties joined hands today to draw a ring around the Chicago metropolitan area and close in on the criminal forces.

The proposal to organize a permanent cooperative criminal apprehension bureau for the sector within 50 miles of the Chicago "Loop" drew police chiefs, prosecutors and private detectives from nearby communities into a determined conference at the University of Chicago.

More than 100 attended, and there was an apparently unanimous opinion that modern, organized methods must be used to combat the modern, organized criminals. The problem was how to organized quickly and effectively. Among the means proposed were the extension of the present Chicago police radio system to the entire metropolitan area; intercity and intercounty automatic telegraph systems; combined use of the scientific crime detection laboratory at Northwestern University; a school for police officers.

Police Tell Obstacles.

Acting Commissioner of Chicago Police John Alcock spoke of the obstacles which face police departments, referring particularly to the rapid displacement of executives and to the grand jury system which, he said, had outworn its usefulness. He also urged tightening of parole laws and the incarceration of persons convicted of crime pending appeal.

United States District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson said that Chicago and the surrounding territory could best be served "by a well-trained, well-disciplined State police force connected with modern means of communication, and intelligently directed with jurisdiction to go anywhere within the respective States."

Johnson suggested that the most helpful cooperation would be the exchange of information on well-known criminals, especially of the gangster type, and the support of and hearty response to requests of prosecutors.

Col. Calvin Goddard, director of the crime detection laboratory, offered the services of his organization to the police heads and described some of the latest devices for apprehending criminals and obtaining confessions, including a drug called "truth serum," under the influence of which he said a large percentage of suspects tested had confessed.

Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime Commission and member of President Hoover's commission, told of the new criminal code being formed by a committee of judges and lawyers for submission to the State Legislature.

Capone Arrest Unfounded.

Reporters and photographers swarmed about the district attorney's office in the Federal Building late today. Rumor had it that "Scarface Al" Capone was to surrender on an income tax evasion charge.

George E. Q. Johnson, the district attorney, scoffed at the rumor. The United States marshal's office knew nothing about it. Neither did the commissioner.

Thomas D. Nash, Capone's attorney, told reporters he also knew nothing about the matter. Nash said that if the charge were for income tax evasion, he would not represent Capone anyway.

Soon Mr. Johnson went home. The lights went out in the marshal's office. Two inquisitive reporters searched the cells in the marshal's office and found nothing but dirty dishes.

It all started in the early afternoon. The Daily News said Capone had been arrested and was held somewhere on the West Side. Authorities immediately denied the seizure.

Then the rumor spread about the loop the gang chieftain was to surrender at the district attorney's office at 5 o'clock.

The reporters split up. One group eyed the district attorney's office. The other the marshal's. The rest played pinochle in the pressroom.

At 6 o'clock—the offices were deserted and the news men returned to their offices.

perance will hold a meeting about the same time.

F. Scott McBride already has announced that the Antisaloon League, with the approval of other organizations, has begun the formation of a definite organization for an educational drive on behalf of the dry laws. It plans to use newspapers, radio, motion pictures and magazines.

Undecided Upon Change.

Dr. Doran, after talking with the rabbis, said he could not tell whether the present system of issuing sacramental wine would be changed until he had further studied the complaints.

Rabbi B. Binstein, recording secretary of the Assembly of Hebrew Orthodox Rabbis of the United States and Canada, contended that in some cases win for sacramental use was withheld until immediately before the Jewish holidays and was then handled by agents not of their own faith. He said the proposed plan would allow 450 gallons of win a year to small churches and 900 gallons to the larger churches, distributed on a quota basis over ten months.

"Under the present system," Rabbi Birstein said, "we are handicapped in the conduct of our religion. Last Rosh Hashana (the Jewish new year) wine to be used in some of the churches was withheld until the day before, and then permits were denied for some of the minor holidays."

Describes Present Quotas.

He declared that under the law the churches are allowed to draw five gallons of wine a year for each Jewish family. In 1920, he said, only 300,000 gallons were obtained, while under the plan now proposed this figure would be cut still more.

"New York rabbis as a whole have agreed to this decrease in volume provided churches of less than 300 seats can obtain regularly 25 gallons of wine on nonholiday months and 50 gallons on holiday months," Rabbi Birstein said. "Churches of over 300 seats would be allotted 900 gallons a year. Under the quota plan, no wine would be received in June or July, but all the supply would be handled by members of the Jewish faith."

With Rabbi Birstein were Rabbis Koloman Kellner, of Passaic, N. J., and J. J. Margolin, of Brooklyn. Other rabbis, members of the group said, presented the plan today to William D. Moss, superintendent of permits in New York.

ARLINGTON COLLEGE FOR GIRLS INDORSED

County Commerce Chamber Appoints Committee to Study Project.

RED CROSS DRIVE GAINS

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The establishment of a college of liberal arts for girls in Arlington County was advocated by the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of the board yesterday.

President Ashton C. Jones stated that the State could find no more suitable location for the college than in Arlington County.

Perry L. Mitchell was appointed chairman of a special committee to make a study of the project and to formulate plans, which will be submitted at the December meeting. Other members of the committee are B. A. Bowles, Fletcher Kemp, William S. Hoge, Harry K. Green, State Senator Frank L. Ball, Delegate to the General Assembly Hugh Reid and A. F. Thelander.

The board went on record as indorsing the broad plan of expansion that is now being carried on by the Washington Gas Light Co. in the Arlington County territory.

Among other projects considered was the building of a hospital in the county. President Jones announced the appointment of the following committee to make an investigation of the feasibility of establishing a hospital in the county: Arthur J. Porter, chairman; Dr. B. S. Swain and William A. Coates.

The following committee was appointed to constitute the nominating committee to prepare a slate for the election of officers and to plan for the annual meeting to be held in December: A. L. Kelley, chairman; Walter D. Varney, Henry C. Morris, Arthur J. Porter, P. E. Dewey, Guy N. Church, David N. Collins and J. A. Deuterman.

Reports from roll-call workers in the annual membership drive being carried on by the Arlington County Chapter, American Red Cross, indicate a generally favorable response, according to County Chairman George A. Collier.

The present unemployment situation throughout the country is making heavy demands upon the Red Cross and Mr. Collier urges all those who have not already enrolled to join at once.

Because of the large number of its people in the Government service where employment is steady and salaries have not been reduced, Arlington County should make a generous response to the membership enrollment Mr. Collier concluded.

Plans for a permanent organization of high school principals in northern Virginia will be completed at a dinner meeting to be held tomorrow night at the George Mason Hotel, at Alexandria, S. P. Vanderslice, principal of the Washington Lee High School., who is acting as temporary chairman, announces that coaches of the various high schools will be guests of honor and will speak on the relations of sports in schools.

More than 50 principals from Arlington, Fauquier, Loudoun, Fairfax and Prince William Counties, and Alexandria, Fredericksburg and Culpeper will form the organization.

Representative R. Walton Moore, of the Eighth Congressional District of which Arlington County is a part, will make his final appointments to the U. S. Military and Naval Academies following a competitive examination which will be held in the postoffices of Culpeper and Alexandria, January 10, 1931. There is one appointment to be made to each academy.

The executive committee of the newly organized Parent-Teacher Association of the Washington-Lee High School met in the school auditorium last night and appointed the following standing committees for the year:

Program — Mrs. Harry R. Maxey, chairman; Mrs. Ivy Ransome, and Mrs. O. C. Rouh. Membership—Mrs. George Tabor, chairman; Mrs. George Spratt, Miss Frances Belle, Mrs. Frank Scott, Mrs. J. E. Rice, Mrs. William Hunter, Mrs. C. K. Craver, and F. E. Schultz. Hospitality—Miss Sallie Loving, chairman; Mrs. Edith Rogers, and Henry Ransome. Publicity—J. E. Rice, chairman; James Lazard, and Mrs. Varnum Smith. Publication—Mrs. Norman Sims, chairman; Miss Lena Wolfe, and Mrs. Ernest R. Hagan. Finance and budget—J. W. Phelps, chairman; Lloyd McCord, and Mrs. H. B. Ellis.

The chairmen and officers will constitute the executive committee.

The Ladies Auxiliary to the Arlington Volunteer Fire Department will hold its annual Thanksgiving dance in the firemen's hall Wednesday evening. The proceeds will be used to complete the equipment of the kitchen.

Thomas Nelson Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held its monthly meeting last night at the home of Mrs. Lee B. Robertson. Mrs. Luther C. Dodd outlined the plan of the Prize Essay Contest which is to be conducted in the Washington-Lee High School and for which the chapter offers a medal to the winner.

The treasurer gave a report of the budget committee, which included contributions to the Yorktown Memorial, the student loan fund, the treasurer general's memorial fund, and the Arlington County Library.

Mrs. A. J. Webb, regent, who attended the Eastern Divisional Conference, recently held at Atlantic City, gave a most interesting report, while Mrs. Carl Edwards reported on the Thirty-fourth Annual State Conference, which was held at Lynchburg.

Mrs. George Rector was appointed a member of the better films committee.

The regent welcomed Mrs. Carl Bradford, Mrs. N. Rex Hunt, and Mrs. George Rector as new members of the chapter, and Mrs. Robert Ryland, whose papers are pending the approval of the national society.

The sight of a large motor truck backed up to the pile of building material which has been stored on the land said to be the property of Max Bregman on Wilson boulevard, near the courthouse, in preparation to haul it all away was greeted by the neighborhood yesterday with much favorable comment.

The move to move the material is understood to be in accordance with the action of Judge Harry R. Thomas, who, in police court on Tuesday, gave Bregman until next Wednesday to have the material moved.

The court action was the result of proceedings against him in violation of the county zoning ordinance.

The football team of the Washington Lee High School will be accompanied by the student body and cadet band when it leaves today for Washington where it will meet the Central High School team.

to the present rate of 4.7 cents, and the returnable excess this year of about $750,000 is about $87,000 larger than the figure which the company was required to refund in cut rates in 1930.

It is understood to be the opinion of the commission that, all other factors being equal, the proposed 4-cent rate probably would put the company on an operating basis where its excess profits would be curtailed to such an extent that the rate would hold fairly stable for a few years, there being a resultant decrease in the amount of excess profits which would have to be returned to consumers.

ALL FACTIONS FIGHT LOWER TAXES PLAN

Opposition to Abandonment of Debt Retirement Program Increases.

POSITION OF TREASURY

(Associated Press.)

Congressional leaders of all factions yesterday turned against suggestions to continue the lower income tax rates by doing away with the public debt retirement program and the likelihood of keeping the reduced tax schedule for another year diminished further.

At the Treasury, also, it was said no recommendation would be made to Congress for the abandonment next year of the sinking fund which has been set aside for orderly retirements of the war debt. However, Secretary Mellon still has to say the final word on whether a continuation of the lower income tax rates will be recommended for another year.

Administration leaders in the Senate, including Senators Watson, of Indiana; Smoot, of Utah, and Fess, of Ohio, not only expressed opposition yesterday to any abandonment of the debt retirement through the sinking fund, but they added their opposition to any continuation of the lower income tax rates in view of the prospective deficit.

Stand Democrats Take.

Senator Glass, (Democrat), Virginia, asserted "the honest thing to do would be to raise taxes next year, and certainly I would oppose any move to abandon the sinking fund." Representative Hull, (Democrat), Tennessee, a member of the ways and means committee, took a similar position.

Republican independents always have favored rapid retirements of the public debt even at the cost of immediate tax reduction.

Senator Smoot, chairman of the Senate finance committee, said he would consider a one-year deferment of payments on the public debt only in the event the Government faced a big deficit. He was not prepared to say that he believed such an emergency existed.

The sinking fund for this year amounts to almost $400,000,000. It is a fund established by Congress at the close of the World War to provide for gradual curtailment of the $26,000,000,000 Government debt. Congress also provided that the sinking fund could be abandoned only in event of emergencies.

Status of Public Debt.

In the eleven years since the peak of the war debt was reached, it has been reduced by more than $10,000,000,000, and now stands at approximately $16,000,000,000.

The sinking fund retirement has amounted to only $3,200,000,000 of this $10,000,000,000 reduction, so that the Nation is already $7,000,000,000 ahead in its debt retirement program. However, it is the general view at the Capitol that some fixed payments, as provided by the sinking fund, should be applied annually to the debt.

Relief Is Advanced In Loudoun County

Meeting of Red Cross Chapter Hears Plan of Coordination.

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., Nov. 19.—Ways and means of administering relief to impoverished families in Loudoun County as the economic situation develops during the winter were discussed at a meeting of the Loudoun Chapter, American Red Cross, this afternoon.

Harrison Williams, chairman, who presided, said that those in a position to know have estimated that 250 families in the county would need relief before the winter is over, and that $25,000 will be needed to meet the situation. The agricultural day laborer will be the greatest sufferer, and Farm Agent J. R. Lintner has estimated a loss of $100,000 by these laborers as a result of the corn crop failure.

In many cases there are from nine to twelve children in these families. Miss Helen Pittman, county nurse, stated that she finds now about as many people in distress this year as last, but anticipates more as the winter sets in.

Talbot Pierce, of Waterford, made a motion that a central clerk be established in the office of J. R. Lintner, county agent, at Leesburg, to coordinate the welfare agencies in the county, the work beginning December 1. This motion was carried by the meeting. It had been brought out earlier in the meeting that the salary of this clerk would be about $60 per month, part of which will be defrayed by voluntary subscription.

VALENCIA ASKS AID IN LABOR TROUBLES

Madrid Paper Is Suspended for Defending General Spanish Strike.

UNIVERSITY YOUTHS RIOT

Madrid, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Eight thousand employers in Valencia today sent a delegation here to ask government protection against a "reign of terror" established in their city by warring labor unions, but from other points to which the general strike of the past week has extended came reports that the tension had eased appreciably.

The Valencia delegation blamed the Syndicato Unico, a labor organization held responsible for much of the recent disorder, for "intolerable conditions" under which Valencia workmen have been driven from their jobs under threat of violence.

Minor disorders continued at Barcelona today, where left-wing irreconcilables refused to obey union orders to go back to work.

Universities Are Closed.

New student disorders developed at Albacete, Huelva and Cuenca, and most of the important universities throughout the kingdom have been closed. Seville, Alicante and other strike centers, however, reported no disturbances.

The newspaper Heraldo de Madrid was suspended for five days because it published an article defending the general strike, and its author was arrested.

The suspension of the paper drew critical comment tonight from the newspaper La Voz, which said that "undoubtedly there is excessive nervousness in high circles."

La Voz warned Premier Damaso Berenguer not to attempt another dictatorship, asserting that the Spain of 1930 was very different from that of 1923, during the regime of Primo de Rivero.

As to the premier's ultimatum to Communists and agitators, the paper advises:

"Don't play with fire, or you may burn yourself."

Other Newspapers Are Critical.

Other newspapers also were somewhat critical, La Nacion saying, in effect:

"The present conditions and turmoil must end. We want a government that will govern."

Meanwhile, new reinforcements of regular troops reached Madrid tonight from nearby garrisons, equipped for instant duty should uprisings occur.

Castellon, Spain, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—A general strike was declared here tonight in sympathy with the recent walkouts in Madrid, Barcelona, and other parts of the country.

The government posted heavy guards at strategic centers, particularly guarding stores of foodstuffs, and arrested several agitators for coercing workers to join the walkout.

Suit for Gift Auto Goes to High Court

Virginia Tribunal Ignores Plea That Drawing Was Lottery.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 20.—A suit, believed to be almost unique in Virginia legal history, will probably come before the State Supreme Court of Appeals at the December sitting in Staunton. The case is that of Mrs. M. S. Maughs against H. P. Porter, both of Charlottesville, demanding $450 on the grounds that the defendant did not deliver a new automobile the plaintiff is alleged to have won in a drawing at an auction sale of lots here about one year ago.

McCue & McCue, attorneys for Mrs. Maughs, contend their client "drew the lucky number" and won the automobile which was offered as advertising, but that the defendant failed to carry out his agreement.

Mrs. Maughs sued before Judge John W. Fishburne in circuit court. Mr. Porter, through attorneys Allen, Walsh & Waddell, demurred on the grounds that there was, first, no consideration, and, second, that the drawing was a lottery and had no legal status. Judge Fishburn sustained the demurrer, and defendant's attorneys appealed to the supreme court. They were advised yesterday that a writ of error had been granted.

WOMAN ACQUITTED IN YOUTHS' SLAYING

Jury Accepts Her Story That July 4 Shooting Was Accidental.

JEALOUSY IS DISCLAIMED

Norristown, Pa., Nov. 20.—"Not guilty." This verdict, at 12:30 p. m. today, freed Mrs. Antoinette McCarris, 26, of the charge she had murdered Joseph Lee on the farm they rented 5 miles from here.

It took a jury of six men and six women, all married, and all parents, 2 hours and 23 minutes to decide that when Mrs. McCarris testified she shot Lee accidentally on July 4, while trying to "provide some Independence Day noise" for her two small children who had no fireworks, she was telling the truth.

The Commonwealth sought to prove Mrs. McCarris killed Lee in a jealous rage over his attentions to Bernice Doyle, 20, Philadelphia, who figured in most of the testimony as "that blond." Mrs. McCarris denied this and even professed "admiration" for Miss Doyle.

The gaunt, angular woman received the verdict with no outward display of emotion, but a few minutes later said the decision came as a surprise to her as she had been absolutely certain in the belief that she was going to jail.

The courtroom, in which another trial was in progress, was cleared at 12:25, when word came to Judge Harold G. Knight, fro mthe adjacent jury room, that a verdict had been reached.

Drug Store Securities Are Found by Hunters

The nonnegotiable securities taken from the Herndon (Va.) drug store early Sunday morning after two safes had been blown open were found yesterday afternoon by two hunters under the Difficult Run Bridge on the Alexandria-Leesburg pike, near Colvin Run, Va.

Two boxes in which they had been locked were also discovered though the bonds were scattered on the ground. Center Ferrey and Russell Wyncoop, of Colvin Run, who recovered the valuables, said they would return them to the owner today. No value has ever been placed on the securities.

DEALING WITH EXPLOSIVES.

The scattered wet gains in the recent election are having the effect of stirring up the fighting spirit of the drys. Exaggerated wet claims do not serve to discourage the bone-dry element, but serve to inflame it into a fierce determination to keep the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act intact. Conferences among the drys are now beginning, for the purpose of developing a more aggressive leadership and a bigger war chest. As the dry alarm spreads through the country it may be expected that a powerful reaction will surprise the wringing wets who have assumed that the prohibition hosts were on the retreat.

A significant feature of the recent election is the fact that neither Gov. Roosevelt nor James Hamilton Lewis attributed his victory to the wet vote. Both of them steered clear of any discussion of the wet and dry question in discussing the reasons for their success at the polls. Apparently these astute politicians are not quite ready to antagonize the dry vote of their States and of the United States.

The drys have the advantage of position in the coming struggle. They are intrenched behind the almost impregnable barrier of the Constitution. The wets must take this position if they are to legitimize the liquor traffic. No mere majority can accomplish this feat. All but twelve States must be made to change their stand in order to make the country wet. In some quarters it is believed that the country can be made wet by a change in the Volstead act, liberalizing the alcoholic content of beverages. But even this would require a majority vote in both houses of Congress. At the rate of wet gains as shown in the recent election it will be many years before the wets can obtain a majority in Congress. Will the drys be idle during this time, with the threat of utter defeat staring them in the face? The signs point in the other direction. The drys have rested easily for several years, and have not taken the trouble to make a fight, feeling secure in their position. If they should now become convinced that it is necessary to rally to the support of the eighteenth amendment they are likely to organize a latent strength that will at least postpone for many years the decisive triumph of the wets.

As this dry strength manifests itself in the several States it is to be expected that the great parties will take due notice of it and govern themselves accordingly. In spite of the radical wets who would risk a crucial battle in 1932, on the question of repeal of the eighteenth amendment, it is quite possible that experienced leaders in both parties will exercise caution in dealing with this highly explosive issue.

SPAIN IN AN UPROAR.

Spain's rioting, disorder and intrigue against the monarchy represents a new outburst of resentment which accumulated during the recent dictatorship. Every element with a grievance is taking advantage of this opportunity for agitation. The economic depression has added to the general unrest. Spain is facing a siege of strikes, Communist intrigue, Republican plots and possible revolution.

An election will be held on January 4 for the first time in eight years. The new Cortes is expected to take charge of the situation and restore constitutional government. If a free election should be allowed, as promised by the government, the Republicans will probably secure a strong foothold in the Cortes, and the monarchy may be threatened. Monarchical government is a powerful tradition in Spain, but radicals and Republicans are increasing in numbers. Furthermore, they are dissatisfied with economic conditions, and are inflaming the unemployed.

Advocates of the republic have no central leader, and in ordinary times the movement attracts principally students and reformers. But the labor class is now disgruntled and communism has gained a strong foothold in the labor unions. This gives the current strikes and clashes between rioters and the police a political significance which may be manifest in the election.

Since the dictatorship was forced out Premier Berenguer has pursued a middling course. For nearly a year he has allowed Spain to drift toward disorder and anarchy, failing either to maintain the discipline of the dictatorship or to turn the reins of government over to representatives of the people. Now antagonistic factions are in a deadly struggle.

The upsetting of Alfonso's regime at this time would take Spain to the brink of disaster. It is doubtful if the Republicans are strong or harmonious enough to maintain a stable government, even though they should win control of the Cortes. Their victory would play into the hands of the Communists, who are plotting to set up a regime of their own. The Communist plot to overthrow the monarchy, which has just been exposed in Madrid, indicates that this element is increasing in strength.

A disorderly and perhaps a sanguinary campaign is to be expected. The eyes of the world will be on Spain for the next six weeks.

HELPING THE REDS.

Even a casual survey of conditions in Russia forces the conclusion that America is giving valuable aid to the Soviet program for communizing the world. A flourishing trade between the United States and the Soviet furnishes capital which the reds employ for Communist intrigue. While most other countries have taken steps to protect their industries from Russian dumping, the United States still allows lumber, coal, manganese, pulpwood and various other products made with slave labor in Russia to be dumped into the American market.

Several great American corporations have used their capital for the development of Soviet industry, in the hope of reaping huge profits, and in disregard of the Communist threat against all capital and its owners. Still other Americans are selling their technical skill to the red regime for fabulous salaries. H. R. Knickerbocker, newspaper man who is making a survey of Russia, estimates that 1,000 American engineers are engaged in promoting the industrial program of the reds. Russia has drawn upon many nations for engineering talent, but America has furnished as many engineers as all the other countries combined.

The Communist program would have failed long ago if foreign experts had not gone to the rescue. The intellectual class in Russia has been decimated. Russian engineers dare not take responsibility for any important piece of work, because they are accused of sabotage if the slightest mistake is made. Such a charge means imprisonment and death. The laboring class, which dominates the great Soviet machine, has not the skill or training for direction of industrial enterprises. Foreigners, mostly Americans, are supplying the brain power of that gigantic enterprise intended to put Russia in a position to overturn governments.

The irony of this situation is beginning to appeal to the American people. Why fight communism at home and encourage it in Russia? When America nourishes the avowed enemy of the world with trade and professional talents, this country is put in a false and foolish position.

PARKS INCREASE LAND VALUES.

Over in Arlington County the question has been raised as to how large a loss of tax revenue will result from the acquisition and appropriation of land for the proposed George Washington Memorial Parkway. A strip extending westward from Long Bridge along the banks of the Potomac to the abutting line of Fairfax County, aggregating some 270 acres, will be required for the parkway, and some taxpayers are of the opinion that the withdrawal of this area from taxation will result in a large loss of revenue to the county. Hugh Lee Kirby, who is one of the most vigorous supporters of the project, has made an extensive inquiry into the effect of withdrawing land from taxation for conversion into parks and boulevards. Because of the extensive park development program that is contemplated for Washington and its environs his conclusions are of general interest.

Experience with park acquisition and the resulting increase in real estate values, says Mr. Kirby, were considered in great detail in studies for the regional plan of New York and its environs. Between 1910 and 1926 land and improvements abutting on the 182-foot wide, 4-mile long Grand Boulevard and Concourse increased in value 1,460 per cent. About ten years ago King's Highway, in Brooklyn, was made a 140-foot wide boulevard. Between 1921 and 1927 land abutting thereon increased in value some 400 per cent. Between 1905 and 1916 the four principal Newark parks increased in value from $1,000,000 to more than $5,000,000. The property immediately adjoining the parks increased in value during the same period over $25,000,000, or more than six times its 1905 price, while the increase in the value of property in the remainder of the tax area was approximately double the 1905 value. A recent investigation of the value of land situated within 500 feet of the Bronx River Parkway shows an average increase amounting to 800 per cent in the ten-year period subsequent to purchase of the land.

The taxpayers of Arlington County need have no fear that the building of the George Washington Memorial Parkway will result in a decrease in tax collections. When land is withdrawn from taxation for park purposes its value is immediately transferred to the abutting property.

Westchester County, N. Y., has enormously increased real estate values and therefore taxable resources by providing parks, boulevards and pleasure resorts.

AN EXPERIMENT IN EDUCATION.

It is now apparent that when Dr. Robert Maynard Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, discussed recently "a University of Utopia," he was not relating some fanciful dream but an actual plan he has worked out for the institution over which he presides. His radical experiment has been sanctioned by the trustees and faculty and will be given a trial during the next five years.

The principal feature of the Hutchins plan is a new measuring rod for education. Credits for courses studied and degrees that are ordinarily passed out at the completion of four years' work are to be abolished. Students will be graduated when they are able to pass a comprehensive examination. Dr. Hutchins admits that a genius may get his college education in two months under this plan, and that the brilliant student will not need to spend more than a year.

The experiment gives rise to some interesting questions. Will students strive only to pass the examinations without absorbing any of the culture or knowledge that is offered them? Will every student have to fit his mind into the same mold to pass the examinations? If not, what standard of judging would be fair to every one? Will not socially inclined students loaf through college for the mere privilege of remaining? Who will decide when each student is educated? What are the fundamental elements of education?

The saving grace of Dr. Hutchins' plan is: First, that the education of which he speaks would only be the basis of a serious student's work. After he had been pronounced "educated" he would be allowed to specialize in the subject of his choice. Students showing no promise in the elementary stages of becoming educated would be dropped out. Secondly, the plan is recognized only as an experiment. Dr. Hutchins admits that the question of what is a good education is one that must be worked out in the course of the experiment. If this innovation in college training does not produce worth-while results, it will be changed or abandoned.

Obviously the experiment is designed to vitalize education. Should it succeed in that aim, Dr. Hutchins would deserve a place in the Hall of Fame. It is more probable that much of the plan will be relegated to limbo before the five years are up. But if it makes some contributions to the problem of higher education, the experiment will not have been in vain.

NO RACKETEERING.

Organized labor has been quick to repudiate the hoodlums who sprayed poison disinfectant over milk that was to be delivered to Washington homes last Sunday morning. The accused face expulsion from their trade union as well as stiff sentences from the court if they are found to be guilty. Inasmuch as statements signed by them admit that they are responsible for the outrage, they already stand condemned by public opinion.

This attempt to terrorize nonunion men was a bungling effort to start a labor racket in Washington. If it had been successful, the National Capital might have experienced a siege of violence by racketeers attempting to prey upon legitimate business. Fortunately the police were on the job. Their excellent work in this case will serve notice on gangsters that the racketeering will not be tolerated in Washington.

When rackets are dealt with summarily and severely they have no chance to get a foothold in a community. Chicago's impotence in dealing with organized crime stands as a warning to other cities to deal with incipient rackets with an iron hand. Washington's law enforcement agencies have set a good example in this case.

Looks as if there ought to be an extra session for congressmen to get together and talk about the extra session.

A Georgia man sawed off the limb of a tree on which he was sitting and was killed in the fall. Many a lame duck knows just how that feels.

TRAILING FUGITIVES

From the New York Times.

"The hardest kind of fugitives to capture are those who go far away from the scene of their crime," said a detective. "If they make a complete and successful getaway, months may elapse before we receive a clue as to their whereabouts. I recall the case of five crooks who were mixed up in a murder. After the crime they all followed different paths. We, however, found them one by one until all of them were in custody except the crook we were most anxious to get. Although we visited many towns and cities where he had lived at different times, we could find no trace of him. We could not have worked harder to find him. We shadowed his relatives and boon companions, but all to no purpose. He had dropped mysteriously out of sight. At one time he had followed the sea, and we concluded he had fled to China or to South America.

"Believing he might be in hiding in some obscure South American port where he had been in his seafaring days, we communicated with the police of such places and had them make a search for him. They, however, could find no trace of him. Several years went by and we concluded he must be dead. Then one day we learned he was living in a village in the south of Ireland. A man who knew him slightly saw and recognized him. The fugitive was not an Irishman and the inland village in which he was living quietly was the last place we would have dreamed of finding him. We got in touch with the police there and had him taken into custody. He never learned how we discovered his whereabouts.

"There are two kinds of fugitives—one who puts as great a distance as possible between himself and his crime, and the other, instead of going away, hides in what he believes to be a safe retreat. It costs money to travel, so many fugitives are not able to go very far from the scene of their crimes. Others who could afford to go away feel they would be safer in the city. All of them think that if they can elude the police for a long time their crime will eventually be forgotten, and if not exactly forgotten, that the police will become discouraged and cease to look for them.

"The criminal who does not flee the city may be as successful in eluding the police as he who runs away. If he has friends who will take him in and hide him, he may be able to keep out of sight indefinitely. A lot depends on his patience. It is irksome remaining indoors all the time, and after days and weeks of voluntary immolation the fugitive becomes restless and emerges from his self-imposed retirement. Usually he begins by going out only at night. He eventually grows bolder and goes out in the daytime. But whether he shows himself by day or night, as soon as he exposes himself he is certain to fall into the net of the police sooner or later. Some one who does not like him communicates with the police; they 'plant' for him and capture him."

SCOTCH COURAGE.

In the days long past, when the horse had not yet become largely a museum piece like the diplodocus, it was not unusual for a man of sentiment and courage to risk his life to save his mount, even to the extent of passing through fire and flame, observes the New Orleans Times-Picayune. And even now that the horse era is departed we are pleased to find that the old heroism survives and may on proper occasion manifest itself in the case of a menaced flivver snatched from the fiery jaws of Moloch. There was an instance recently when a garage connected with a large hotel, and at the moment housing 100 automobiles, burst into sudden flame. There was no hope from the very first of saving the place, but dashing into the structure with a coat drawn over his head, the owner of one of the cars leaped into his vehicle, stepped on the gas and emerged, himself and the car only slightly singed, out of the flaming doorway, like a Hebrew child out of a Biblical furnace. Courage? We'll say so! But perhaps it should be explained that this was in Glasgow and the hero was a Scot.

PUZZLED.

One part of me would give away
The trinkets, gathered day by day.
The other whispers: "Guard your shelf,
You'll later need those things yourself."

One side of me says: "Let it go,
Such words are never worth a blow!"
The other cries: "Don't stay so cool.
Fight, or the world will call you fool."

One says: "Be kind;" one says, "be stern."
I'm puzzled oft which way to turn.
One says, "be fair;" one cries, "be strong!"
Nor can I tell which one is wrong.

Hearing what these two counselors say,
I walk the world from day to day,
Oft wondering if true greatness lies
In being meek or being wise.

The Pack Brings Down More Game, But Only the Lone Wolf Can Choose His Meat.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

If you would keep your independence and continue your development, avoid majorities.

A majority is the ruling power, and to align yourself with the ruling power—whether it be a majority or a czar—is to develop the habit of accepting without argument the ideas of other men. The "good party man" is always a "yes-man"—never a thinker. To the loyal servants of Power, all new ideas are heresy.

The thoughtless sometimes speak of "irresponsible majorities" and "dangerous majorities" as things to be dreaded, but the truth is that a majority naturally tends to be conservative—as all power does.

All influences conspire to keep it from trying anything new. Because it fattens in a feathered nest, it reasons that change could bring it no profit and might disturb its advantages. Its rules and customs are sanctified by usage and hallowed by time. Its beliefs and its works have the support of vanity—as every man's vanity defends and glorifies the work of his hands—and it can not accept a new way without confessing that the old was wrong. Last, and most potent of all influences, is that of inertia. When a man moves into a new house before the attic is ceiled, intending to complete that detail at his leisure, let him resign himself to living with an unfinished attic forever. Each succeeding day will make him more resigned to things as they are, and without discontent he never will overcome the inertia that is the chief obstacle to progress.

Progress—change—reform—all these are the work of minorities.

A minority clamors for change because it has everything to gain and nothing to lose. It sees nothing sacred in established rules and customs, for they are the work of other men, and never yet has the other man's work seemed flawless. It sees faults in the existing order because its eyes are not dimmed by the vanity of craftsmanship nor the pride of possession. It alone sees where reforms are needed, for it is the nature of man to see only the faults in others.

Thus a minority—the party of protest—becomes the nation's critic, reformer and eventual ruler. Its foolish ideas endanger nothing, and its good ones, having won popular support, are adopted by the majority as a means of keeping itself in power.

Be a conformist if you would grow fat in security—if you enjoy cushions more than independence; but never join the crowd unless you are willing to let the crowd do your thinking.

PRO AND CON

Various Aspects of Political Issues Discussed by the Press.

Insurgents Mean Mischief.
Philadelphia Public Ledger.

There can no longer be any doubt regarding the role the Senate insurgents are going to play at the coming session of Congress. They are plainly planning to make mischief all along the line. The success of their announced attack on the administration from two angles—legislation and presidential appointments—would necessitate a special session of the new Congress. For, despite their disclaimers of trying to bring that about, it would be the inevitable result of the program of obstruction which they so frankly proclaim.

Senator Borah was unsuccessful in limiting the new tariff to farm products. After the measure was passed he was among the first to present resolutions looking to a lowering of tariff rates just authorized. Now he is holding a club over the President's effort to obtain for the head of the Tariff Commission a man of outstanding fitness for the job.

The Borah attitude toward Mr. Fletcher is regarded as the prelude to insurgent opposition, extending to other recent appointments by President Hoover. The names of the other Tariff Commissioners, of the members of the new Federal Power Commission and the new governor of the Federal Reserve will also be up for confirmation. In the case of the Tariff Commissioners it looks as if the old coalition line-up against the tariff bill might be revived.

Inequality of Representation.
New York World.

No important fact about the American system of government is so little understood as that we do not have equal suffrage in America. Our whole system is heavily weighted in favor of the rural and against the urban voters. The inequality of the American suffrage prevails in the Federal and the State governments. The simple fact is that a rural voter almost everywhere counts much more than a city voter, and of course a rural voter in a small State counts much more heavily than in a large State. Under our system of government the urban voter is the stepchild of the national family.

In the whole United States there are said to be only 17 States in which both houses of the State Legislature are apportioned according to population. In the other 31 States, which include New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania and Ohio, the rural districts are by the State constitutions given greater representation. It is the general rule that the urban voters are underrepresented and the rural voters overrepresented in these State Legislatures. Yet these State Legislatures will have the power to fix the shape of the congressional districts under the new apportionment. Judging by the experience of the past, the urban voters will have to be vigilant and resolute if they are to get anything like fair treatment.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Wets Gain in Reapportionment of the House, But Not Enough to Win.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Wednesday morning Post carried your editorial comment on the reapportionment of the House of Representatives, in which you point out clearly the probable effect upon the fate of the two political parties. It occurs to me that it might not be without interest to discuss its bearing upon the fate of the eighteenth amendment.

Eleven States gained 26 representatives, while 21 States lost the same number, leaving 16 States which neither lost or gained. The gaining States were California, 9; Michigan, 4; Texas, 3; New York, New Jersey and Ohio, 2 each; Connecticut, Florida, North Carolina and Washington, 1 each. The losing States were Missouri, 3; Georgia, Iowa, Kentucky and Pennsylvania, 2 each, and Alabama, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, North Dakota, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont, Virginia and Wisconsin, 1 each.

All of the 21 losing States, except Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, are dry. Four New England States, 7 Transmississippi States and all of the Southern States in the losing category are dry. The distribution of the winning and losing States would make a crazy-quilt of the map of the United States. Balancing gains against losses the advantage seemingly inures to the wets. It is plainly foreshadowed that the future political riving of the Nation will not follow the old line of cleavage between North and South. Although the wets may seem to be gaining by the more rapid growth of great urbanized States, yet they have no hope of overcoming the vast majority of the States that adhere to the dry cause.

A Suggestion That Motorists Expect Too Much Politeness When Policemen Enforce Traffic Rules.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Why the Board of Trade should pass a resolution commending the District Commissioners for calling the attention of our police force to the desirability of courtesy in dealing with the public, I do not understand.

The Commissioners, incidental to their management of District affairs, did well in reverting to the importance of courtesy on the part of policemen. Their action did not necessarily indicate lack of confidence in the police force. But in the attitude of the Board of Trade in giving special importance to the matter there is the implication that the force as a whole is made up of boobs and roughnecks.

My own observation is that our Washington policemen form a body of which no community need feel ashamed, and I think a very large majority of Washingtonians will indorse that conclusion.

Probably adverse criticism of the police is related for the most part to the pestiferous traffic problem. It may be that there are petty regulations like those in regard to parking which may be all right in theory but do not always make good in practice, I don't know. I am not an expert. But, if regulations of any kind are a source of righteous irritation to the public, the blame, if any, should belong to the authorities who promulgate them. There is no justification for the strictures of live-wire motorists who get peeved because they are not in every instance politely greeted with a deferential military salute on the part of those whose duty it is to see that laws and regulations are obeyed.

Government Dispensaries Would Practically Restore the Liquor Saloon, Writes a Massachusetts Reader.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: We face an election in 1932. The outcome may depend on how many people can be deceived into thinking that the dispensary system, or beer and wine shops, do not practically bring back the saloon. They practically do. The dispensary system in South Carolina (1893-1916) either allowed the dispensary to be a saloon, or blind tigers sprang up that were in effect saloons. Beer and wine shops have always been undercover sellers of hard liquors.

The South and West are not so easily deceived by the lingo, "the saloon never," because they have had much experimentation. The East lacks recent experimentation. Thus its people are gullible and many believe the dispensary would not be a saloon condition returned, or that 2.75 per cent beer parlors are not saloons revived.

We shall have an informed candidate who tells the people that everything brings back the saloon but prohibition, and a repeal candidate who will hold out a dream, talk of a return to a temperance that never existed, and "the saloon never." Shall we go back to the saloon? That is the question.

Not Much Difference Between Grape Sellers and Bootleggers, Says Virginian.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Before Congress appropriates the taxpayer's money to provide for the employment of 500 additional enforcement agents requested by the prohibition department, it should ascertain how much of this force the department expects to use to protect the California grape industry in its competition with the Chicago bootleggers.

To the person who is really and truly temperate there is no material difference between the two classes of venders, the grape seller and the bootlegger.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Football Will Lure Society To Annapolis

High Officials Will See Navy and Maryland Vie Tomorrow.

BECAUSE the smart set takes its sports seriously all the world will be bound tomorrow with fast motor cars bearing football enthusiasts to Annapolis where Navy plays the University of Maryland. Officialdom and its wife, Army and Navy groups, and many others will, like the debs and subdebs, cast care to the winds, tuck their reservations in their pockets and whirl to the Maryland capital for a couple hours of sport.

The Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Charles Francis Adams, will have a box and plans to attend the game. Although first and foremost a yachtsman the Secretary's keen love of sports of all kinds prompts him to follow the destinies of the pigskin whenever possible, particularly when the Navy is in play. That the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Ernest Lee Jahncke, Mrs. Jahncke and their daughter, Miss Adele Jahncke, will go is a probability although definite plans will not be made until today.

Drawn partly by love of the game and partly by the magnet of sons attending the academy, several official families will be represented in the arena when the game opens. Mr. Walter H. Newton, secretary to President Hoover, and Mrs. Newton will motor over, accompanied by their daughter, Miss Grace Newton, and their house guest, Miss Fern Schafer, of Minneapolis. Mr. and Mrs. Newton's son, Mr. Walter H. Newton, jr., is a student at the academy.

Also at Annapolis is Mr. Charles Moffett, son of Rear Admiral W. A. Moffett, retired, and Mrs. Moffett, who is preparing for his first year in the academy. Mr. Moffett will, of course, welcome his family when they reach the gates tomorrow, for Rear Admiral and Mrs. Moffett and their son, Mr. George H. Moffett, will be "among those present."

Two other "sons of official families," Mr. C. Hoffman Clark, of Baltimore, and Mr. Harlan T. Johnson, of Aberdeen, S. Dak., are plebes at Annapolis and they believe that the football world revolves around the victories of the Navy. Mr. Clark is the son of Representative and Mrs. Linwood L. Clark, of Baltimore, who will be at the game, and Mr. Johnson is the son of Representative and Mrs. Royal C. Johnson, of South Dakota, who also plan to go to the game.

Brig. Gen. Charles B. Drake, retired, and Mrs. Drake and Maj. and Mrs. Davis B. Wills will be in the party arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Condon who have a son at the academy.

Mrs. Hoover and Son To Attend Navy Ball.

Mrs. Hoover and Mr. Allan Hoover will be guests in the box of the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Adams at the Navy relief ball, to be held at the Willard Hotel on Thanksgiving evening.

Col. and Mrs. W. C. Jones had as their guests last evening at dinner at the Willard Maj. Gen. and Mrs. John L. DeWitt, Lieut. Col and Mrs. E. B. Gregory and Col. and Mrs. P. W. Guiney.

Representative Addison T. Smith and Mrs. Smith, of Idaho, have returned to the Hotel Roosevelt for the winter.

Representative W. Frank James, of Michigan, is in New York State on a short tour of several cities and before his return to Washington will visit his son, Mr. Newell Charles James, at the United States Military Academy at West Point.

Representative C. L. Underhill and Mrs. Underhill, of Boston, have returned to the Hotel Roosevelt for the season.

Mrs. Franklin S. Leisenring, wife of Col. Leisenring, U. S. A., retired, who has spent several months at the Martinique, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. J. Livingston Brown, of Kansas City, will sail from New York on the U. S. A. T. Chateau Thierry December 2 for the Canal Zone. Mrs. Leisenring will be the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Martin, at Panama City, until the middle of the month, when she will sail for San Francisco to join her two sons at Palo Alto, where they are attending the Muldoon Military Academy.

Mrs. Frank C. Emerson, wife of the Governor of Wyoming has arrived in Washington from her home in Cheyenne and is at the Willard.

Count Volpi di Misurata, former Minister of Finance of Italy, after a brief visit in the capital, returned to New York late Wednesday night.

Deweys Start From Warsaw For Capital

Adviser to Officials of Poland Has Been There 3 Years.

Mr. Charles S. Dewey, who has been serving as financial adviser to the Polish government for three years, has come to the end of his task, and accompanied by Mrs. Dewey left for Paris yesterday en route to this country. Presumably they will come directly to Washington.

News of the Deweys is always of interest to Washington, where Mr. Dewey served as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury. During their residence here, Miss Suzette Dewey, now Mrs. Frederick Moulton Alger, of Detroit, made her bow to Capital society.

When Mr. Dewey was here in October to put his younger children in school, it was thought that he would not bring his task in Warsaw to a close until January.

The departure of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey from Warsaw has caused much regret to the many friends they made during their residence there. It is said that "all Warsaw" could be seen at the Deweys'.

The marriage of Miss Marion Maxwell Darrah, daughter of Col. Thomas Walter Darrah, chief of staff of the Third Corps Area, and Mrs. Darrah, to Mr. Warren Dwight Brewster, son of Mrs. Samuel Dwight Brewster, of Glen Cove, Long Island, and New York, took place in Baltimore yesterday afternoon at the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Redeemer.

Mme. Boncesco, wife of the financial counselor of the Roumanian Legation, has as her guest Miss Fulda Cella, of New York.

Miss Christine L. H. Cowper, correspondent of the London News-Chronicle in America, is at the Dodge Hotel.

Kathleen Knox To Make Bow In Pittsburgh

Capital Debutante to Be Presented by Her Mother.

Miss Kathleen McCook Knox, daughter of Mrs. McCook Knox, will be presented to society in Pittsburgh by her mother, December 20, at a dinner at the Pittsburgh Golf Club. What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"SCORPIO."

THE best hours for you if November 21 is your birthday are from noon to 3 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 7:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. and from 9 p. m. to midnight.

This date is favorable for putting into practice those changes which you have for some time meditated, but which excessive caution has deterred you from making. The day may mark the beginning of a new and successful era in your life.

Children born on this November 21 will, as soon as they are able, become great readers and careful students. The ordinary pastimes of childhood will pass them by unheeded, and their acquisitiveness of knowledge will be very marked. They will not, however, in after years, be able to capitalize to the "Nth" degree their vast store of intelligence.

You always live in the sunshine, and your optimism never fails you. Regardless of the blows that Fate has in store for you—and she has quite a number—you are always persuaded that something worth while awaits you "just around the corner." You are not satisfied, however, to think that the good fortune which you are persuaded will be yours will materialize, unless you help. You are a consistent and persistent worker, bring intelligence and thought to bear on your efforts, and are tolerant of and patient with others and their viewpoint. You are not a "know-it-all," and often derive help and assistance from friends and associates.

In your home life, you are a cheery sort of individual, and it is impossible to be down-hearted or sad when you are around. You are entirely free from moods or temper. You are level-headed, have poise, and a disposition that can be fitly described as enviable and equable.

As a friend, you are quixotically loyal, and at no time has any one had reason to regret the confidence placed in you. Your personality, although not immediately compelling, exerts its influence after a brief contact. You look for the good, not the bad, in people, and those with whom you deal show you the best that is in them. A happy and eventful life is promised you.

Successful people born November 21:

Jacob Sleeper, merchant.
Lewis Henry Morgan, anthropologist.
Mary Johnston, novelist.
Hetty Green, financier.
Emperor Frederick of Germany.

A la Mode INTERPRETS the MODE

White georgette and black lace form this striking gown, with its full, elbow-length sleeves. (Courtesy of Dupouy-Magnin, Paris.)

Paris, Nov. 20.

WILL you ever forget when, three or four years ago, the first ensemble came out and was such a hit? And how they did write and elocute about it! Generally predicting that ensembles would go out with the season—that women would never take to them because they were too expensive—declaring they were not practical—explaining that no woman could afford to have more than two or three ensembles, whereas she could have one or two coats and innumerable dresses—most of these interesting remarks coming from people who were interested in the coat business, of course.

But all these prophecies have failed to come true. Today the ensemble is not only as important as it ever was, but more so, because of the amount of attention that is given to it. And in any collection there is hardly a dress that has not its matching or harmonizing manteau somewhere in the offing, subject to the client's desire to buy.

What makes the coat harmonizing is not just a matter of color, but of cut and trimming as well. Often a gown worked with incrustations will be worn with a coat with the same incrustations but of an entirely different color—there you have the last word in ensembles! The ensemble idea combined with a coat, yet the coat separate and distinct from it, which can be worn with as many other gowns as you wish.

Voila! Today's ensemble!

• • • •

Would you spend $5 on that Christmas present for a woman or girl friend? Oh, and get something that actually would cost, were you to buy it already made, from $25 to $75! No, you do not have to be an able seamstress, only quick at getting a stamped, self-addressed envelope ready to send to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet telling you how to make that darling, lovely boudoir doll I just brought back with me from Paris. She's new and decorative, and different—you'll see!

• • • •

Gracious, that's what it was—and how gracefully lovely and unusual! Just the kind of a dress Monsieur Jean Magnin would design, with his appreciation of the loveliness and grace of womenkind, and their desire for the slightly unusual. White georgette, black shadow lace, Dupouy-Magnin, and Dah-ray sketching it for you—isn't this a lucky Friday?

• • • •

She Fell to Pieces.

Oh, and that hair! Ye gods, one couldn't wait until kindly, or kitty katty Dame Nature made up her mind to restore it to its natural luster and charm! Almost any one of the good tar hair tonic products, faithfully indulged in—but really persisted in for several weeks, day, or night after night—and there was so-o-ome difference in that oldish and broken hair.

• • • •

Just another lovely modern piece of jewelry, brilliants, of course, and colored stones for drops—that's what I have illustrated in the little corner today. Have you any things you would like me to sketch for you here?

Au Revoir!

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Making Life Worthless.

ARE there many husbands on earth like the one pictured in the letter that follows?

When we read of a man like this, we just wish we could have the pleasure of putting him in his place once and for all. But the trouble is that these men are the product of the wife's attitude. Married to different women they would be meek as mice.

When this wife learns to enjoy her meals regardless of what sort of chit-chat is being broadcast from the other end of the table, her husband will learn to eat his dinner without showing off. That is all it is and if told so once in a while he would soon mend his ways. Instead he is taken seriously and made to feel of great importance. This he enjoys and in like proportion he would not enjoy being told to eat downtown if the home service was not to his liking. Taking any man seriously, least of all a husband, is as fatal as it is silly. They are sure to develop something the minute you do.

If you have ever cured a show-off husband will you tell this wife what method you used?

Dear Frances McDonald: I have reached a blind alley after many years of marriage. We started with nothing but love. Now have two homes, help and misery. He nags about everything from morning till night. If everything on the table is cooked to his liking then it is something served from the wrong dish or with the wrong spoon. His comments before the maid humiliate me so I can not even swallow. I am afraid to speak, as his comments upon my remarks are as acid as upon my housekeeping, which is little deserving rebuke. I never have any one here, as I could not stand the mortification of his comments. I feel I am close to a sanitarium for mental ill health all from his constant nagging. Yet when I was ill recently he was tenderness itself. He is ruining every hour of life for me. She help pity me. The children are high strung and nervous because of him. What can I do?

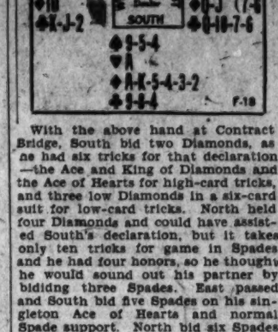
BAFFLED WIFE.

Now if this were King George or even King Carol, or for that matter King Tut, we could understand all this fuss. But just imagine getting all worked up over any man who is such an old woman. This wife should read "The Taming of the Shrew" and act in like manner. If we owned this household pest we would begin the meal some night by saying: "Now tonight the salt has been left out of the potatoes, and the flavor out of the meat, the milk is being served in the coffee pot, and the ice in the soup, just to help dear old dad to enjoy himself." After a few wifely comments along those lines this lad would begin to see that he might as well keep still as start a riot. And the children might begin to enjoy life. He is just an ill-mannered nuisance and should be treated accordingly.

If however the wife can not bring herself to squelch these tirades then she should have her own dinner served in her room. And let him do the best he can without an audience. We have a friend who has not had a meal with her husband in months because he dismissed a waitress one evening before guests. The help were not his problem. And he did it in temper solely to relieve his feelings. Now he eats alone; while she and the two children have a jolly dinner party every night in her room. She confesses that she is sorry she did it for she never knew before how much he had been boring her. Now she hates the prospect of having to eventually accept his apology and share his dinner hour and his uninspiring conversation. Husbands are not gods. Wives should try to believe that fact.

WORK ON BRIDGE

SAFETY FIRST.



With the above hand at Contract Bridge, South bid two Diamonds, as he had six tricks for that declaration—the Ace and King of Diamonds and the Ace of Hearts for high-card tricks, and three low Diamonds in a six-card suit for low-card tricks. North held four Diamonds and could have assisted South's declaration, but it takes only ten tricks for game in Spades and he had four honors, so he thought he would sound out his partner by bidding three Spades. East passed and South bid five Spades on his singleton Ace of Hearts and normal Spade support. North bid six Spades and bought the contract. Six Diamonds would have been a sounder bid, but North was influenced by his honor-count in Spades.

East led the King of Hearts, which South won. South then led the Nine of trumps, North ducking when West played small. The Nine winning, South continued with another trump, West again played small and North won with the Queen. When East discarded, North could see that the King was guarded in the West hand and must be led through again. The three adverse Diamonds might all be in the East hand and West might ruff when South tried to get in on a Diamond lead. However, Declarer had to take that risk and led a Diamond, winning with South's King. South then led another Spade, and by finessing once more Declarer was able to capture West's King on the next trick and so make a clean-up of West's four Spades.

North led another Diamond and East his last Diamond, which, of course, South could take, establishing all the Diamonds in Declarer's two hands; but if that happened, South's Diamond suit—two cards longer than North's—would be blocked. To avoid that, Declarer deliberately played a small card and surrendered the trick to East.

After that, it was all over. East forced Declarer's last trump by a Heart lead, but North led one Diamond, which South ducked, and then South was put in and the remaining tricks (a total of twelve) taken without difficulty.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return, stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

SPLEEN STILL MYSTERY.

A. J. asks for an article on the spleen. She does not remember an article on this subject in the twenty years this column has been running. There have been articles on this subject, but A. J. is not to be blamed for not remembering them. There was so little that I could say that what was said failed to register.

Very little is known about the spleen. It is bound to be an organ of importance, but there is so little that can be done to change conditions in the spleen that, as in the case of the weather, we would have to take it out in talk.

A method of examining the organ by means of X-rays is now being developed. It may teach us much. Perhaps the day will come when the common salutation will be, "How's your spleen?"—and there will be spleen treatments and cures. The method consists of injecting a harmless substance into the blood. This substance is opaque to X-rays. Since the spleen is the bloodiest region in the body, X-rays taken after this injection would show a large, opaque mass. The spleen is a combined blood sac and blood gland. It is a part of the blood system, more than the heart and vessels. These latter merely pump and carry blood. The spleen is the great trysting place of the blood. It is the place where all the blood elements come together for a little spell.

Just what happens while the blood is there is not agreed on. That something does is certain. Unquestionably it is something of a repair shop for blood, but whether it is predominantly a blood graveyard or a blood factory is the point on which there is discussion. The bulk of opinion is that the bone marrow is the great blood factory, the liver is the great blood graveyard, and the spleen is in between, helping to repair the wounded and worn cells, to scrap some old ones and to make some new ones, but never to take the predominating position in either process. It has much more to do with the formation of white blood cells than with the red ones.

It certainly has important work to do. Otherwise it would not be so large and have such an enormous blood supply. It swells up in typhoid, pneumonia, and various other infections, and that means it has work to do in infections. It enlarges in malaria. Ague-cake is enlarged spleen. Certainly it is of importance in that disease. And, finally, leukemia, the disease of the white blood cells, and enlargement of the spleen go hand in hand.

A SEASONAL DISEASE.

Mrs. A. W. writes: I want to know how to prevent and cure small watery blisters that itch, on the soles of the feet.

REPLY.

Some diseases are seasonal. Yours is one that comes along with hot weather.

To prevent, keep the feet cool and clean. Wear sandals or well ventilated shoes. Grease between the toes and around the toenails with a good sulphur ointment. Painting with Castellani's carbol fuchsin paint is said to be even more deadly to the ringworm parasite. To cure, empty the blisters with a fine needle. Leave the dead skin in position as long as possible. Use a dusting powder. Keep the feet cool and clean. Apply ointment or paint.

SWELLING OF THE FEET.

Mrs. M. K. writes: I am on my feet a great deal and my feet and legs swell very much. By taking very hot Epsom salts baths I get relief. After these baths I perspire for about an hour.

1. Can these baths do me any harm?
2. Is three times weekly too often?
3. I have varicose veins. Can these baths make these veins worse?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. No.
3. No.—

YOUR NAME WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph.D.

THE family name "Ormsby" (also spelled "Ormsbee") is frequently found in old English records. It is of Scandinavian origin, and means "he who lives at or near Orm's farm or estate." "Orm" (also spelled "Orme") was a very popular Scandinavian personal name which first meant "the serpent" and which later came to mean "the ship" because of the frequency with which serpents were used as figureheads for ships. The Hundred Rolls mention a certain Alice Orme and a William Orm.

The family name "Ridpath" is merely a variation of "Redpath," and means "he who lives near the red path," that is, the path of red soil. Most families which bear this name have received it because of a former residence in the village called Redpath in Berwickshire. It does not seem to occur in early lists of names.

The family name "Brinker" is especially common in the low German dialects. It means "he who lives on the high grassy plain."

The personal name "Sophie" is ultimately of Greek origin, and means "wisdom."

The family name "Page" is one of the relatively few names whose original meanings are obviously indicated by their present forms. However, the duties of pages have varied greatly in the course of time. In ancient times a page was a boy in training for knighthood and who was therefore attached to a knight's service. The name has come into English through the French, but its ultimate source is the Greek "paidion" meaning "young boy" or "slave." The Hundred Rolls mentions a Lambert Page and a Philip Page.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

GROWING BULBS IN WATER.

HOW we long to perpetuate the springtime. We bring our plants indoors in October and care for them through the winter to lend a garden atmosphere to our homes. Their colorful blossoms bring us happiness, and even the bright green leaves of a foliage plant are inspiring. Think what it will mean in the weeks that are ahead to see our window ledge adorned by a bowl of blooming narcissus. Such a miniature garden will seem like a bit of woodland in the springtime.

Much of the charm of such a garden will depend on the receptacle in which we plant the bulbs. A low bowl of dull pottery or clear glass is always decorative when filled with a few paper white narcissus.

When planting the bulbs in the bowl or dish, see that they stand firmly and are rather tightly packed with pebbles. You may purchase these pebbles from your florist or gather them along some stream or pool.

As soon as the planting is completed, fill the dish with water and place it in a cool, dark place to give the bulbs an opportunity to develop roots. So many people do not understand this phase of their culture. Unless the bulbs have a large root system they will never develop long leaves and what are termed first-quality flowers. Never bring the dishes to the light until they are practically filled with roots.

Never cover the entire bulb with water; merely bring it up over the roots. It is best to grow narcissus in a light, cool room rather than in a place where the temperature remains about 80 degrees. If kept where it is too warm, the growth will be soft and limber, causing the leaves to fall over the sides of the bowl rather than to be self-sustaining and erect. Plants which have an overabundance of leaves are never self-supporting.

After the bulbs have set their buds you can safely carry them to some warmer place, but in the early stages of their career it is best to keep them where it is cool but extremely sunny. Never keep them in a really shady location. They will, of course, bloom in a north window, but it must be a light place.

Jean's Santa Claus

By JULIE ANNE MOORE

He has lost her suitcase, so after dinner she accepts his invitation to spend the night at the home of his friend Marcia White. When they arrive, Marcia kisses Claude.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER V.

The relation between these two—between Sandy of the laughing eyes and this quiet beauty, Marcia White—Jean could not grasp. And even had she known, her irritation at their intimacy would have been no less. She resented Marcia's confident caresses. Even more she resented Sandy's easy acceptance of them.

"I've no end of work yet tonight," Sandy observed presently. "If you ladies will excuse me. . . ."

The thought of being left alone here with this strange young woman caused Jean's heart to pound against her ribs. She wanted to reach out and grasp Sandy's arm and cling to him. She wanted him to stay or to take her with him.

But when, as he stood in the hall doorway, Marcia once more slipped her arms about him and kissed him, Jean turned her back on them and stood by a front window from which she could look down into the street.

She heard Marcia's voice. "You'll have breakfast with us, dear? . . . Not before 10, now; we shan't be awake before 9."

Sandy's voice was a low, pleasant rumble. But a moment later she heard him call, "Good night!" and knew that he was speaking to her. She turned slowly and nodded. "Breakfast here at 10," he said then, and she nodded again.

A metallic click from the hallway told her that he had gone.

Marcia came back into the room, gliding softly across the thick rug. She smiled at Jean as she turned on a table lamp, then stepped back and snapped off the hidden ceiling light.

"Isn't he a darling?" she asked, almost disappearing in a deep overstuffed chair, obviously comfortable despite its eccentric design. She took a cigarette from the silver casket on the black cylinder table beside her and held it idly between her fingers.

Jean asked quietly: "Could I get you a match—?"

Marcia turned to her quickly. "I'm sorry. I'm so much alone I forgot. Will you have a cigarette?"

"No, thank you."

"You don't smoke? My dear, however do you manage to think without smoking?" From the cylinder table she lifted what Jean had taken for a decoration, a small black cup not unlike the mouthpiece of a telephone. Jean saw that it drew a thin wire with it and knew that it was an electric lighter.

Jean left the window and dropped to the end of a couch of the same modernistic design as was Marcia's engulfing chair.

"I suppose the answer to that last question is that I don't think."

Marcia's black eyes lifted in surprise. "But you must, my dear. You've thought yourself out of an uncomfortable situation this very night." And then, a note of sympathy in her soft voice: "Why did you say that? Aren't you at ease here?"

"Yes . . . yes, of course," Jean stammered, embarrassed. "But . . . This is an imposition on you. You're awfully good to take me in, but if I had thought . . . at the right time, it wouldn't be necessary."

Marcia smiled wisely. "You're regretting your decision to come to New York? . . . But you shouldn't. It is here, in New York, that life is really lived. Everywhere else . . ." her slim hand performed an indefinite arc . . . "everywhere else it is . . . endured."

She dropped her head on the back of the chair and blew a little cloud of blue smoke toward the ceiling.

Jean watched her curiously, but remained silent.

Presently Marcia sat up, dropped her cigarette through a small hole in the cylinder table, and leaned slightly forward, her black eyes searching Jean's. She asked quietly: "Do you mind if I give you a little advice?"

Jean assured her, smiling: "I'd be very grateful."

Marcia returned her smile. After a moment she said: "I have been in New York almost five years and it would be difficult to conceive of more experience packed into that period than I have had. And yet, summed up, it has revealed to me but three really important facts of life . . ."

Jean was listening intently.

"The first," said Marcia, "is that it is a man's world. You can't get away from that. The woman who thinks she can make her way in competition with men and without their help is simply shutting her eyes to the truth . . . The second, the man never lived who could not be wrapped around some woman's little finger. Not every woman's, mind you, but some woman's. The woman must choose her man, the sort of man who is susceptible to her own particular charm . . ."

Marcia settled back in her chair once more and proceeded to light another cigarette.

Jean stirred uneasily. "You said there were three . . . facts of life . . . didn't you?"

Marcia, lowering the lighter to the table, nodded thoughtfully. "The third," she said, "is the most important of all. If we were not blind we could see it before we were out of high school. But we do not. From infancy we are filled with the 'sublimity of love,' and the 'power of intellect' and the 'force of character.' No wonder we are confused . . . The third, my dear, is that woman's power over man is her physical charm. Not love, remember, nor intellect, nor character . . . but her ability to make herself physically desirable in his eyes."

The blue pools of Jean's eyes revealed all too plainly her utter amazement. It seemed to her impossible that a woman so beautiful as Marcia could so calmly discredit everything that was fine and noble in life.

She was still struggling with her outraged feelings when from somewhere came three sharp rings of a small bell. She saw Marcia glance at her quickly, then rise languidly and saunter toward the hall door.

"There's a valuable rule that I might throw in for good measure," Marcia said quietly from the door. "Never be content with one man, for," she smiled wisely, "there is safety, in more ways than one, in numbers."

Alone, Jean got up quickly and ran to the door through which Marcia had first entered. Marcia had said she had been tidying up Jean's room, but the room Jean looked into was obviously a miniature combination of library and study, for the walls were lined with books and a large flat-top desk at one end was literally covered with writing paper and open books.

Voices came to Jean from the hallway. She hurried back to the chair she had been occupying and tried to appear comfortably settled.

Marcia came in, laughing softly. There entered behind her an extraordinarily large man of barely less than middle age, whose hair was as black as Marcia's, but whose years and dissipation were evident in the lines of his fleshy face and the loose skin under his small, greenish eyes.

He bowed soberly when Marcia introduced him. His name was Fargeson.

The second man appeared so unexpectedly from behind Fargeson that Jean almost jumped. He was not more than 2 inches taller than Jean and would have weighed less. What little hair he had was straw colored, and his nervous gray eyes looked out from beneath almost hairless brows that began in a point over his nose and rose at sharp angles. He carried a black derby in one hand and a document case under the other arm.

"This is Mr. Diggers, Miss Melba," Marcia said carelessly, as if it didn't really matter.

"Slim for short," said Diggers in a thin voice. His smile was more like an attack of facial paralysis, his mouth drawing up on one side and the eye on the same side almost closing. "After shakin' wid Mr. Fargeson," he added presently, "you'll be thinking Slim Diggers don't belong. But listen, kid," confidentially, "Slim's the bird w'at delivers the goods. You don't see Mr. Fargeson bringin' in nothing, do you? But look at this." He held aloft the leather case boastfully. "Ten bucks a pint. That's w'at it costs, and——"

The patient smile Fargeson had worn at the beginning of this monologue faded slowly. Now he held up a big hand commandingly. "Shut up, Slim. Put the stuff down somewhere and beat it!"

For a moment Diggers looked up at the big man before him, scowling. But suddenly he wheeled about, set his burden in a chair and stalked out of the room.

Marcia and Fargeson exchanged knowing smiles as the sharp clicks of the lock told them that the outside hall door had been opened and shut.

"The worm turns," said Marcia. "I'd keep my eye on Slim if I were you, Bill. He only bares his teeth now, but some day he may bite. * * *"

Fargeson's low chuckle scoffed at the thought. "Why talk about nothing?" he asked. His green eyes moved appraisingly over Jean. "Is Miss Melba another of Clause's * * * proteges * * *?"

Something in his manner angered Jean. She stared at him challengingly for an instant, then turned to Marcia. "I'm * * * tired," she said quietly. "May I go to my room?"

Marcia glanced at Fargeson quickly. But she was smiling again when she slipped an arm about Jean's shoulders and walked with her along the hall to a large bedroom at the back of the apartment.

When at last she was alone, Jean fell across the bed and covered her eyes with her arm. She was utterly, utterly miserable. Her brain was a maelstrom of confusion, suspicion, regret, loneliness, fear, anger * * * wonder. Who was Marcia White? Who was Fargeson? Who was that little viper, Diggers? Where did they fit into the world of Sandy Clause?

Her door was half open. She got up and closed it quietly, then felt her way across the dark room to the one window on the south side.

Instantly her eyes caught the gay flicker of a star low in the heavens, and her heart gave a little jump. "My wishing star," she said to herself, "I almost wish I could take that wish back."

* * * *

If only she might walk out of the apartment without having to explain. If * * * But why couldn't she?

She opened her bedroom door and listened. Not a sound. She ran back to the bed, caught up her hat and purse, and returned to the door.

Softly she made her way to the door that would let her out of the apartment and glanced nervously toward the open living room door. What she saw sent a cold thrill along her spine. Fargeson held Marcia in his arms, his lips pressed to hers. They were in plain view, but only Fargeson's face was toward her. A wave of relief swept over her as she realized that his eyes were closed.

Quickly she passed into the corridor. But she dared not close the door. A false click would give her away.

Breathless, she darted along the corridor and down the stairs. The elevator was coming up. She waited until it had passed and continued her hurried descent.

But when she came to the lobby and was about to open the door she heard some one coming. She dropped down between a radiator and the door and waited.

A man came in, was about to punch the elevator button when he apparently changed his mind and started up the stairs. When he came to the half-landing and turned, Jean saw his face.

It was Sandy!

Jean thought of the scene she had just witnessed in the apartment, of the door she had left partly open, of Marcia's three facts of life, of her incidental, "Never be content with one man."

Then she was running again, through the door, and out into the night.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

GRADUALLY, most of the plays that opened in Washington are moving on to New York. Two opened there this week—"Marseilles," the Marcel Pagnol drama produced here in the Belasco by Gilbert Miller, and "Tonight or Never," the David Belasco starring vehicle for Helen Gahagan. This play, by Lili Hatvany, also had its premiere at the Lafayette Square opera house. The next Broadway event with which Washingtonians are concerned will be Ethel Barrymore's venture in "Scarlet Sister Mary," scheduled for Tuesday night, November 25.

* * * *

WHEN Katharine Cornell's present play, "Dishonored Lady," leaves the stage of the Belasco it will have but four more weeks of life. After that it goes to the limbo of things theatrical, though it will be remembered in the prayers of the laity for many seasons to come, no doubt. Miss Cornell, in January, will start rehearsals on a new play, which will be ready for the market some time after George Washington's birthday—with the possible chance of a Washington opening. This is the play built around the celebrated love affair of the Brownings—Robert and Elizabeth, the poets—and to be christened later.

* * * *

IN the company at the Belasco this week is Sir Charles Francis, the English actor, playing the part of a lord of the manor. Sir Charles, while true to his majesty, the king, has spent a deal of his time in later years on this side of the Atlantic—and, recently, he married an American girl who was Miss Louise Reinhardt, from Wilmington, Del. They are spending their honeymoon touring the United States with the Cornell company. Many Washingtonians have entertained them during the stay here.

FROM Romaine Callender, one of the originals of the National Theatre Players, comes word that he has annexed quite a job with the latest New York success, "Grand Hotel," a German play written by Vicky Baum, the leading novelist of Der Vaterland. The play is from the production shop of Herman Shumlin, who gave to the world "The Last Mile"—and though there are 51 persons in the cast, Mr. Callender is up amongst the headliners. "I think I am a lucky actor," he writes, "to be in such a huge success—especially these days." The answer, of course, is the good old English, "Right-O!"

* * * *

JOHN PHILIP SOUSA is not the only Washingtonian who knows how to compose marches. Yesterday, when the celebrated bandmaster received such a splendid ovation at Union Station, with the Marine Band out in force, "The March King" was presented with the latest doughboy marching song, "Kings of the Highway," being an original composition of Col. Reynolds J. Burt, of the U. S. Infantry, and dedicated to that outfit. Lieut. Comdr. Sousa thought so much of the march that he played it in his two concerts here. Col. Burt is the official song master of the Military Order of the Carabao.

SUNDAY night will be a gala one on the river front when the first play of an exceedingly interesting repertoire will be unfolded by the Show Boat Players. Technically—or is it commercially?—the show boat is known as the James Adams' Floating Theater. It is being brought to Washington by the Kallipolis Grotto, under the managing directorship of Carleton Howell—and, furthermore, it's the same show boat featured in Edna Ferba's celebrated novel, and later in Flo Ziegfeld's masterpiece of the musicals, "Show Boat."

April Week High Spot For Memorial Visitors

A total of 11,250 persons visited the Lincoln Memorial at night during the week of April 19, 1930, that period marking the peak of the fiscal year, according to statistics compiled by Capt. Ray S. Montgomery, superintendent of the park police, and made public yesterday by Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant.

Lightest attendance at the memorial was during the week of January 4, when only 75 visited the shrine at night, the report showed.

Hoover's Grandchildren To Find Nursery Ready

(Associated Press.)

The three little grandchildren of President and Mrs. Hoover will find a modern nursery ready for them when they come to the White House to live, probably within two weeks.

Alterations are under way on the third floor of the White House, to provided three bedrooms and a playroom for the trio, Peggy Ann, 4 years old; Herbert 3rd, 2, and Joan, the baby. They are the children of Herbert Hoover, jr., who is ill at Asheville, N. C.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

Too Good.

Most children give sufficient evidence of natural naughtiness to cause their parents to feel that there is no such thing as a child's being too good. Yet occasionally one does see a child who is just that.

Docile children, who conform faithfully to the pattern of behavior laid out for them by their elders, may be the most convenient children for their parents to bring up, but they very probably are neither learning to develop their own best abilities, nor to make adjustments to people which will be serviceable to them when later they undertake an independent existence.

It is not natural for a child to be good from an adult point of view. A child is naturally noisy, occasionally destructive and interested in pursuits that are apt to ruin his clothes, bring him grubby to the dinner table and cause his room to look a good deal like a junk shop.

A child who is always neat, clean and quiet, who always does as he is told the moment he is spoken to, who, furthermore, evidences none of the usual crass selfishness of childhood, has certainly been forced into the mold of conventional behavior before his inner growth could possibly have made it an expression of civilized feeling.

Such outward conformity in childhood can only be achieved at the cost of a good many violent repressions, which are more than likely to cause trouble later on.

The repressed attitudes either break forth in all their crudeness at some later date when we may rightly expect a higher lever of behavior, or the child may be permanently kept from realizing his own interests from knowing his own wishes, or pursuing activities calculated to give him genuine satisfaction.

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood—Barry Connors was a lawyer, actor, sailor, dancer, actor again and short story writer in the order given. Now, at 47, he is a playwright.

WILLIAM POWELL.

While Connors was in vaudeville he wrote his own acts as well as the songs he sang. During lay-offs he wrote short stories.

With typical beginner's luck, he sold the first one he ever wrote. Then he turned out "about 300 more" without making a single sale.

One of Connors' successful stories so impressed Edward Esmonde, a friend who had been a vaudeville actor for 43 years, that he suggested the actor-author turn playwright.

We'll let Connors, just arrived here to write for the movies, tell about it.

"I had never written a play nor even thought about it. Moreover, writing a play requires a good deal of time and I needed to work, because I was just about 'broke.'

"Esmonde said he would 'grubstake' me until I wrote a successful play. So I left New York and went to the high Sierra Mountains in California where I got a cabin and prepared to write.

I had no idea how long it would take me to write a play. I worked eight months, nights mostly, and completed one. But, I wasn't satisfied so I started another. A year later I finished it."

Reward.

Connors didn't give all his time to writing. He says he felt ashamed to take money from his friend and seemingly accomplish so little. In order to pay some of his expenses he prospected for gold, hunted, fished and trapped.

With a singular perseverance, however, Connors stayed on the job.

"I was in the mountains for four years and nine months, determined to make some kind of a showing," Connors went on. "In 1923 I went back to New York with five completed plays. Esmonde sold four of them and three were produced."

In return for Esmonde's confidence in him, and for virtually supporting him for five years, Connors made his patron not only his business manager but his partner. And now Connors gives a large portion of his earnings to Esmonde.

In Passing.

William Powell was a villain in nearly 30 pictures before he played a sympathetic leading role. . . . The team of Wheeler and Woolsey will be split after one more picture. . . . They will be featured alone. . . . Renee Davies, sister of Marion, has become representative of a theatrical paper in Hollywood.

New Drilling Is Started At Base of Monument

Drilling on the fourth of a series of excavations to determine the depth of bedrock around the base of Washington Monument was started yesterday. A depth of 50 feet was reached in the new hole, disclosing a sand and gravel fill similar to that found on the north and west sides of the shaft. The third hole showed soft rock about 100 feet down and bedrock at 128 feet.

The excavations are being made for the National Capital Park and Planning Commission to determine the soil and rock structure around the Monument for guidance in constructing the proper foundations to support the Monument when the proposed sunken gardens are built on the Monument Grounds.

Truly American Music Seen for Near Future

Paris, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—American music, which is neither Indian, Negro nor jazz, will burst upon a startled world before many years, compelling the unstinted admiration of the world's masters, Wheeler Beckett, guest conductor of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra, told a gathering of Americans here.

In spite of America's material advancement, he declared, the country remains permeated with a Celtic mysticism which will emerge in the music of its young composers. Those young men now are reaching after ideals they have not yet succeeded in expressing, he said. This triumph, Mr. Beckett believes, is coming as the result of a series of experiments which have not evolved a national music.

COUNTESS REGAINS CITIZENSHIP IN U.S.

New York Woman Gives Up Both Title and Allegiance to King of Italy.

MARRIAGE NOT INVOLVED

Countess Freida Frasch Costantini, of Tulip Hill, Locust Valley, Long Island, N. Y., regained her American citizenship here yesterday.

Before Justice William Hitz in District Supreme Court, she renounced her title of nobility, also her allegiance to the King of Italy, and swore to uphold the American Constitution and be loyal to the flag.

Mrs. Costantini came to Washington Wednesday night and was still here late last night. She made the trip, it was said, especially to expedite her resumption of citizenship. She was sponsored by John A. Kreitz, of the Dresden Apartments, Washington, and George L. Shearer, of 61 East Sixty-sixth street, New York City.

In her petition she gives her occupation as housewife. She was born August 3, 1879, at Cleveland, of German parentage. She was married September 18, 1922, in New York City to Count David A. Costantini, of Florence, Italy.

Mrs. Costantini makes it clear she is still married and that her husband's residence is Paris, France. She states that she came to America November 11 and intends to remain in the United States. In asking to be restored to her American citizenship, she explains that she never has accepted any other nationality by any affirmative act.

Mrs. Costantini told the court that before her marriage she was known under the name of Whiton, having been married to Henry D. Whiton at Cleveland. She explained that she has a child by that marriage, born in 1904.

Rich Gifts From Unknown Mystify Farmer and Wife

Jewelry Is Left in Mail Box of Clarion, Pa., Couple, on Three Occasions; Note Says Presents Represent Gratitude for Old Favor.

Clarion, Pa., Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Into the prosaic lives of a respectable Clarion County farmer and his wife has come a mystery for which they find no solution—a mystery of valuable gifts left in the family mailbox by a person whose identity is not disclosed.

On Halloween of 1928, Mr. and Mrs. John Neely returned to their farm home late and found in the mail box a cigar box containing a valuable watch and a mesh bag of excellent quality. They feared trouble would result if they disclosed the articles were in their possession, they said, and put the gifts away and kept silent.

The farmer and his wife again were away from home on Christmas Day of 1928. When they returned, another box was in the mailbox. In it was a man's ring set with a ruby and a diamond ring for a woman. Also there was a note saying that the Neelys need not be afraid to wear the gifts, because they came from an unknown friend whom Mrs. Neely had befriended when she was very young. It added that some day every one would know whence the gifts came.

The third visitation of the unknown friend was made two nights ago. While the Neelys were away from home a man's diamond ring and a pendant set with two large diamonds were left in the mail box with a note explaining that these were Christmas gifts.

Mrs. Neely remembers no one to whom she rendered a service, as set forth in the donor's note. The Neelys have shown the gifts to persons who are able to judge their worth and have been assured that the articles are valuable.

Hole in Gasoline Line Delays Ammel's Hop

Colon, C. Z., Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Capt. Roy W. Ammel suffered misfortune today in attempting to take off on a nonstop flight to Chicago and will not make another attempt before tomorrow noon at the earliest.

As Capt. Ammel was preparing to go he found a gasoline line had been punctured and considerable work was necessary to repair the damage. A double crew of mechanics was placed on the job.

Healy Cash Ample At Time of Loan

Mrs. Ewald's $10,000 Did Not Fill Lean Larder, State Declares.

New York, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Bank accounts of Mrs. Martin J. Healy, wife of the Tammany district leader who is on trial, along with Thomas T. Tommaney, charged with barter of a judicial appointment, today were introduced in evidence. The accounts, showing deposits of several thousand dollars during the spring of 1927, were exhibited to show that when Healy borrowed $10,000 from Mrs. George F. Ewald he and his wife had ample funds of their own.

The indictment on which Healy and Tommaney are being tried charges that this loan was in reality a payment by Mrs. Ewald for their support of her husband for the post of city magistrate, to which he was appointed in April, 1927, a few days after the loan.

Herman Silverman, a city marshal and a precinct captain in Healy's district, pictured his leader as a philanthropist who, instead of asking money for political favors, gave them freely and contributed from his own pocket to Silverman's upkeep in lean times.

Loot of Bank Robbers Placed at $100,000

Berry, Ala., Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Search for bank robbers who looted the Bank of Berry of $15,000 cash and an undetermined amount of negotiable stocks and bonds last night was turned toward Memphis tonight. J. W. McClung, special investigator of the State law enforcement department, said he believed the robbers were in Memphis by the time the robbery was discovered this morning.

The robbers burned their way into the bank vault with torches and then cut through a 4-inch steel wall.

Value of the stocks and bonds taken had not been determined tonight, as the robbers also had looted individual safe deposit boxes. Police said the first estimate they received was $100,000.

Don't Spend a Dollar to Eliminate the Depression Unless—

"I DON'T understand.

I AM a married man. Earning an average salary. I have a family . . . a home. I've got some money in the bank. I own some insurance.

I'M not a business expert, but I do know that business is below scratch. I know that our exports are down. I know that the stock market has fallen through a manhole. You don't have to tell me about this thing called depression. I know it as well as you do.

I KNOW that times, although not as terrible as they are painted, are not so good. Still I am being urged, on all sides, to buy now. They tell me that buying now will help clear up the depression.

BUT, is this a good reason for spending my money? Am I to endanger my own welfare? I don't understand it at all. I contribute to the Community Chest. I am ready to give to any worth-while aid organization. But have I, an average human, reached such a stage in my social development that I am likely to hurt myself by recklessly buying things simply to help the other fellow out?

ON the other hand, if I were told to buy because food and clothing, automobiles, real estate, furniture and all necessities are down to prices that say 'buy now,' I might understand. I might buy now. Not because of a depression. But because I need these things . . . and that it would be wise and economical for me to buy now. Incidentally, I would be helping to turn the wheels of industry. And in this way do my share toward lifting the depression.

TELL me that I gain by buying, and I will buy. Tell me to spend my money just to help out the world at large—then you can draw your own conclusions."

MAY The Hecht Co. add a final paragraph to this immensely human and logical statement? Buy now because you can get more for your money today than you possibly could in years. We are not asking the people to be charitable and buy because of conditions . . . but because we, and other well managed stores, are offering better merchandise at prices that make it foolish to hold off buying any longer. And that, we believe, is the way to end the depression . . . which, after all, is not as bad as we may think.

WASHINGTON: FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1930. 13

G. W. SLIGHT FAVORITE OVER CATHOLIC TONIGHT

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The decision to charge $30 for working press tickets for the Army-Navy football game on December 13 comes as a bit of a shock to me, for I have yet to pay my first nickel for admission to any sporting spectacle and believe literally and with passionate devotion in the freedom of the press, especially at the box-office. My passion about the freedom of the press at the box-office amounts to a mania, and I do hope and trust that the committee in charge will not argue with me about the same but just humor me in this respect.

In other years, I also believed in the freedom of the press in saloons and, theoretically, I still do, but Congress, fortunately, wiped out the saloon, so the issue died.

Whalen Should Not Carry Joke Too Far.

I earnestly suggest that Mr. Grover Whalen, the man who put the big game over unassisted, do not carry this joke too far. There was an element of ghastly humor in it and I have smiled inwardly, which is the most that one can do when the jest involves one's sacred principles, but, now that the fun has been enjoyed by all, Mr. Whalen ought to announce that he was only having a game, as the English say, and start the distribution of the dead-heads or skulls. Otherwise, the idea might catch on with the thoughtless element of the public and the sport correspondents be forced to pay their way into their workshop, a fate which would amount to dishonor.

It isn't the money but the principle, although the money undoubtedly is something. My point is that I am sensitive about my amateur standing at the turnstiles and do not believe that the most thoroughly unemployed person in the U. S. A. would add $50, or even $50,000, to the relief fund at the cost of the amateur status of our fine body of men, the sport writers. It is not that we are ungenerous, for in the present instance we all gave publicity until it hurt the West Point Cadets, but there are some things beyond price and, with regard to my amateur status at the stadium gates, the higher the price the more grievous the tragedy.

When Danger Is Near, It Is Time to Speak.

I might be willing to pay $5 or so in the guise of a Government tax on a ticket with the customary bullet holes in it, nominally priced at $50. A tax is not technically a price of admission and amateurism is highly technical in all lines of sport, as Mr. William T. Tilden no doubt would be able to explain.

My box-office amateurism is much more virtuous than that of Mr. Tammany Young, Mr. One-Eyed Connolly or Mr. Pitts Blackman, three gate-crashers of the most vulgar type who go about the country bragging of the shows they have witnessed at no expense. Never before have I made any boast of my record, but Mr. Whalen and his committee are threatening that which is more precious than pearls and it is time to speak out. I have seen, at an inaccurate estimate, about $50,000 worth of sporting entertainment, including football and baseball games, horse, dog and trained flea races, polo, hockey, ping-pong, chess and face-tag contests, tennis and golf tournaments, the daisy chain at Vassar, the Maypole dance at Smith, jai-alai, swimming, fights, championship and otherwise, wrestling matches, marathon dances and track meets, and never yet has any one had the execrable taste and brutal vulgarity to hold me up at any turnstile to state that the free list had been suspended and that I would have to join the common customers and lay the money on the line.

Harvard, Yale and the Western Conference all declined to help the unemployed on the ground that to do so would involve them in a violation of precedent, and, if precedent is that sacred with them, far be it from me to waive one just as important, if not more so.

Willing to Get No Enjoyment From Game for Pass.

This proposal is the idea of some dangerous extremist. Project it and Henry Ford's employes will be buying tickets to get into the factories to do their work, the street car help will have to pay to ride on their own cars, and little show girls, living in duplex garrets on top of the tall apartments on Park avenue, will have to buy tickets from Mr. Mike Jacobs, the scalper, at $15 each, to get into the theaters eight times a week, no trifling sum to a little show girl trying to stay decent in a duplex garret. Mr. Whalen must think sport writers go to football games for fun. They don't. They hate to sit in the best seats at these big shows, for it

Yale Passing Polished by Friedman

Elis Seek to Combat Harvard Aerials Tomorrow.

Columbia Given Fast Drill; Sassce Shifts Army Back Field.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 20 (A.P.).—It looks as if the Yale Bowl will be filled with flying footballs this Saturday. Harvard is expected to bank on forward and lateral passes and Yale did little else today but polish up an aerial offensive of its own. Benny Friedman, former Michigan all-American, was on hand to show the boys how passes should be thrown.

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Coach Horween today put the Harvard Team through a long dummy scrimmage with the freshmen, who used Yale formations, and ended the workout with a long signal drill. The Harvard squad of 34 players will leave tomorrow for New Haven, work out in the Bowl late in the afternoon, and then depart for Wallingford, Conn., where they will remain at the Choate School until almost game time Saturday afternoon.

Columbia's Workout Light But Fast.

New York, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—A light but fast workout kept Columbia's football squad on its toes today as the Lions buckled down to work for the Thanksgiving Day game with Syracuse. Signal drills for both the first and second teams featured the session. Ralph Hewitt took no part in the workout, but is certain to be in shape to play against the Orange.

Carnegie Tech Ready For Temple.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Carnegie Tech wound up preparations for the Temple game with a light workout today. The Tartans will enter Saturday's game in good condition and have more than a faint hope of stopping the Owls, who have been beaten only once this year.

Fordham's Drill Long For Bucknell Game.

New York, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—The Fordham Maroons went through one of the longest practice sessions of the year today when Coach Frank Cavanaugh drilled his charges in every department of the game, from fundamentals to scrimmage. The regulars beat the freshmen by three touchdowns in the 15-minute scrimmage session. Although warning of overconfidence, Cavanaugh said he though the Maroons could beat Bucknell by a couple of touchdowns.

Army Shifts Back Field For Ursinus Game.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 20 (A.P.).—With only three more full practice sessions in sight for the Army team before the Notre Dame game, Maj. Ralph I. Sasse today shifted his back field again. The smoothest combination seemed to consist of Bowman, Gilstly, Sebastian and Stecker. Kilday, Herber, Fields, Prentzel and Carver, all were used with the first team at times, but no definite back field will be decided upon until after the Ursinus Game.

Meehan Puts Lineman In Back Field.

New York, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Head Coach Chick Meehan sprang a surprise at New York University's workout today by sending Mike Firstenberg, a lineman, into the back field. A dummy scrimmage, first of the week, was the feature of the session. The Violets play Rutgers this Saturday and meet Colgate in a charity game December 6.

Carnera-Paulino Bout Postponed by Governor

Barcelona, Spain, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—The heavyweight bout between Paulino Uzcudun, of Spain, and Primo Carnera, of Italy, scheduled for Sunday, has been postponed until November 30. The provincial governor ordered postponement of the match today because of strike conditions.

Bill Hanna, Veteran Sports Writer, Dies

New York, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—William B. Hanna, veteran New York sports writer, died today at the Idylesse Sanitarium at Newfoundland, N. J., after a long illness.

Although more than 70 years old, Mr. Hanna had been actively engaged in covering sports for the Herald Tribune until last May, when he suffered a stroke while reporting an Army-Dartmouth baseball game at West Point.

Mr. Hanna was confined to West Point Hospital for more than a month and then at his request was transferred to Newfoundland, close to the home of his brother, Thomas K. Hanna.

Although familiar with virtually all games in the realms of sports, Mr. Hanna specialized in baseball and football. He was brought up in Kansas City and attended Lafayette College, from which he was graduated in 1878. He began his newspaper career with the Kansas City Star, but came to New York in 1888, joining the staff of the New York Herald. Later he spent many years with the Sun.

A decade ago he returned to the Herald, which subsequently was merged with the Tribune.

Dempsey-Firpo Referee Dies in Lodging House

New York, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—The body of a man identified as Johnny Gallagher, referee at the Dempsey-Firpo heavyweight battle in 1923, lay in the morgue today—a victim of puzzling circumstances.

The man died yesterday of an internal hemorrhage at a lodging house and was identified by callers at the morgue as the former boxing official. The lodging house clerk, Jack Anchell, said the man was brought in Tuesday night and registered by a companion who said he had been struck by an automobile. He had an attack during the night and succumbed at noon.

The fight that Gallagher refereed caused considerable controversy because of the incident in which Dempsey was knocked out of the ring by the "wild bull of the Pampas" and was assisted back by ringside spectators.

Maryland Set For Navy Contest

Large Crowd to See Game at Annapolis Tomorrow.

Old Liners Have Best Record; Even Battle Is Forecast.

AMONG the 22,000 spectators who will pack Farragut Field, Annapolis, to capacity tomorrow afternoon to witness the Maryland-Navy game will be a large crowd of Government and State officials, including Secretary Adams, Gov. Ritchie and their staffs, and many other notables. The clash is the first between the two institutions since 1917.

Coach Curley Byrd concluded active preparations for the game yesterday by sending his whole squad through a stiff signal drill. Nothing but the usual pregame limbering-up exercises will be indulged in today by the Old Liners.

The Maryland squad will leave College Park about 10 o'clock tomorrow morning to proceed to Annapolis by bus. The players will lunch and then get into their uniforms at the academy. Practically the entire Maryland student body and faculty will be on hand for the game.

Close Battle Expected At Annapolis.

Neither team is conceded the advantage and a close battle is looked for. Maryland has by far the better record, but the Midshipmen have been meeting some of the strongest teams in the country.

With Pennsylvania and Army to be encountered in the next few weeks, Navy has been unable to point for the game and will take the Terrapins in its stride. The College Parkers also have difficult games yet to come in the Johns Hopkins, Vanderbilt and Western Maryland contests, and for that reason practically are forced to encounter the Middies without making any but the usual preparations. Both clubs are weak in reserve strength.

Byrd has borrowed liberally of the best features of the Rockne and Warner systems, either one of which as a whole would be unsuitable to the Old Liners. He has also introduced some original touches of his own. Spinners, triple passes and laterals are a prominent part in Maryland offensive operations. Versatility and speed are the chief assets of the Terrapins. The Navy this season has stuck pretty closely to the Warner system.

Maryland Has 1 Victory Over Navy.

Maryland has won only a single victory in the nine games between the two schools which have been stretched over a period of 42 years. The first contest between the two resulted in an Old Line triumph. This battle was staged in 1888. Since then the Middies have copped seven and tied one.

The last Maryland-Navy game was played in 1917 when the Tars walked away with a 62-to-0 verdict.

Hagberg, Navy Full Back, Out of Maryland Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 20.—A snappy formation and signal drill during which the whole crop of plays was rehearsed again and again was today's football menu for the Annapolis Midshipmen as they tapered off for Saturday's game against Maryland. Much attention also was given to defensive play against aerial attacks which the Old Liners are expected to flash.

That Oscar (Swede) Hagberg, big full back, will not get into the lineup against the Terrapins was made even more evident today, as he was not in football togs. Hagberg has been bothered by an injury to his shoulder sustained in the Southern Methodist game last Saturday, and the coach decided to give him a complete lay-off for a few days. Hagberg is the bulwark of the secondary defense, but is not used much as a ball carrier. He is a good punter and has been alternating with Capt. Bowstrom in that line.

"Jack" Castree and Antrim appear to be the logical understudies, although Hurley and Campbell have been coming strong, and it is not unlikely that all four will get a chance some time during the game. Antrim is the heaviest of the group, weighing about the same as Hagberg, 190, and is a seasoned player. The others, however, are faster and somewhat better ball toters.

As to "Joe" Tschirgi, shifty half back, who has been among the casualties since the Ohio State fracas, the coaches still are doubtful as to

Rockne Says He'll Miss Savoldi's Gains And Air Defense Against Northwestern

Ousted Ace Averaged 11 Yards Per Rush This Season.

By QUENTIN REYNOLDS.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 20 (N.Y. W.N.S.).—"Will we miss Joe Savoldi on Saturday?"

Rockne's pale blue eyes looked positively startled.

"Do the flowers miss the rain? Say, Joe was the best offensive full back I ever saw—anywhere. He averaged 11 yards every time he took the ball this year and he always ran between the two tacklers. Will we miss him? Goodness, oh, my goodness, how we'll miss him."

Notre Dame will face Northwestern on Saturday in a game that may well decide the national championship without the services of battering Joe Savoldi, who is sitting at his home in Three Oaks, Mich., heartbroken by the cruel vagaries of a fate which lifted him with a dull thud. His story is too well known to be repeated. Notre Dame is, of course, a Catholic college. One of its iron-clad rules is that none of its students may be married by a justice of the peace. Savoldi broke the rule. He was expelled. There is no ringside story to the affair.

Depends on Mullins And Hanley.

"Notre Dame is a college," Rockne tells you, "not just a setting for a football team as so many think. It was a tough break for the team when Joe had to leave, but I was the first to agree with the authorities when they expelled him. So we'll have to do the best we can with Larry Mullins and this kid, Cay Hanley. They are both coming along, but neither is in Savoldi's class.

"This Hanley, now—a few of the newspaper boys saw him in practice and he looked fine. They immediately spread the word that I was saving him—that he was a fifth horseman or some such nonsense. Hanley is coming along, but, honest, when they start throwing passes near him I shut my eyes. In another year he'll be fine, but now—why he's just beginning to learn about timing and rhythm."

We were having breakfast in the Notre Dame Commons. Breakfast is a bad meal at which to talk. But Rockne will talk football at any time of the day or night. His bacon and eggs were cold.

Rockne Changes Subject.

"I'll have a cigar instead," Rockne said. "Now let's stop talking about my team. You come out late this afternoon and watch us work. Tell me about things in the East. Say, that Lou Little is doing wonders at Columbia, I hear. They tell me he only has one ball player on his team—what's his name? Hewitt? and he beat Cornell and almost licked Brown. He's a great coach, Lou is. What about Chick Meehan's sophomores?

Final Workout Finds Northwestern Eager

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Northwestern's football warriors whipped through their final workout before meeting Notre Dame Saturday, radiating optimism and eagerness for the battle. A dummy scrimmage and a signal drill constituted the workout in which every one but "Pug" Rentner participated. Coach Hanley said there would be no changes in the line-up, except possibly at the tackles, where Marvil, Riley, Engebritsen and Gonya are rated on a par.

Hanley, Successor, Is Weak Against Aerial Attack.

How are they going to be next year? How is my boy Johnny Law getting along at Manhattan College?"

More coffee. Still more coffee. More cigars. But no more talk about Notre Dame. Wait until you see us work, Rockne says. We talk of Yale and Adam Walsh. We talk of Lou Little. We talk about Rockne's magazine articles and his broadcasting.

Cochran Has 170 Run In Match With Hoppe

New York, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Winning his seventh consecutive block, Welker Cochran, of Hollywood, Calif., took a lead of 2,100 to 1,080 over Willie Hoppe today in their twelve block match for the world's 18.1 balk line billiards championship. Cochran won the seventh block, 300 to 209.

For the fourth time in the match Cochran broke the world's high run record of 140 made by Frank Ives in 1901, when he clicked off 170 billiards in the seventh inning. The match went nine innings, Cochran closing with an unfinished run of 51.

TONIGHT, for the eleventh time in that many years, George Washington and Catholic Universities' grid teams take the field against each other in a game over which more predictions of failure and success have hung than any grid tilt here this season. Promptly at 8:15 o'clock at Griffith Stadium the riddle will begin to be unspun.

The early season promise of Jimmy Pixlee's Colonials bid fair eventually to break the spell the Cardinals have held over George Washington in eight of the ten times the two teams have met, but the subsequent showing of Pixlee's men, especially in the Albright catastrophe, have brought the odds down to pretty level ground.

Catholic's record, on the other hand, has not been victory-encrusted enough to please even its most ardent supporters. Its 60-to-0 victory over American was achieved mostly because of the work of Tommy Whalen and Carl DeMello and the demoralized condition of the Methodists.

G. W. Has Slight Weight Advantage in Line.

The loss of Demas and O'Brien from G. W.'s line just about places opposing lines in tonight's battle on a par, with G. W. having a slight weight advantage. It will be the back field men whose superority or inferiority will turn the tide of victory.

Rising Catholic U. hopes took a sharp drop yesterday with the announcement by Coach Bergmann that Johnny Oliver, ace of the Cardinal back field, had sustained a recurrence of an old ankle injury in practice and would be able to play only a few minutes of tonight's game, if at all.

Oliver and Tommy Whalen were the chief threats of the Cardinal offensive with either deemed liable to break away at the opportune moment and outspeed the George Washington secondary for long gains, if not touchdowns. Oliver led the route of the Colonials last year and dazzled the crowd as well as the George Washington team with his broken field running.

Whalen has come along more recently. His play against American University was sensational. His is

U.S.G.A. Ignores Jones' Act In Scheduling 1931 Events

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Although Robert T. Jones, Jr., was not in attendance, his status as a member of the executive committee of the United States Golf Association remained unchanged today at a meeting of this governing group.

The brief statement issued on the committee's behalf by Prescott H. Bush, secretary, contained no reference to Jones nor would any of the committeemen answer a question as to whether the world's champion, having renounced his amateur standing for the talking motion pictures, would serve as a member in 1931.

The indications were that Jones would fill out his term of office, with the likelihood he would not serve with the new executive committee, functioning after the annual meeting, January 9-10, in New York City.

The committee today fixed the dates for the following national tournaments:

Women's championship at the Country Club, Buffalo, N. Y., September 21 to 26.

Men's amateur championship at the Beverly Country Club, Chicago, August 31, to September 5. No action was taken on the "sand wedge," the new concave-faced instrument developed for the special purpose of getting the ball out of sand traps. Its use has been the subject of some controversy, both here and abroad.

JOCK DEFEATS JUDGE SCHILLING IN BOWIE SPRINT

Son of Colin Returns to Best Form

Six Furlongs Run in 1:11 2-5, Fastest of Meeting.

Peto Beats Luggage by Half Length in Fifth Event.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Md., Nov. 20 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Jock, a 6-year-old son of Colin, and once one of the leading sprinters in training, showed a flash of his old-time form when he stepped 6 furlongs in 1:11 2-5, the fastest time of the meeting, to win the Aero Purse here this afternoon.

There was reason for him stepping fast for he was all out to beat Judge Schilling by half a length, with The Spare third, a nose behind, and Lady Capulet less than a length away.

Jock had been unplaced to Grattan in the W. P. Burch Memorial Handicap on the opening day of the meeting, but he ran a smart race. However, when the Rancocas Stable's colt was withdrawn today the public support centered on Judge Schilling and the result was that Jock paid $7.20 straight in the $2 mutuels.

The Spare Assumes Early Lead.

It was one of the prettiest races of the meeting. The Spare, as was expected, got off in front with Jock next and Judge Schilling third, while the other starters, Lady Capulet, Rapid Transit and Best Man were lengths behind. The leaders ran lapped down the back stretch and around the turn, and Judge Schilling, who was in the middle, suffered more than a little interference as they swung into the stretch, for The Spare bore over and Jock lugged in. Here Lady Capulet, which closed fast on the rail, joined them and for a sixteenth the four raced on even terms. But in the last 50 yards Jock nodded down in front and was drawing away as they passed the winning post.

Incidentally, they stepped the first quarter in 0:23 and the half in 0:46 3-5, which is fast for the Bowie track in its present condition.

Sunshine and warm weather and also the improved performance of favorites the day before, brought out the largest crowd of the meeting, easily double that of Tuesday. The betting continued to be light, however, and the mutuel take is far behind that of the meeting a year ago.

The Belair Stud's Petro, 3-year-old colt, won the Combat Purse by half a length, withstanding the continued challenge of the Geneseo Stable's Luggage and stepping the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:47. J. E. Davis's Colossal was third.

It was a 2-horse race from start to finish, Peto leading all the way well ridden by W. Carroll. Before the backstretch was reached, Luggage had displaced Colossal as the second horse, when he leveled down in the futile effort of catching the Peter-Pan colt. He cut down the distance bridging the gulf between Peto and himself from three lengths to the half that separated the two at the wire. Peto was odds on, paying $3.50 and the third favorite out of five races to win.

Ral Parr's filly, The Marquise, won the first dash for 2-year-old maiden fillies by a length and a half, with Steffin up; the Lone Star Stable's Loma Linda was second; the B. B. Stable's Lady Calistoga, third; Mixed Tea, forcing the early pace, held on for fourth.

Marquise Goes to Front.

The Marquise overhauled the early pacemaker, Betty Bet, at the stretch turn and won as her rider pleased. Loma Linda closed fast and had a margin of half a length over the third filly. The start was good, fourteen being engaged and the winner was on the outside, the most favorable spot at this track. The winner was favorite and paid $8.80. The time was 1:13 2-5 for 6 furlongs.

P. S. Randolph's Gay Pal upset calculations in the second race for 2-year-olds, winning by three lengths, with J. F. Schorr's Running Girl second and the B. B. Stable's Carnival third. The Harrison entry of Grace Darling and Dunfern were never prominent in the running. Running girl was in the field group. The winner paid $28.20.

Running Girl was first of the field of fifteen to get away, Gay Pal forcing the pace. Turning into the stretch, E. Watters landed Gay Pal in the lead and drew away, but Running Girl was never displaced as contender in the stretch run. A surprise of the race was the improvement of Carnival, which paid $48.70 to show. They ran the 7-furlongs in the good time of 1:25 3-5.

Stern Chaser Wins In Third.

P. J. Miles' Stern Chaser, the favorite, won the third race at a mile and a furlong in 1:56 1-5, showing good courage in the stretch to overhaul Mary McNeil and Royal Charge, which finished second and third, respectively. Cut Steel, a field horse, was fourth. Fourteen platers contended for the purse, with F. Madely on the winner.

Madeley rode well to extricate Stern Chaser from interference on the back stretch and get into free going. Royal Charge showed much early speed to lead the way, pursued closely by Wrackster and Mary McNeil. Drawing near the stretch, Stern Chaser was third and passed Mary McNeil at the sixteenth. Three lengths separated the second and third horses. The favorite paid $4.70.

Curtsey Takes Sixth For New Owner.

Curtsey, racing in H. Bayard Swope's colors, was up just in time to get the decision by a neck over Essare in the sixth affray, a mile and a sixteenth joust for 3-year-olds and upward. The 3-year-old daughter of St. James—Ethereal Blue ran a good race under S. Renick's piloting. She was the choice and her many backers collected $8.50 for a $2 win wager. First Mission, the pace setter to the head of the stretch, was third and Tall Spin fourth.

The winner, although running under Swope's colors, raced in the name and interest of Bert Mitchell, who bought her this morning.

Mainsheet, owned and trained by A. Hulicoat, scored in handy fashion in the final race of the program this afternoon, beating Pretty Patsy, the favorite, by three lengths over the mile and eighth route. Pat Calhoun, a field horse, was third in the field of fourteen. Mainsheet paid $8.40 in the $2-straight mutuels.

Recent Series of Upsets Menace McLarnin Tonight

Billy Petrolle, on Short End of 3-1 Betting, Also Carries Punch Into Garden Bout; Concedes Weight.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—The Indian sign of the under dog, a powerful influence in recent matches in Madison Square Garden, will hang over Jimmy McLarnin tomorrow night in the belting Irishman's ten-round battle with Billy Petrolle, "Fargo Express," now fighting out of Duluth.

Kid Chocolate, the battling bon bon, went to the post a 4 to 1 favorite over Fidel La Barba, dogged young Pacific Coast featherweight, and wound up running second, to the great disgust of the ringworms. Then a few days later, Al Singer, the lightweight champion, carried his crown and a 3 to 1 advantage into the same ring with Tony Canzoneri and lost both in a single round. Now McLarnin is a hot 3 to 1 favorite to whip Petrolle and the superstitious ones are shaking their heads.

McLarnin's Victory Softened Singer.

McLarnin, one of the greatest fighters at any weight campaigning today, has marched steadily through all the opposition he has been called to face here since he lost a decision to Sammy Mandell in a lightweight title go two years ago. He bounced over Singer in three rounds and that beating is believed to have softened the champion and left him a mark for Canzoneri's sweeping left hooks. He has knocked out a half dozen other highly touted lightweights while New York fans roared their appreciation of his punching powers and boxing skill.

Petrolle, a rugged veteran back to the wars after a lengthy rest, put up two great fights to win the McLarnin shot. Billy whipped Canzoneri in Chicago before the Italian won the lightweight crown, and lost a hair-line decision to Jackie Kid Berg, British windmill, who is considered the outstanding contender for 135-pound honors.

Petrolle is a hefty hitter in his own right, with a sweeping left hook that booms into the body and a nice right to the head. He is chock full of confidence in his ability to belt on even terms with McLarnin.

As the two junior welterweights wound up training today it appeared that McLarnin would have a slight advantage in the weights. Jimmy is due to weigh between 140 and 142 pounds tomorrow while Petrolle probably will scale at 138.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—THE MARQUISE, $8.80, $4.90, $3.40; LOMA LINDA, $5.60, $4.00; LADY CALISTOGA, $6.80.

THE MARQUISE moved up on the run down the back stretch and was taken wide entering home stretch. She finished full of run and was going away at the end. LOMA LINDA was a keen factor until final furlong, when she began to tire. LADY CALISTOGA was carried extremely wide making the turn into home stretch. At finish she was wearing LOMA LINDA down. BRIGHT MISS, sharply cut off at start, was picked up. BETTY BET quit in stretch after taking the lead at fortlong pole.

SECOND RACE—Seven furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start bad. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 1:37. Off at 1:43½. Winner, P. S. P. Randolph's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GAY PAL, $28.20, $12.60, $11.10; RUNNING GIRL, $9.10, $6.90; CARNIVAL, $48.70.

GAY PAL moved up with a rush on the outside in the run down the back stretch and drew away into a long lead rounding the far turn. Watters had him in hand all the last furlong. RUNNING GIRL broke fast and drew away in the first sixteenth. She saved ground all the way, but weakened under punishment and just lasted long enough to stall off CARNIVAL, latter raced on the outside all the way. DUNFERN, crowded back at the start, was pulled up.

THIRD RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:12. Off at 2:15½. Winner, P. J. Miles' b. g. † Two-dollar mutuels paid—STERN CHASER, $4.70, $3.90, $3.00; MARY M'NEIL, $6.60, $4.20; ROYAL CHARGE, $6.30.

STERN CHASER luckily avoided interference going to the first turn, raced forwardly placed until called on, came stoutly and wore the leaders down to get up in the last sixteenth. MARY M'NEIL raced into a brief lead when moving into the home stretch and finished with good energy. ROYAL CHARGE had a lot taken out of him racing WRACKSTER and FAIR MARGERY into defeat and tired. CUT STEEL closed stoutly on the outside. EUPHRATES made up a lot of ground, as did MINERALOGIST. There was a great amount of crowding soon after the break.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,400. The Aero. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:41. Off at 2:42. Winner, J. F. Schorr's br. h. (6), by Hollis—Kathleen. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $1,000 second, $225; third, $125; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23, 0:46 3-5, 1:11 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JOCK, $7.20 $3.30, $2.90; JUDGE SCHILLING, $2.50, $2.20; THE SPARE, $3.40.

JOCK, away promptly and going along with the fast, early pace, responded readily when placed to a drive and in a game finish, was up near the finish. JUDGE SCHILLING, rated close to the pace from the start, met with repeated bumping during the stretch run, only for which he may have been the winner. THE SPARE set a rapid pace, saved ground and held on well. LADY CAPULET weakened after a determined move when approaching the home stretch. RAPID TRANSIT and BEST MAN were held safe.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,500. The Combat. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 3:11. Off at 3:14½. Winner, Belair Stud's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PETO, $3.50, $2.60, $2.20; LUGGAGE, $2.70, $2.30; COLOSSAL, $2.80.

PETO, outrunning his field from the break, was rated in front after opening an easy lead rounding the first turn. He had something left when LUGGAGE and COLOSSAL challenged in the stretch run. LUGGAGE went a bit wide entering stretch and hung at the end. COLOSSAL came through on the rail entering stretch and finished fast. PORPHRY was outrun.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:45. Off at 3:48½. Winner, B. S. Mitchell's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—CURTSEY, $6.50, $4.50, $4.70; ESSARE, $5.90, $4.10; FIRST MISSION, $10.90.

CURTSEY, steadied along within striking distance of the leaders, closed resolutely in the final quarter mile to get up in the concluding strides. ESSARE followed the pace off FIRST MISSION, moved to the front entering the home stretch, but faltered approaching the finish. FIRST MISSION, rushed to the front, displayed good pace-making speed and continued with good courage when challenged. TAIL SPIN, a notorious slow beginner, closed full of run. RUANE was sent up in the softest footing on the inside when making his run and he hung badly. BILLIE LEONARD tired. BROWN TRAP raced poorly.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:18. Off at 4:21. Winner, A. Hulicoat's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MAINSHEET, $8.40, $4.00, $2.80; PRETTY PATSY, $3.80, $3.20; PAT CALHOUN, $3.70.

MAINSHEET worked her passage up on the outside, moved up stoutly rounding the far turn and was carried wide entering the stretch. She closed full of run and was going away all last furlong. PRETTY PATSY, a keen factor to furlong pole, tired badly when put to a drive and just lasted to stall off PAT CALHOUN. MOON PHASE quit under a drive. EMPLETTE pulled up lame.

RIVAL LOCAL TEAMS FACE 11TH GAME

G. W. Slight Favorite to Beat Catholic in Night Game.

that twisting, slithering sprinting style that is expected to cause a few furrows on the brows of the Colonials tonight.

G. W. appears to be the more consistent in the backfield. The surety with which Arthur "Otts" Kriemelmeyer, full back, hits opposing lines for gaines of several yards, foreshadows constant trouble for C. U. Kriemelmeyer has been named captain of his team for tonight's fray. Billy Wells' accurate passing arm might also be watched by the Cardinals.

Colonials Rule Slight Favorites.

George Washington, despite the fact that it is not quite the team it has been reputed to be all season, remains a slight favorite tonight. Yesterday's workout at Eastern Stadium saw Coach Pixlee putting a mighty keen bunch of huskies through a light signal practice, with Carlin and Wells alternating at quarter back post.

The Albright defeat has been pointed to as one of the best things that could happen to the Colonials. Another reason why Pixlee should triumph, but only by a narrow margin, is the fact that last year, with nearly the same team he has tonight he turned back with comparative ease the C. U. Freshmen, now the backbone of the Cardinals' Varsity.

G. W. no longer holds a victory over C. U. as one of those things attainable only when "iron men" fill the berths.

is all toil to them and, if it will save my amateurism, I will give him my pledge to refrain from any and all enjoyment of the Army-Navy game and regard the occasion simply as another difficult task, under vexatious conditions of labor.

The sport writers, like Mr. Hoover, should get up a committee with instructions to formulate a definite plan looking toward the proposal of constructive recommendations to take steps.

Of course, I might be able to enter the cost of my ticket on my expense account, but even so I doubt that the payment of $50 for a press ticket would be strictly consistent with the spirit of the profession and, moreover, there might come a note from the auditor saying "your contributions to charity are not chargeable to the firm and the item is not allowed."

CENTRAL ELEVEN HOST TO WASHINGTON-LEE TODAY

'C' Club Game Tops School Program

Central Eleven Host to Washington-Lee in Grid Feature.

Eastern - St. John's, Gonzaga - Western in Other Games.

THE annual grid warfare between high and prep schools breaks out again today when Central, Eastern and Western, now free of their high school series engagements, meet foes from outside the fold of the District's own houses of learning.

Central tackles Washington-Lee High, of Ballston, Va., in what promises to be the most interesting game of the day. Central's annual C Club game is played against the strongest foe obtainable, and the Central powers have been fortunate in securing the services of the fast Virginians for today's activities. It is expected that about 3,000 will see the tilt, which gets under way at 3:15 o'clock at Central Stadium.

Eastern, so recently turned back at the threshold of a high school title, makes its second appearance of the week when Paully Byrne's St. John's Cadets are entertained on Eastern Eastern was scheduled to play St. John's this afternoon at Eastern Stadium but a rush call from Coach Paully Byrne canceled the tilt on the grounds that St. John's was unable to assemble a worthy enough team for the fray.

In the remaining games of the day Gonzaga plays host to Western High at Gonzaga Field on Benning road; St. Alban's and the Christ Church gridders, of Baltimore, meet on St. Alban's Field, while Landon travels to Baltimore to meet the University School eleven.

Rauber Forced to Try New Combination.

Coach Ty Rauber, who may put his final team on the field today, inasmuch as this season promises to be his last, will try another new combination today in Central's last game of the season. Injuries and scholastic difficulties which have wiped out such performers as Pinckney, Hinkel, Cumberland, Black, Cassasa, Fitzwater, Mirman, Colella and Deveau, leaves Rauber with pretty much of a skeleton work to mold into a team.

On the other hand the Virginians are reported to be in their best shape of the year physically, and psychologically sound because of the recent return of Johnny Goodwin, the fleet back, who is their outstanding performer. Goodwin was disqualified within Ballston's State-athletic province because he appeared in the line-up of a sandlot team, but is permitted to play in games outside Ballston's precinct.

Close Battles in Other Games Expected.

The other games should produce closer football than the C Club game. It would not be surprising to see the prepsters overcome their more exploited opponents, but an event of that sort would be an upsetting of form.

Landon Prep Wins, 13-0, Over Severn High Subs

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 20.—Landon Prep, of Washington, D. C., invaded Annapolis today and scored its fourth consecutive victory by beating Severn High B squad by a score of 13 to 0.

Bill Baker, scrappy quarter back for the visitors, scored the first touchdown of the day shortly after the opening whistle, crossing over from the 5-yard line after a drive from about midfield. Al Seccomb, big full back of the Washingtonians, contributed the second touchdown late in the game after Right Tackle Bride had intercepted a Severn pass on his own 20-yard line. Seccomb hit twice, scoring on the second thrust. Baker rushed the extra point.

California Ousts Editor For Football Wrangle

Berkeley, Calif., Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Firing diminished along the California-Southern California football front today with the ousting last night of the California student editor who is credited with provoking hostilities.

Apparently the situation was relieved further by the action of University of Southern California authorities in expelling a football player who admitted his ineligibility.

Arthur Arlett, editor of the Daily Californian, whose editorial charges hinting of professionalism in the Southern California grid squad led to a near break between the two institutions, was removed from his job by the student executive committee.

NBC to Broadcast Army-Navy Game

New York, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—The Army-Navy football game December 13 for the benefit of the unemployed will be described over a Nation-wide radio chain, the National Broadcasting Co. announced today. M. H. Aylesworth, president of N. B. C., has donated the entire coast-to-coast facilities of the chain for the game.

HAMMOND, ATTENTION!

Bill Hammond, of the Pirate A. C., is requested to call Bob Leverton, of the Northerns, in regard to a game to be played this Sunday. Leverton's phone number is Columbia 4809.

Sarajevo, Jugo-Slavia
A CHURCH AT VAUXHELETS, GUERNSEY, SEATS ONLY 4 PEOPLE .... It is made of sea shells and pebbles

A TOMBSTONE that gives life is a curious belief. Yet the peasant women of the Sarajevo district, Jugoslavia, believe that a drink composed of pulverized pieces of the above gravestone mixed with milk or water will enable them to bear children. The stone, an aristocrat of the Dark Ages, is now so badly mutilated that authorities have taken steps to protect it.

Nineteen hours out of 24 the swift, in the summer, is perpetually on the wing. Starting his arduous day's flight at 3 a. m., he continues his flapping, planing and gliding until 10 p. m. The swift can fly approximately 180 miles an hour. One authority stated that with favorable weather and eternal daylight it might encircle the globe without alighting.

It wouldn't be hard to fill the little church shown above. The priest who built it used sea shells and pebbles to construct this odd place of worship.

SHIFTS LOOM ON V. M. I. ELEVEN

Reserves Battle Hard for Berths In Game Against W. and L.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Nov. 20.—A dozen private wars are in progress on Alumni Field every afternoon as members of the V. M. I. football squad battle for the privilege of starting in the Thanksgiving Day game with the V. P. I. Gobblers. The Cadets are out to redeem a subpar season at the expense of the Techmen, and with a few exceptions every position on the starting eleven is open.

Capt. Roy Dunn, 182-pound plunging full back, is of course a sure starter, as is Gilly Laughorn, dynamic little 143-pound triple threat quarterback. Left End John Gill is expected to have his 73 inches of bone and muscle guarding one flank, and Harry Ford, 190-pound tackle, has played such consistently good football in the line that there is little doubt of his being in the opening line-up.

In other positions things are not so certain. Buddy Sheil has started most of the games at center, but Tex Paxton, a senior, got the call against Kentucky, and Jim Rea, a scrappy 160-pounder, has seen plenty of service. Art Markiis and Alvis Rochelle, regular guards, are being pushed by Woods Talman, wrestling captain and Southern Conference middleweight champion.

Walker Bidding for End Berth.

Jack Walker, 150-pound sophomore, has improved with every game and threatens to replace Rand Gregory at right end. Bill Kaylor, at tackle, has a fight on his hands to hold his own against "Jesse" James, Landon Hilliard, and "Shadow" Leach.

Competition is even briaker in the back field than in the line. Lefty Williams and Stumpy Travers have the speed, but Buck Wright, a letter man from last year, and Louis Siegel, the drive that may supply the scoring a coming sophomore ball carrier, have punch. Doc Bailey, Ralph Waite, and Harry Baya are other possibilities.

HAGBERG, INJURED, TO BE OUT OF GAME

the advisability of using him. His injured leg had mended rapidly, and he has been running through signals the last few days, but the mentors prefer to hold him in reserve for the big games yet to come. But whatever course may be followed to meet these handicaps, the brunt of the Navy attack will fall on the shoulders of "Bullet Lou" Kirn, as it has in practically every game this season.

Anticipating a record breaking attendance of 23,000 for athletic contests here, officials of the Navy Athletic Association moved today to prevent a jam o nthe day of the game. Announcement was made that only persons holding tickets to the game will be admitted to the Naval Reservation.

Capt. Henry D. Cooke, director of athletics, and Lieut. Comdr. Frederick G. Reinicke, graduate manager and director of football, were busy today shaping up details for the trip to New York for the unemployment benefit game with Army. It was announced that Navy's headquarters on that occasion will be at the Hotel Commodore. With the Maryland game as the outstanding attraction, the Middies will present a varied athletic program in other respects Saturday. The Tars will oppose Dartmouth college on the soccer pitch, and the University of West Virginia in a cross-country run. The plebes will put on a football game with West Virginia freshmen and meet University of Virginia freshmen in a cross-country run. These four contests will take place prior to the varsity gridiron game.

$500,000 Netted Harvard On Grid; Other Sports Lose

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 20 (A.P.).—The financial report of the Harvard Athletic Association for the year ended June 30, 1930, today showed that varsity football with a profit of more than $500,000, was the only sport which made money.

The association showed an excess of income over expenditures of $52,961.47 for the year 1929-30, as compared with an excess of $217,171.92 for 1928-29.

Receipts for the year were $1,282,910.19, which with guarantees paid to visiting teams deducted left $938,700.62 available for athletics and physical education. Total expenses for the activities were $845,739.15.

The income from various varsity sports (guarantees to visiting teams deducted) were set forth as follows. Baseball, $20,101.11; crew, $3,681.07; football, $693,713.10; track, $20,610.47; hockey, $14,091.19.

"Dusty" Rhodes Is Named V. P. I. Basket Ball Coach

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Nov. 20.—Appointment of Charles D. "Dusty" Rhodes, former V. P. I. star, and menton of champion teams at Princeton, W. Va., high school, as varsity basket ball coach at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, was announced today by C. P. Miles, director of athletics. . . . . .

..Rhodes arrived in Blacksburg this afternoon, signed a contract for one year, and sent the V. P. I. cage squad through its first practice tonight.

Rhodes succeeds Bob Warren, former North Carolina State guard, who tutored the 1930 team. Announcement of the appointment elicited very favorabe response in Blacksburg today.

"Dusty" Rhodes gained fame on South Atlantic basket ball courts as captain and guard on V. P. I.'s 1922 and '23 teams. Three years ago he was selected a member of the V. O. I all-time team. He became director of athletics in the high school at Princeton, W. Va., in 1924 and there turned out championship teams in football, basket ball, baseball and track during six years of phenomenal expansion in all sports at the institution. Rhodes tutored Bus Hall, scoring ace of V. P. I.'s State championship freshman team last winter and permanent candidate for the 1931 varsity.

CENTRAL TRAVELS.

Central High School's basket ball team will meet the University of Pennsylvania Freshmen on February 14, at Philadelphia, according to the recently released schedule of the Pennsylvanians.

POLY DRILLS HARD FOR V. M. I.

Tech Squad Works After Dark for Turkey Day Game.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, VA., Nov. 20.—Both the football team and the corps of cadets at V. P. I. are getting ready for the grand finale to the gridiron campaign—the annual Thanksgiving Day game with V. M. I. at Roanoke.

Yearly at this time the Tech campus takes on an air of tense expectancy unknown at any other season. Now that the Gobblers have three times been turned back in the annual military classic, the tide of football spirit is rolling in ahead of schedule to herald a desperate attempt to sink the Flying Squadron.

Poly Rooters Getting Voices Ready.

While Coach Orville Neal has his gridmen going at top speed, the corps of cadets is just as serious about its own preparations for the vocal encounter with the rival corps from Lexington. The cadets are cheering the team at every opportunity and calling lustily for a win over their ancient and friendly rivals. That familiar war-cry, "Come on, V. M. I!" is heard daily about the campus.

The Gobbler team, chagrined at its failure to stop Maryland's Old Liners in the mud at Norfolk, is getting ready for the Keydets with a businesslike air. Coach Neal gave his men a Monday lay-off, but started the drive Tuesday and kept the players at their work until after dark. The managers brought out white footballs as darkness fell in order that Capt. Bird Hooper and Bus Hall could bark signals a few extra minutes.

Conditioning exercises, group scrimmages and signal drills took up most of the practice period this afternoon. Coach Neal put his secondary men through a long defensive drill against passes. This work will continue until the eve of the game in an effort to whip the Tech defense into shape for the fast passing game of Gilly Loughorn and Lefty Williams.

Grinus Back in Uniform And Ready.

Bill Grinus, big sophomore tackle, is back in uniform now and is expected to be ready for duty. He will probably nose veteran linesmen out of the picture in his climb back to first team honors, which injuries yanked from him in the Washington and Lee game.

Minneapolis Golfer Winner at Pinehurst

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 20 (A.P.).—David N. Tallman, Minneapolis, today won the fifteenth annual Carolina golf tournament, defeating Edwin L. Scofield, New York, 2 and 1.

Scofield, who tied with Robert C. Morrison, Pittsburgh, for medalist honors, was one up at the turn, but the Middle-West star shot even 4s coming in, with birdies on the tenth and sixteenth holes, to capture the title.

FINAL GAMES FACE 2 DIXIE ELEVENS

Carolina State Plays S. Carolina; Sewanee Opposes Memphis.

ATLANTA, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Saturday's football games bring two Southern Conference teams, Sewanee and North Carolina State—to the end of their 1930 campaigns, with both far down in the Dixie gridiron ranking.

Each team, however, has won a conference game for the first time in two seasons. North Carolina State has a chance to better its record by a victory over South Carolina at Columbia, but Sewanee finishes against Southwestern, of Memphis, an outside foe.

Vanderbilt is a heavy favorite to down Auburn, which has not won a conference engagement since 1926. The Vanderbilt passes, as executed by freshmen, have baffled the Auburn varsity in practice.

Maryland has its first neighborly tilt with the Navy since 1917, when the Sailors' attack swamped the Old Liners. Maryland has a good squad and hopes to catch the Navy, an in-and-out team this year, off form.

Duke Pins Hopes On Sophomore Back.

Duke expects a sophomore back, Glen Lemons, to pack a big punch in its drive against Wake Forest for its eighth consecutive victory. Lemons was hurt in the opening game and is just rounding into top shape.

After several days of rest a number of the major teams, which have Thanksgiving engagements, returned to practice today.

Georgia held its first workout since the Tulane game and Coach Mehre promised the varsity a real scrimmage either tomorrow or Saturday against the freshmen using Alabama plays.

Florida's successful aerial attack against Clemson has convinced the Alligator coach it should work against Georgia Tech and Coach Bachman is grooming a sophomore, Al Rogero, to do most of the hurling.

Shenandoah, Handley Clash in Charity Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Nov. 20.—Football teams of the Handley High School and Shenandoah Valley Academy, local institutions, will play a post-season game for charity December 5, it was decided today at a conference between officials of the two institutions. It will be the first meeting of the teams since athletic relations were severed in 1923. It was announced that the charity game will have no bearing on future relations. Ticket prices were not announced. It was stated, however, that the fund will be distributed to needy persons by a committee of citizens.

Second Sister to Wed Harvard Grid Captain

New York, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—For the second time in two years a daughter of Joseph P. Day, millionaire New York realtor, is to become the bride of a Harvard football captain.

A year ago Pauline Day married Arthur French, captain of Harvard's 1929 team. Today the Day family confirmed news that Laura Pope Day, Pauline's younger sister, is to marry James "Red" Barrett, captain of Harvard's 1929 team. The engagement will be announced formally at the Harvard dinner after the Yale game in New Haven Saturday night.

Laura has three brothers, who are Harvard graduates and a fourth preparing for Harvard.

Miss Day is 20, and finished at Spence School in New York last June. Barrett is connected with a New York banking concern.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 20.—The St. Mary's Celtics after five years in basket ball competition may not place a team on the floor this season. Already, Edward Harlow, adviser of the club, and Jack Allen, manager, have signed to affiliate with two other local aggregations.

From the sports outlook, the Virginia city will be represented by three teams in the unlimited class, Alpha Delta Omega, Del Ray and the R. F. & P. All-Stars, while the St. Mary's Lyceum Five will play in the senior division, the Alexandria High School will take care of the sport in the scholastic competition.

A definite announcement from leaders of the Celtics club regarding their future plans in the basketball sport is expected to be given out shortly.

Alexandria High School varsity eleven will travel to Culpeper Friday for their final District game with Culpeper High School. This game will begin at 3:30 o'clock.

Athletic Director Given will carry his full squad. The regular team, with exception of Jennier, will start. He is suffering from a badly injured shoulder. Jennier was hurt in a scrimmage on Wednesday.

Wilbur Wright, former star guard with the Celtics basket ball team last season, is out for the team at the University of Maryland. Wright was rated as one of the best floormen in independent circles.

The Alpha Delta Omega Fraternity eleven will meet the Quentins here Sunday in the feature football game. This contest will probably be played in Baggett's Stadium.

The Iroquois and Engine Company No. 5 teams will again clash in a city championship encounter on December 7. Plans for this game were completed after a meeting between the two managers.

Rube Hayman, Celtics' coach, has called an important practice for all players this evening in Baggett's Stadium at 8 o'clock. On Sunday the Celts clash with the Apaches in Griffith's Stadium, Washington, D. C.

The Alexandria High School Scrubs yesterday won their second consecutive football game, defeating the Pirate A. C., 7-0, in a well-contested fray in Baggett's Stadium.

Simpson, quarter back for the Scrubs, scored the winners' touchdown at the start of the second period when he plunged over the counting stripe on an off-tackle play. Lindsey added the extra point on a line plunge.

Pete Anderson, half back for the Pirates, excelled at punting. He averaged 45 yards for the four quarters. A good-sized crowd saw the battle.

Loughran-Levinsky Bout Listed Tonight

Chicago, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Tommy Loughran, former light heavyweight champion of the world, is confident that he will beat King Levinsky so decisively in their ten-round engagement in the Chicago Stadium tomorrow night that there will be no chance of an unjust verdict.

The Philadelphia boxer finished hard training yesterday, boxing three spirited rounds. He probably will enter the ring weighing around 182 pounds, with Levinsky scaling 185.

W. L. "Young" Stribling, heavyweight contender, and Jimmy Slattery, another former light heavyweight title holder, will occupy ringside seats for the Loughran-Levinsky battle. Slattery is seeking another match with Levinsky, who received a decidedly unpopular decision over him two weeks ago.

TEXACO MOTOR OIL

"..more than meets the requirements of today's high compression engines," says the

HOCHSTADTER LABORATORIES, INC.

A STUDY of this report reveals a number of interesting facts about this new lubricant. It is definitely shown that the new Texaco Golden Motor Oil has a higher viscosity at high temperatures and a lower viscosity at low temperatures. It is an oil with a flatter viscosity curve, which means greater heat-resisting qualities and a longer-lasting body.

It will hold its lubricating qualities throughout the entire range of engine temperatures with a very low oil consumption. This was substantiated and proved in a nation-wide road test under extremely varied driving conditions in which the thirteen test cars averaged 790 miles to the quart.

The new Texaco is manufactured in 5 grades: C, D, E, F, and G, conforming with Society of Automotive Engineers viscosity gradings. Sold in all of our 48 States under the Texaco Red Star with the Green T. 30¢ a quart (35¢ for Grade G).

IMPROVEMENT SEEN IN PRICES OF BONDS

Foreign Governmnet Loans Change Trend and Move Irregularly Higher.

SEVERAL RAILS ADVANCE

New York, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—While still harboring many soft spots, the tone of the bond market was considerably improved today. The continued rise of United States Governments which are considered an accurate barometer of money rates, and improvement in the share market contributed to the firmer appearance.

Second and third grade issues lagged, but were steadier as liquidation continued to wane. Foreign government loans were irregularly higher. The greatest portion of the activity in foreign loans centered in French 7s and German International 5½s which were strong.

French 7s Score Gain.

The French 7s, which have been very stable throughout all the unsettlement that disturbed the bond market in recent months, advanced ⅜ to 121, a new 1930 high, on a large turnover.

The German loan rose ½, to close at 70¾, an advance of 1¼ from its low reached this week. Heavy buying orders were from investors attracted by the high yield. The market price is now nearly 20 points under the figure at which it was marketed here and abroad last June. Irish Free State 5s reached a new high for the year in a thin market but was ⅜ net lower at the close.

High grade investment issues—carrier obligations legal for savings banks whose standing has not been jeopardized by decreased earnings and some of the strongest utility bonds—were well bought.

Postal Telegraph 5s Dip.

American Telephone 5s of 1960, American Water Works and Electric 6s were about ½ point higher. International Hydro-Electric 6s soared 1½. Ohio Public Service 7s B advanced 2½. Postal Telegraph 5s dipped 2 points to a new low.

Pressure against railroad bonds which recently depressed many issues has diminished to be supplanted by cautious buying. Baltimore & Ohio 5s gained 1¼ from their year's minimum, Chicago & Alton refundin- 3s rallied 3¼ points. St. Paul bonds improved, Louisville & Nashville 4s, up more than a point, sold only a fraction under the best price of the year. Spokane International 5s broke nearly 8 points to 50½.

High-grade industrials presented a firm appearance, but low-grade issues continued downward. Stock privilege issues held within a narrow range, despite the upward trend of stocks.

SELLING IN UTILITIES HALTS STOCKS' RISE

Net Changes Are Negligible Following on Steady Advance at First.

U. S. STEEL UP 1/4 POINT

New York, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Stocks were strong today until the last hour when selling became steady enough to pull the market down from its early highs. Net changes were largely negligible, small fractions in most of the active issues. Sales totaled 2,626,740 shares.

The late decline, largely accredited to profit-taking, marred a day of comfortable improvement in the financial markets. Wheat, again meeting Farm Board support, rose about a cent and corn was much improved. Bonds, although spotty, held reasonably firm. German 3½s, very active, showed a net advance.

Although the recurrence of bank closings in the South caused considerable informal comment, it had no effect marketwise. Wall street has attributed this epidemic to local causes and was not disturbed by its spread to North Carolina.

Professional Trend Cited.

Trading on the stock exchange, however, seemed to be largely a matter of professional buying and selling. The motor and accessory shares, for the third successive day, were taken in hand for an upward move, joined by the chemicals, utility, merchandising and chain store issues.

The demonstration in U. S. Steel, American Telephone, American Can, General Motors and General Electric carried these and other leaders through their Saturday highs before the reaction set in. Rails were higher but quiet. Maximum gains ran as high as 5 points.

Extra dividends by two railroads and an announcement by International Harvester's management that that company would maintain its present rate on the common throughout 1931 were conspicuous among the day's scant list of news items. One of the extras was by Alabama Great Southern, which is a beneficiary of the Queen & Crescent's $50 excess payment.

Brokers' Loans Decline.

The $50,000,000 drop in Federal Reserve brokers' loans in a week that had seen only one decline in the stock market was quite in line with the recent trend of speculative credit. These loans have now declined for eight successive weeks, and their total deflation in that time has been $1,037,000,000. The outstanding volume of $2,165,000,000 at the close of the week ended November 19 is, of course, another new low for the present series of figures which goes back to 1926.

The market's most active period was the first hour, from which point the advance progressed slowly but steadily until the appearance of selling in the utilities checked the rise. United States Steel pushed to 149, closing at 147⅝, up ¼. American Can and Westinghouse held the same amount of their moderate gains, while Radio and General Electric sagged by a similar fraction. American Telephone, after reaching 192¾, finished unchanged at 190⅜. Consolidated Gas, Electric Power & Light, Allied Chemical and Sears-Roebuck lost about a point. National Biscuit, Chrysler and International Harvester were up 1. Bulova, as a weak spot yesterday, rallied about 3 but yielded its gain.

The Bank of England's reserve position, despite withdrawals for France, was slightly stronger and sterling improved in sympathy. The Spanish peseta also firmed

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

Collins & Aikman

S. G. A.—I am thinking of buying Collins & Aikman, not on the showing to be made this year, but rather on the long-term prospects. Kindly give me some information and an opinion of the stock.

Answer—This company started off good in the current fiscal year but has been hit by the drop in cotton prices and smaller demand for its products. While sales are not expected to pick up much in the current fiscal period, it is believed that some improvement will be warranted in the new year. A large part of the company's output is taken by the automobile companies, while the furniture trade is a large consumer of its products. Earnings for the fiscal year ended March 1, 1930, were equal to $1.73 a share of common stock. Net income for the quarter ended May 31 last was equivalent to $1.01 a share as against only 24 cents in the corresponding period a year earlier, while a large charge-off in the following three months brought net earnings for the six months ended August 30, 1930, to 25 cents a share, as compared with $1.34 in the same term of 1929. No dividends have been paid on the common stock in the last two years, making it speculative.

Seaboard and Others.

J. A. B.—Will you kindly give me your opinion of Seaboard Air Line Railway now selling amound $1½? I would also like to have the names of some low priced stocks which you consider favorable speculative purchases. What is your opinion of Cities Service and Curtiss Wright?

Answer—Advice concerning speculative market commitments is never given in this column. Both Seaboard Air Line and Curtiss Wright, being nondividend payers, are entirely in the speculative class and therefore not worthy of consideration from an investment viewpoint. Even as a speculative issue, Seaboard Air Line lacks attraction, as the company's traffic at present is small, earnings are unfavorable and there are no prospects of any immediate improvement.

Same also holds true of Curtiss Wright, inasmuch as the prospects of its entering the dividend class for some time to come are very remote, as is indicated by the report of earnings for six months ended June 30 last, showing a deficit for the common stock of $1.03 a share. Cities Service is the only one of this trio having any claim whatsoever to the title investment. Annual dividends of 30 cents a share in cash, plus 6 per cent in stock, are now paid and have been disbursed for some time past. Earnings, already on a record-breaking scale, are steadily increasing and are much more than ample to take care of the cash dividend now being disbursed. In addition, the company is expanding along constructive lines, particularly in the highly profitable natural gas industry. At present prices, therefore, the stock looks very inviting from a speculative-investment angle.

Tide Water Oil and Others.

M. H.—I have 40 shares Tide Water Associated Oil purchased at 23¾ in 1928 and am thinking of turning it into American & Hawaiian Steamship. Will you kindly give me information on these stocks and on Bullard? Also have Radio Corporation and Pilot Radio & Tube still good prospects as speculative or investment stocks, or Curtiss Wright?

Answer—there appears no good reason why you should shift from Tide Water Associated Oil into American & Hawaiian Steamship. As a matter of fact, there seems little choice between them, both being highly speculative, notwithstanding that former pays regular semiannual dividends of 30 cents a share, which is about all there is to commend it. No regular dividends are paid by American & Hawaiian Steamship, although a special distribution of $10 a share from sale of assets, &c., was recently made. Moreover, intercoastal traffic this year shows a decline of 25 per cent.

Inasmuch as both Bullard and Pilot Radio & Tube have lately passed their dividends, these stocks are eliminated from the investment class and in their present status are highly speculative. Same is also true of Curtiss Wright and Radio Corporation, neither of which are on a dividend basis.

United Aircraft.

W. S. D.—Please give me some information, through your interesting column, on United Aircraft.

Answer—First nine months' earnings were equal to $1.21 a share, while estimates place profits for the final quarter at 40 cents, or about $1.70 for the year. United Aircraft is a holding company controlling manufacturers of airplanes, engines and propellers and operators of air transport routes and airports.

Earnings have been affected this year by the slump in demand for commercial planes and price cuts. The company is in a strong financial position, with cash, call loans and marketable securities totaling $14,436,000. Nothing is paid on the common, thus making the stock a speculation.

Segal, Family Stores, Flour Mills.

N. E. W.—I would appreciate information on the status of Segal Lock & Hardware and National Family Stores. Is the common stock of Flour Mills of America, Inc., listed anywhere? What is the current quoted value? Is the company sound?

Answer—Segal Lock & Hardware reported for year ended December 31, 1929, net income equal to $1.31 a common share after preferred dividends. This compared with 47 cents a share (on adjusted basis) for previous year. Substantial growth in earnings accounted for by various acquisitions made during 1929. Balance sheet of May 31, 1929, giving effect to merger with companies acquired, redemption of outstanding preferred stock and recapitalization, showed a ratio of current assets to current liabilities of 15 to 1. Quarterly dividends of 12½ cents a share are paid on common. It will thus be seen that last year's earnings were considerably more than double the 50-cent yearly dividend requirement on the issue. Considering this and fact that proceeds from sale of new stock are to be used to liquidate indebtedness incurred in connection with acquisition of Norwalk Lock Co., stock has some attractiveness as a low-priced, speculative investment issue.

Directors of National Family Stores, Inc., on August 7 last, declared a quarterly dividend on common, payable in stock September 1 to holders of record August 20. Previously company paid 40 cents a share quarterly in cash on common, last disbursement having been made June 1, 1930. President A. F. Lipman pointed out that sales of company for first six months of current fiscal year, ended July 31 last, showed a decline of 6 per cent from like 1929 period.

Despite reduction in sales, earnings for period are expected to show a slight increase, due to operating economies. President Lipman expressed belief that cash dividends will be resumed when financial conditions are more settled and additional working capital requirements can be more easily financed. However, stock is not so attractive as when on cash-dividend basis.

Flour Mills common stock listed in over-the-counter market, but extremely inactive. Under date of April 4, 1930, a bid of $75 a share was recorded, with no offerings. Net income for fiscal year ended May 31, 1930, $326,675, equal to $13.07 on the preferred and 38 cents a share on common. Figures compare with $225,430 for 1929, equaling $9.02 on preferred and 8 cents on common. Balance sheet as of date given showed net working capital of $3,503,017.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Sudden brisk purchasing, together with sharply higher prices, gave the corn trade a star role today. Quick broadening out, which was witnessed in the volume of corn-market transactions, went hand in hand with news that Chairman Lesze of the Federal Farm Board advocated 12½ cents a bushel increase of the United States import duty on corn. Besides, rough weather, now overspreading the corn belt, was unfavorable for completion of husking as well as for the movement of the new corn crop into distributing centers.

Closing quotations on corn were buoyant at virtually the day's topmost level, 2½ to 3¼ cents a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Wheat closed unsettled at ⅛ to 1⅛ cents net advance, oats ⅜ to 1¼ cents up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7 cents.

Giving particular zest to corn purchasing were reports that traders in the December delivery here were short about 10,000,000 bushels to meet outstanding contracts and that there were only about 250,000 bushels of the requisite grade of corn now on hand in Chicago public elevators. Meanwhile, other markets about Chicago were reported as overbidding Chicago, with no adequate stock of corn being accumulated here. Furthermore, many speculators apparently were adopting a belief that corn has become a better trading medium than wheat, for at least the time being.

From the start to finish the corn market showed a pronounced upward trend. Some of the early gains in corn values was ascribed to the influence of an advance in wheat prices, but in the later dealings the wheat market was lagging after corn—although wheat encountered rather free selling on bulges. Argentine news was of a generally bullish sort, but was more or less nullified by price declines in the Buenos Aires market.

Official reports that black rust had been responsible for 80,000,000 bushels shrinkage of the Argentine wheat crop and that 14,800,000 acres out of a total grain acreage in Argentina were rust infected, with the damage varying according to districts. Helping also to lift wheat prices was the fact that Farm Board aides had hoisted their bids ½ cent a bushel on May deliveries, as compared with quotations under which Government-sponsored agencies recently had been purchasing. No change, however, was made in bids that of late have upheld the December deliveries of wheat here. Oats moved up with corn.

Although at times receding as a result of commission house selling, the provision market later developed firmness, responsive to upturns both in hog values and in grain.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—An opening decline in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables was followed by rallies in cotton today, but prices weakened again under a renewal of liquidation in the late trading. March contracts after selling off to 11.32 at the start rallied to 11.39, but broke to 11.23 in the late trading and closed at that figure. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 6 to 13 points.

The opening was steady at declines of 1 to 5 points in response to the easier showing of Liverpool. New December sold off to 10.84 and May to 11.80 under the initial pressure, making net declines of about 3 to 6 points, and there seemed to be considerable December liquidation. This was largely in the way of switching into later months, however, and the pressure of the near months offerings seemed to subside during the middle of the day. Rallies followed on trade buying and following which carried the new December up to 10.96 and May to 11.68, making net advances of about 9 to 11 points on the more active months. The market seemed to meet a little more cotton at these figures and the selling became more active just before the close when there seemed to be some liquidation, to brokers with Western or Wall street connection and perhaps a little Southern selling. New December broke to 10.80 and May to 11.52, making net losses of 9 to 13 points, on the more active months, and these prices were at about the lowest of the day.

Trading was quiet during the greater part of the day, but became more active toward the close when the selling appeared to be a little more general. Some further buying of the later months presumably against sales of spot cotton in the South was reported during the day. Much of the business was in the way of switching from December to later deliveries, and some traders were more inclined to attribute the recent break to further readjustments of the technical position than to any special feature in the day's news.

Port receipts today, 36,719. U. S. port stocks, 3,985,931. Exports today, 13,660, making 2,938,812 for this season.

BRUENING FIGHTS AGAINST RED TAPE

Many Documents Required on Very Simple Matters in Germany.

MUDDLING, WASTEFUL

Berlin, Nov. 20 (A.P.)—"Why do a thing simply, if it can be done in a complicated way?" a German cynic once asked and the government is only now beginning to answer the question.

Filling up forms occupies much of a German citizen's time. Every change of address involves writing down particulars about one's self in seven columns, and this has to be done eight times over.

Marrying may require as many as fifteen documents. Every street car ticket is laboriously hand-punched four times, with the month, the date, the hour and the line traveled on.

At last it has dawned upon the ruling powers that all this red tape costs money. Chancellor Bruening's reform plan, aiming at simplifying domestic administration, is therefore hailed by all, except the multitude of clerks who draw salaries and pensions for handling, signing, countersigning, checking and filing the innumerable forms.

The American Ambassador some time ago notified the Reich's ministry of transportation that an American round-the-world flier might land somewhere in Germany. There would be a pistol aboard the plane for protection in case of a landing far from human habitations, and would the ministry please arrange for a German authorization-to-carry-arms certificates. This was done as follows:

The Reich's ministry of transportation wrote to the 18 ministers of the interior of the different German states.

Each of the 11 provincial governors wrote to 34 district governors.

Each of the 34 district governors wrote to 397 sub-prefects.

Each of the 397 sub-prefects notified hundreds of police stations.

All these communications had to be drafted, approved, countersigned, copied, recopied and registered in thousands of record books.

The Demokratischer Zeitungsdienst says that this was only one of hundreds of case of similar administrative muddle and waste.

For Maryland—Fair and warmer Friday, followed by light rain in extreme west portion Friday night; Saturday mostly cloudy; somewhat colder in west portion; gentle to moderate south and southwest winds.

For Virginia—Fair and warmer Friday; Saturday mostly cloudy; somewhat colder in west portion; gentle northeast and east, shifting to south winds.

The disturbance that was over the southern Plains States Wednesday night has moved north-northeastward to Minnesota, Moorhead, 29.80 inches, and it has been attended by general rains from the upper Lake region, Minnesota and eastern South Dakota southward to the West Gulf coast and by snow in the Dakotas, the western portions of Kansas and Nebraska, and in the eastern portions of Colorado and Wyoming. The rainfall was heavy in Minnesota and the Missouri Valley, Duluth, Minn., reporting a 24-hour amount of 1.70 inches. Pressure remains low from Alaska eastward to the Greenland-Iceland area and over northern Newfoundland, and it is abnormally low over most of Alaska, Kodiak, 28.86 inches. Pressure is high over the greater part of the United States, except the Missouri and upper Mississippi Valleys, and the upper Lake region, and it is quite high west of the Rocky Mountains, Pocatello, Idaho, 30.64 inches, and Block Island, R. I., 30.44 inches. The temperature has risen in the northern Rocky Mountain region and it has fallen from the southern portions of Minnesota and Wisconsin southward to Louisiana and Mississippi. The weather is still unseasonably warm, however, in the upper Mississippi Valley, the Lake region, the Ohio Valley and Tennessee.

The Minnesota disturbance will continue to move north-northeastward toward Hudson Bay, and it will be attended by light rain within the next 24 to 36 hours in the Ohio Valley, the lower Lake region, and the Appalachian region. Otherwise, mostly fair weather, but with considerable cloudiness, is probable in the Washington forecast district during the next two days. The temperature will be higher in the Atlantic States as far south as North Carolina and slightly lower in Kentucky and portions of Tennessee and Ohio Friday and the weather will become colder during Saturday as far East as the Appalachian Mountains.

MILK RACKET PLOT TRIAL TO BE BASED ON PHARMACY LAW

Trio Alleged to Have Used Poison Face Arraignment in Court Today.

SIGNED STATEMENTS ARE HELD BY POLICE

Men Freed on Bail of $1,000 Apiece Said to Advance Conflicting Stories.

While holding signed statements of the three men seized as poisoners of milk on delivery wagons, the police yesterday placed formal charges against members of the trio, who are to be arraigned in Police Court this morning. Meanwhile they are at liberty on bond of $1,000 each.

The three, Harry Maynard Rothgeb, dairy deliveryman and recording secretary of the Milk Drivers and Dairy Employes Local Union No. 246; Richard Conte, a taxicab driver, and Elmer Carr Rayford, a business agent for the Taxicab Drivers Union, all were held on two charges each of placing poison in food.

Committee Denounces Act.

The charges carry a penalty of six months' imprisonment and a fine of $200 on each count. They are covered by the pharmacy law.

The executive committee of the Washington Central Labor Union has issued a statement denouncing the acts charged to the prisoners.

"We are startled, to say the least, to learn of certain individuals who are connected with the labor movement, who have associated themselves with such a dastardly act as it is alleged they have committed.

"We feel comfortably satisfied the people of the District of Columbia do not believe that the labor officials of Washington would acquiesce in such conduct. We do not approve of it nor will it be tolerated within the jurisdiction of the Washington Central Labor Union. * * *"

Liquid Used Analyzed.

The prisoners' versions of the deeds of which they are accused are said to vary. All three are reported to admit plotting the deed, as an act of retaliation in a labor dispute. Rayford and Conte assert that Rothgeb carried out the plan, pouring the poisonous mixture over the milk. The latter is said to have accused Conte of the deed.

Some of the liquid poured on the milk bottles, declared to be a combination of kerosene and a disinfectant containing sulphuric acid, was submitted to the District chemist for analysis. In a statement to police Conte admitted that he suggested the brand of disinfectant to be used. It was purchased November 15, according to the accused man.

Raymond Neudecker and J. William Shea, attorneys, have been retained by the three men charged in the milk case.

DEMOCRATS SPEND $2,000 FOR VICTORY

Statement of Election Costs Submitted for Prince Georges County.

DONORS ARE MENTIONED

It cost the Democratic State central committee $2,000 to gain a victory in Prince Georges County at the recent election, according to the statement filed yesterday by J. Enos Ray, chairman of the committee. This was the amount turned over to the committee for the county.

Approximately $50,000 was expended throughout the State, says the report, filed with Summerfield D. Hall, clerk of the Circuit Court. The Democratic advisory committee gave $27,900 to the central committee, but $6,500 was returned.

The report gives the names of all contributors of $100 or more, also shows the amounts allotted to the various counties. The advisory committee paid the cost of the Democratic campaign in Baltimore City, Mr. Ray said, and the central committee did not contribute to this.

Mr. Ray, who acted as treasurer as well as chairman of the committee, reports that the following gave $100 or more:

Frank A. Furst, $100; William S. Gordy, $100; Albert C. Ritchie, $100; William S. Gordy, jr., $400; Robert D. Case, $100; Charles D. Gaither, $500; J. Knox Insley, $200; William Cabell Bruce, $250; Fred H. Vinup, $300; H. D. Williar, jr., $100; Charles F. Smith, $200.

Seigk, $200; Harrison Rider, $100; Joseph A. Delaney, $100; James T. Vernay, $250; John Henry Lewin, $200; Francis E. Waters, $100; James F. Hayward, $100.

The expenditures of the committee, as opposed to the sums turned over to the county committees, were for telephone, telegraph, hotel and clerical bills.

Amounts allotted to the counties were: Prince Georges, $2,000; Allegany, $2,500; Anne Arundel, $1,000; Calvert, $1,450; Caroline, $1,000; Carroll, $1,000; Cecil, $1,000; Charles, $1,000; Dorchester, $1,200; Frederick, $1,500; Garrett, $1,000; Harford, $1,000; Howard, $1,250; Kent, $1,000.

Alleging desertion, Mrs. Marie S. Mena yesterday sued Joseph R. Mena for divorce in the Prince Georges County Circuit Court. She says she was married at Baltimore in 1921, and that he left her in 1927. She asks custody of the two children. Lanadale G. Sasscer is counsel for Mrs. Mena.

Convicted of assault and battery on his wife, Margaret, Thomas Robertson was fined $5 yesterday in Police Court at Capitol Heights. A $1 fine was placed against Richard Hunt, convicted on a like charge. Hunt was alleged to have struck his wife, Frances.

Mrs. Dalsie Cranford has been appointed administratrix of the B. Wesley Cranford estate by the Orphans Court of Prince Georges County, which also acted to clear up several other matters of inheritance.

Capt. Cranford was killed several weeks ago when the fire engine on which he was riding overturned near Marlboro. Mrs. Cranford's bond was set at $1,000.

Admitting the will of John J. Forney to probate, the Court selected Henry J. Forney as executor. Bond was set at $4,500.

The Court also issued ancillary letters testamentary to Donald Woodward, son of one of the founders of Woodward & Lothrop, to clear up the estate of the elder Woodward. Bond of $100 was filed.

Tobacco Men Sign Up For New Cooperative

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Nov. 20.—Many Pittsylvania tobacco growers have signed the contract being circulated for a new tobacco cooperative, notwithstanding the disastrous result of the Tri-State Tobacco Growers' Association five years ago.

Meetings are being held and agents of the Federal Farm Board are explaining the contract which, it is said, eliminates the weaknesses of that earlier agreement. Impetus to the movement has been given by the unsatisfactory marketing conditions this year and the wide price fluctuations.

Man Wounds Himself While Hunting Alone

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Nov. 20.—Cyrus W. Wichael, 21, son of James A. Wichael, Sangersville, northern Augusta County, was accidentally shot in the foot this morning while hunting alone. One toe was shot off. Wichael said he did not know how it happened, unless he had the muzzle of the gun resting on his foot. He called for aid and neighbors rushed him to a doctor.

Wichael is the third hunting victim in the Sangersville-Mount Solon section this season. C. E. Huffner, a deputy game warden, was peppered about the head and shoulders by a companion Saturday. He was treated at the Staunton Hospital. Zeb Miller, Mount Solon bank cashier, had part of his foot blown off several weeks ago while hunting squirrels.

Dynamite-Laden Auto Crashes; Gets Flat Tire

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Nov. 20.—The city missed a rare opportunity of making the headlines yesterday when two automobiles crashed at a downtown street intersection. One was loaded with nine cases of dynamite. Outside of puncturing a tire and knotting a couple of fenders, there was no damage.

Sylvester Sprouse, of Craigsville, had purchased the dynamite and was en route home when his machine and that of Miss Myrtle Curry collided. The two drivers could not agree as to responsibility, and police issued a summons. Then Sprouse assumed responsibility, agreed to settle for damages to Miss Curry's automobile, and the summons was withdrawn.

Langham, of this city; Mrs. Alvin A. Ricker, of Youngstown, Ohio, and Robert J. Bolland, at home.

NEWEST MONOPLANE TRAVELS BACKWARD

"Ente," German Ship, Carries Rudder and Vertical Stabilizer.

HAS MANY ADVANTAGES

Berlin, Nov. 20 (A.P.).—Reversing the course of airplane design, the new Focke-Wulf "Ente" monoplane here makes many a sidewalk stroller rub his eys in amazement as he sees a passenger ship apparently cruising backward through the city's upper air.

Its silhouette in fight suggests one of the many high-wing passenger monoplanes, but where the ordinary single-engine monoplane usually carries its propeller the "Ente" carries a rudder and vertical stabilizer.

And instead of flying with its elongated fuselage in the rear, it seems to be pushing its fuselage through the air tail first.

Only when it is taxiing along the ground at some distance from the observer does the freak plane's design begin to look reasonable.

At such a moment it ceases to look like a monoplane going backward and suggests instead a great gray duck running along with wings outspread and outstretched neck skimming the grasstops with its bill as if looking for appetizing insects.

It has these advantages:

It can not "nose over" on landing, as the longest and lightest part of the fuselage is in front of its engine, making the plane's center of gravity several yards behind the front wheel of the landing gear.

It is tailspin proof. The forward stabilizer, which is really a forward wing, is set at a sharper angle than the main wing and tends to correct at once, according to the builders, any tendency to enter a spin.

Because there is no danger of "nosing over" it is possible to halt the plane after landing with the same suddenness as if it were an automobile. It can land on very small fields, a few yards from the nearest obstruction. The pilot need not worry. He may skid, just as in an automobile, if he jams on the brake too hard, but he can be sure he won't nose over.

The "Ente" has a maximum speed of 90 miles an hour and can climb to 3,000 feet in eight minutes. Driven by two 100 horsepower engines carried beneath the main wing, the plane has room in its cabin for three passengers. The pilot sits in an open cockpit forward of the cabin.

ALEXANDRIA BUDGET IS SET AT $655,026

1931 Total Shows Increase of $25,533 for Police and School Work.

GENERAL EXPENSE LESS

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The budget covering Alexandria's operating expenses for 1931 was presented to the city council yesterday and an ordinance appropriating the funds was placed on its first reading and held over under the rules. The estimated amount of the budget is $655,026, made up of the items of general operating expenses, $339,131; interest and sinking fund, $141,895, and schools, $174,000. This is an increase of $25,533 over the current budget.

The appropriation for schools carries an increase of $20,000 over last year, and this item, along with the recent appointment of six additional members of the police force, more than covers the increase. On other items the total is less than for 1930, since operating expenses for the current year were $346,948, as against $339,131 for 1931. The current item of interest and sinking fund is $128,985, as against the new figure of $141,895.

Assessment Board Reports.

The board of assessors made its formal report to the council and it will be necessary for the council to study this, as well as make a detailed study of the budget expense, before it will be possible to establish the new tax rate. A member of the council stated yesterday that the new rate would be considered at informal meetings and that it will probably be the first week in December before a definite decision will be reached.

Appropriations for sewers totaling $14,250 were approved, these being the extension of the Hooff's Run sewer from Bellefonte avenue to Luray avenue; sewer on Braddock road from Royal avenue to Russell road, and a sanitary sewer on Russell road south of Braddock road to Glendale avenue. This, it is understood, is work that can be done in cold weather, and will assure continued employment to the men now on the city pay rolls, as well as a possibility of employing additional labor.

Road Payment Approved.

An appropriation of $5,305.47, being the unpaid balance of the money due the State highway commission for work done on the north approach to Hunting Creek, was also approved.

The council received a communication from J. C Albright, district engineer of the State Highway Commission, stating that the State is ready to cooperate with the city in widening the bridge at Four Mile Run, which has been considered a dangerous hazard to motorists, the State and city each to pay one-half the cost.

Councilman Lamond, however, offered a resolution to the effect that since the hazard was created by the State, it is incumbent upon the highway commission to remove it, and that the city should take no action, especially in view of the fact that when the Mount Vernon boulevard is completed the lower or river road will practically be abandoned for passenger traffic. The highway commission recently extended the guard fence at this point, largely overcoming the danger.

Cost Thought Excessive.

The council has estimated that it would cost between $40,000 and $50,000 to widen the bridge and road into the city proper, and did not feel justified in assuming this expense at this time. A 400-watt light has been ordered placed on the bridge, as a warning to northbound motorists.

Communications protesting against the proposed increase in water rates were received from Mrs. Rathbone Smith, representing the Business and Professional Women's Club, and the residents of the subdivision of Brenton, and the city manager was instructed to reply that the council has no authority to make these rates, as that is a function of the State Corporation Commission.

Robert G. Carter, president of the Kiwanis Club, appeared before the council and announced that the board of directors of the club had decided that the Kiwanis could no longer continue the baby clinic which it had sponsored, and for which it had appropriated $900 annually, the city appropriating $300, for the salary of a nurse, and asked that the city take over this work entirely. The matter was taken under consideration.

Appropriations Asked.

Three requests for appropriations were presented by the Chamber of Commerce, through Dan S. Hollenga, business manager. They include a recommendation for the establishment of an organized welfare bureau at an annual cost of $3,000; an appropriation of $3,000 a year for advertising Alexandria, with the object of attracting to the city additional industries, and an appropriation of $2,000 for the establishment of a public park and comfort stations. These were all taken under consideration.

An appropriation of $540 as compensation for the members of the board of tax review was adopted, this being $150 for each member of the board and $90 for the clerk. Their tenure of office expires December 31.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

A MEETING OF THE WICKERSHAM COMMITTEE.

CHAIRMAN—Gentlemen, there are reports in the press that this committee is nearing definite conclusions on the prohibition situation. I trust this is not so.

First member (indignantly)—This is most surprising. I thought it almost an accepted fact by this time that this committee would never reach any conclusions.

Second member—I feel safe in saying on behalf of the committee that any fears the chairman may hold that we are anywhere near a decision may be dismissed as unwarranted.

Chairman—Thank you. These vague stories that we had finished our investigations and were about ready to report have been most disturbing, but I am happy to have your assurance that nothing is farther from the truth.

Third member—Just where are we on this prohibition matter, anyhow?

Chairman—I'm sure we'd better not go into that. I tried to figure out last night just how far we had gone and how we stood but it just didn't seem to make sense.

Fourth member—That's fine. I was afraid we might possibly have put ourselves in the position of having agreed on something.

Fifth member—I am surprised that any member of this committee should even suspect such a thing.

* * * *

CHAIRMAN—How long have we been considering the prohibition situation, anyhow?

(There is no answer.)

Chairman—Doesn't anybody remember?

Second member—I've got the date home somewhere in an old diary.

First member—I've been trying to figure it out, but my memory isn't what it used to be.

Chairman—At any rate, as I understand it, we are in accord on the . . .

Four members (excitedly)—We are in accord on nothing. Say what you wish, Mr. Chairman, but do not accuse us of accord.

Chairman—I apologize. What I meant to say was that, as I understand the situation, we are fairly well committed against the repeal of the prohibition amendment.

Five members (in unison)—Where did you get that idea?

Chairman—In the papers.

Five members—Well, maybe there's something in it.

Chairman—We are, also, unless I am in error, opposed more of less to legalizing four per cent beer. Am I correct?

Fourth member—I think you may say that we are of that opinion, subject to change without notice.

Chairman—And we have, to a certain extent, concluded that modification to permit the distribution of liquors by the dispensary system would be had, have we not?

Fourth member—You're correct, Mr. Chairman, so far as I am clear on the matter.

Chairman—What, may I ask, is there left for this committee to recommend as a possible solution of the dry situation?

Second member (drearily)—I was afraid you'd bring a point like that up.

Chairman—I'm sorry.

Fourth member—Mister Chairman, I move we adjourn at once.

Chairman—Why?

Fourth member—Three of the members are discussing a light wines and beer amendment over in the corner and they are in imminent danger of agreeing with one another.

Chairman—Let us adjourn immediately before it is too late.

Newspaperman (accosting the chairman as the meeting breaks up)—Mr. Chairman, the American public would like to get some idea how the Wickersham committee stands on the prohibition matter, which it has been investigating these many months.

Chairman (putting on his hat and making for the nearest exit)—So would I!

"I can't keep the wolf from the door," he moaned, desperately.

"And why not? You haven't even tried," complained his wife.

"I have tried," he fired back at her, "and it won't eat apples."

Four of Danville Strikers Jailed

Lack of U. S. Intervention May Cause Walkout to Last Till Christmas.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Nov. 20.—Four Danville strikers today started serving jail terms. Ernest Moore, Ben Carwell and Harvey Boyter were fined $50 and the equivalent in jail is 90 days. Roscoe Pell must serve 60 days "flat" time and pay a $50 fine as well. All were convicted of intimidating non-union workers.

Failure on the part of efforts to bring about Federal intervention in the strike was viewed here today as meaning that the dispute will last through Christmas. Union officials announced that the flow of relief money is now more general and that the effectiveness of the American Federation of Labor's appeal is now being seen, though no figures were announced. The eviction question also has been settled for the time being with union officials assured that the mill management will not turn out workers from company houses this winter though such a course may be seen next spring if the mills make an effort to operate with nonunion labor.

Paul Aymon, president of the Tennessee Federation of Labor, addressed the strikers today in their hall and asked "What is the Government going to do about it?"

COMMITTEE IS ELECTED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

Mrs. Harry Moran has been elected president of the East Falls Church Citizens Association, which held its November meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Van Doran Wednesday night. Other officers elected were Mrs. John F. Trabold, vice president; Mrs. Philip Talbott, secretary, and Mrs. Mary Smythe, treasurer. Mayor L. F. Daniel and Councilman Charles Gage addressed the meeting following the election of officers, explaining the water situation within the corporation limits, and gave a description of the proposed new extension of water mains into the Fairfax County portion of the town.

The Northwest Citizens Association of Falls Church met at the home of Bowie Roberts and voted to go on record as favoring a bond issue to provide a municipal owned water system for the town. A straw vote was taken among the freehold property owners present as to bonding the town for this purpose, and the vote showed a majority of more than 10 to 1 in favor of such a proposition. Following the talks of Mayor Daniel and Councilman Gage on the various methods of construction and plans for the financing of the project now under consideration by the town council and joint citizen committees, a general discussion as to the benefits which will accrue to the town with the completion of the system was held.

The Northwest Association plans to invite Dr. R. H. Seargeant, chief of the Alaskan Topographical Survey of the United States Geological Survey, to give an illustrated lecture on Alaska. All civic organizations of the community will be invited to attend the lecture when it can be arranged. Mrs. L. P. Daniel, Mrs. Byron Austin, R. E. Kendrick and E. L. He has asked Game Warden Carter to appeal to the local sportsmen to send him the craws taken from bob white, quail, ruffed grouse, mourning doves and wild turkeys killed in the various sections of Fairfax County. A careful examination of the food in the craws received by the State department will be made and from this survey the food habits of these wild birds will be determined. When these are known it is planned to secure seeds and grains of the most important food sources and sow them in the different localities, especially where the natural sources are scarce.
